MOTHER IN LAW'S EXALTED TOO MUCH

Mrs. Herrick Says She Was Ignored, Husband Transferring Attention to "Birdie"

"No Automobile Rides for Me," Says Wife in Her Complaint in Court

OAKLAND, Feb. 8.—Transferring all his affections and his little attentions from his wife to his mother for the last 16 months was the charge against Carleton Erwin Herrick in an action for divorce instituted today by Attorney Harry A. Encell in behalf of Mrs. Mary Ellen Herrick.

Herrick's mother is figured throughout the complaint as "Mrs. James, also known as Mrs. Herrick," but the aggrieved wife says that she has forbidden her grandchildren to use either of these appellations and that she is always referred to as "Birdie."

The complaint accused Herrick of constantly snubbing and slighting his wife and exalting his mother. Herrick often locked himself in his room in conference with his mother and the subject of their discussions was always kept secret from her, says Mrs. Herrick. "Automobile rides in Herrick's motor car were everyday treats for his mother, but none was there for his wife. Mrs. Herrick said he told her that when he wanted her company he would let her know."

Mrs. James went out to Sunday dinner with Herrick, but Mrs. Herrick said that she had to stay home and mind the children and that many times there was no food left in the house for them. She added that her husband refused to provide her a home, but paid the installments on his mother's property with their community earnings. While she was neglected, Mrs. Herrick said that her husband earned $300 a month as an insurance broker at San Francisco. She asked for alimony and the custody of their two small children. The Herricks live at 3109 Ellis street, Berkeley.

Maud E. Allen said that William T. Allen, a carpenter, beat her after she had returned from being operated on, and had called her names and abused her. She sued for divorce today.

Clara I. F. Evans, in a suit for divorce, accused Hilton S. Evans of deserting her two years ago, and though established in business at Sacramento, of failure to provide for her.

Antoinette L. Shay sought suit for divorce against Leland S. Shay, alleging that he abused her and her friends.

Annie Cozzens sued Frank Cozzens for divorce, charging that he kicked her and choked a young girl in their house until she had to call the police.

RECLUSE'S HEIRS FOUND LIVING IN POVERTY

Australian Farmers Inherit $15,000 From Cunningham

BERKELEY, Feb. 8.—Word reached here today that Detective Bleakmore of San Francisco, who arrived at Victoria, B. C., from Australia, had been successful in finding on a ranch at Newcastle, Australia, the four heirs of Stephen Cunningham, the famous recluse who died of ptomaine poisoning in a Shattuck avenue lodging house, supposedly almost a pauper, but who was found to have more than $15,000 in the bank.

Deputy Coroner Niehaus had been unable to find trace of the old man's relatives. Nobody knew of Cunningham's life, except that he had been a tailor.

Cunningham died November 30, 1911, and since then the coroner's office has lost track of the case, having turned the property over to the public administrator. But a search was instituted for heirs and there were accordingly found at Newcastle, Australia, living in poverty on a ranch near the town.

The heirs reported by the detective are Patrick and Michael Cunningham, Mrs. Bridget Willis, a widow, and Mrs. Katherine Kane, also a widow. They are the brothers and sisters of Cunningham, who had believed him dead in America years ago.

PROF. STEPHENS DELIVERS LECTURE ON DICKENS

Berkeleyans Present Tableaux From Author's Novels

BERKELEY, Feb. 8.—Prof. H. Morse Stephens lectured last night on "The Life and Character of Charles Dickens" at the Berkeley high school auditorium, the occasion being the Dickens centennial. His lecture in part was a definition of Dickens' superb power as a character portrayal, which, Professor Stephens insisted, was acquired or developed by his long term as a newspaper reporter.

The proceeds of the affair were for the benefit of the women's association of the First Congregational church. Prominent men and women of Berkeley took part in the tableaux, which represented scenes from Dickens' novels.

GIRL'S DISAPPEARANCE IS PARTLY EXPLAINED

Claudia Carter Souza Believed Working Own Way

OAKLAND, Feb. 8.—The mystery surrounding the disappearance of 17 year old Claudia Carter Souza, who was home of her foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Walker, at 2840 Chestnut street, was partly cleared today by W. R. Tucker, a friend of the young girl, who called on Captain of Inspectors W. J. Petersen and told what he knew of the case.

According to Tucker, Miss Souza told him when he called on her Saturday night that she was tired of the restrictions placed upon her by the Walkers and intended to leave home and seek employment to make her own way in the world. She said that she could no longer bear what she called the narrow religious routine of the Walkers.

Following this statement by Tucker it is believed by the police that the girl will be found either in Oakland or San Francisco within a few days and will be persuaded to return home.

LAWYER HELD FOR COURT CONTEMPT

H. K. James of Alameda Guilty of Violating Judge's Restraining Order

OAKLAND, Feb. 8.—Attorney Howard K. James of Alameda was adjudged in contempt of court by Superior Judge Waste today and will be fined or sentenced to a term in the county jail Friday afternoon.

It was proved to the court that James had an attachment placed on the East Side Hardware company store, at Twenty-third avenue and East Fourteenth street, after he had been served with a restraining order issued by Superior Judge Wells.

Testimony showed that James was the attorney and secretary of the company and that he assigned a claim for $100 attorney's fees against it. The company had an agreement to sell to W. S. Britt, and Britt had taken possession, but the formal transfer had not been made when the piece was locked up at James' order.

James had a deputy constable sworn in to serve the attachment, which was issued by an Alameda justice of the peace, and the testimony showed that James had advised the deputy constable.

A plea was made for clemency for James, on the ground of physical disabilities, but Judge Waste said he could not consider the plea owing to the fact that the action complained of extended over a period of several days in all its phases and could not have been made on snap judgment.

In closing the store a branch post-office was locked up and United States postal inspectors forced its reopening.
