

WOMAN'S WORLD

The Smart Set

SHROVE Tuesday tomorrow and the end of an interesting season. It hasn't been a mad rush of parties, but a singularly significant season of social evolution. This has a large sound of race progress. Possibly evolution in Greenway sets really is race progress. If there is uncertainty about ragging, there is surely something of modern humanitarianism in the new order that assures the dancing classes of three meals a night. Breakfasts at balls were established in the season of 1911-12.

Also the feminine emancipation was marked by cigarettes at Crocker balls and Greenway dinners. Not that every one smokes, but any one may. It is a polite vice in good standing, if they insist on "vice" in W. C. T. U. circles. Cigarettes received their cachet and conservatives are no longer deceived.

But the most encouraging signs of the season were a suit of gray evening clothes and the decadence of silk hats. The gray clothes were in evidence only at dinners, and the theater, but silk hats were slighted everywhere. Half the men at Greenways had derbys in the dressing room. The other half surrendered to some idea of honoring a hostess they dined with, or followed a custom of years with the indifference of age.

Considering that the silk hat fashion was introduced in 1797 it certainly does seem time for a new one. Considering, too, that John Hetherington who introduced it was taken before the lord mayor of London for disorderly conduct and fined $500 pounds, having caused a riot in the Strand, the persistence of the silk hat assumes a curious interest. Some mystery of masculine psychology must account for it.

At the famous trial constables stated there was an evident intention to frighten people and that children were terrified, which seemed to please John Hetherington. No one supposes, of course, that modern men wear silk hats to frighten children; and no one fumes them for wearing them. But it is too bad John Hetherington's 500 pounds didn't establish a precedent.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt Jr. are expected home from their eastern trip the first week of March, but to the regret of their California friends, are making plans to return to New York to reside.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel T. Murphy are preparing to take possession of their new home at Burlingame. The residence, which adjoins that of Mrs. Murphy's brother, George Pope, has just been completed.

Reginald Fernald Rogers of Santa Barbara was a visitor in San Francisco last week en route to London, where he will pursue a literary career. He has recently written a volume of verse.

Miss Eleanora Sears is at her home in Boston preparing for her departure for California this week. She will arrive on the 27th to visit Mrs. Frank Carrol at Burlingame.

Mrs. Will Tevis, who witnessed the accident to her son on the polo field last week, has been confined to her home in Broadway suffering from shock. Will Tevis Jr. is recovering from the effects of the accident, in which his arm was broken.

Miss Flora Wilson of Washington, who is a guest at the St. Francis, is being entertained before her departure for southern California, where she will spend the Lenten season. Miss Wilson made many friends on her visit to San Francisco last year.

Special Dispatch to The Call
SAN JOSE, Feb. 18.—Dr. Thomas William Healey, who has been out of town of several days, surprised his friends today when he returned to San Jose with a bride.
Mrs. Healey was Miss Margaret Coleman, formerly of Napa but more recently of New York, where she was known in theatrical circles as Genevieve Kane.
A fortnight ago she foresook the footlights, cut short her theatrical career and hurried across the continent to become the bride of Doctor Healey. The marriage was performed in old St. Mary's church in San Francisco Thursday.

KENNETT, Feb. 18.—The anti-saloon league last evening filed a petition asking for a city election on the saloon license question. The petition had 131 signatures. Three hundred have registered to date. The city trustees must call the election for April 8, the date of the regular city election.

MAYOR MOTT TO GREET Y. W. C. A.

Annual Feast and Entertainment At Church

OAKLAND, Feb. 18.—The members of the Young Woman's Christian association will hold their annual dinner and meeting in the parlors of the First Congregational church Tuesday evening. Miss Grace M. Fisher, president of the association, will preside, and the company will be entertained with solos by Miss Edith Cooke and duets by Miss May Gilmore and Ralph Fisher.
After the dinner the superintendents of the various departments will talk of their work. Among those who will speak are Mrs. J. B. Richardson, committee on relationships; Mrs. F. T. Barbour, educational classes and gymnasium work; Mrs. Vernon Waldron, boarding home, cafeteria, employment bureau and Camp Meeker; Mrs. C. M. Hill, administration work, membership and finance committees; Mrs. John Beckwith, social and recreation. Reports will be read by Mrs. Eliza Wolfenden, recording secretary; Mrs. Florence Wells, treasurer, and F. G. Harper, auditor.
A novel feature of the entertainment will be a farce entitled "A Day at Association." Headquaters of the various daily incidents at the building at Fourteenth and Castro streets.
Mayor Mott will greet the association in the name of the city, and an address will be delivered by Rev. Herbert A. Jump, pastor of the First Congregational church. The other speakers will be Miss Isabel Smith, educational and religious work secretary; Miss Myrtle Mills, executive secretary; and Miss Ida Green, who will discuss "What a Young Woman's Christian Association Stands For in the Community."

RELATIVES RENOUNCED BY KIMMEL CLAIMANT

White Says Mother and Sister Broke Ties
ST. LOUIS, Feb. 18.—Andrew J. White, claimant in the Kimmel mystery case, which is being tried in the United States district court, renounced Mrs. Estelle Kimmel and her daughter, Mrs. Edna Bonstet, mother and sister of the missing George A. Kimmel, as his mother and sister, today.
"These women are no longer my mother and sister," the claimant said. "I mean, of course, that they are my blood relations, but I feel no kinship for them."
"Our relationship was killed by their actions toward me in this litigation."

YELLOW FEVER DRIVES SHIP INTO SALINA CRUZ

Five Sailors on the Akalis Are Stricken
SAN DIEGO, Feb. 18.—With five cases of yellow fever among its crew, the British ship Akalis put into Salina Cruz for medical aid early last week, according to advices just brought here by the American-Hawaiian steamer Nebraska. The ship was immediately placed under quarantine off that port, although medical aid and supplies were sent aboard, neither officers nor members of the crew were allowed a landing. Other cases have developed on the ship since, but no fear of the fever spreading to the town is felt.

MODESTO TO HAVE $85,000 HOTEL BY THANKSGIVING

Special Dispatch to The Call
MODESTO, Feb. 18.—Announcement was made here that work will start March 1 on a four story hotel at the corner of Eleventh and H streets in this city. The hotel will contain 92 rooms, all facing the outside and nearly all with bath. There will be eight stores on the ground floor besides the lobby and dining room. It is expected to have the hotel open for business by Thanksgiving.

STREET SPEAKERS DRAW LOTS FOR IMPRISONMENT

SAN DIEGO, Feb. 18.—The nightly demonstration of those who are defying the free speech ordinance of San Diego, was held this evening. Two thousand curious persons looked on while the police detailed to preserve order made ten arrests. A half hour before the meeting the agitators held a meeting and drew lots to determine which ten of their number would go to jail. They now claim that they will follow this course each night.

Failure? Only One Real Kind Possible---By Ruth Cameron

THERE is only one real failure possible and that is not to be true to the best one knows.—Canon Farrar.

"I had a dream the other night," said Molly, the little stenographer lady, possessing herself of the tongs and reconstructing the fire which the wants-to-be-a-cynic had just laid.

"Indeed," said the wants-to-be-a-cynic. "How remarkable. Was it the first time that ever happened?"

"Go on, Molly. Don't mind him," said the author man. "He's just jealous because you're making the fire burn better than he did. He can't make a fire."

There is a continual rivalry in the family as to who can make the best fire. We all agree that making a good fire is a fine art, but that is all we do agree on. Each of us has his own particular style, and each new arrival considers it his privilege to take the tongs and readjust the logs according to his school of fire building.

"It was the queerest, most interesting dream," went on Molly, laying down the tongs after having set the top log crosswise—she is of the cross-wise school—"that I ever had." I dreamed I was dead.

"More chalk," murmured the wants-to-be-a-cynic, with simulated horror. "I know its going to be that dream about going back for more chalk."

"I dreamed I was dead," repeated Molly serenely, ignoring him, "and I went somewhere, I don't know just where." The cynic showed signs of breaking out, but was silenced by the author man. "At first I was all alone in a big room, and then a man in white clothes, like we read about, came up to me. He had a woman with him and said he wanted me to meet her. And who do you suppose it was?" Nobody guessed. "It was me—I mean I," said Molly, "only different. She looked like me, but she was so much prettier. She was plumper, had red cheeks like the doctor said I would if I'd do my exercises, and was taller, or I guess she just looked taller because she stood so fine and straight. I asked the man who she was and he shook his head and kind of melted away and left us together, so I began to talk to her. She had the sweetest voice and she knew everything. She'd read all the books that I've always meant to read and she could play the piano wonderfully, like I might if I only hadn't stopped practicing when I went to work. And somehow I felt she never lost her temper like I do and that everybody that knew her must love her."

"I don't know how I knew all these things, for I'm sure she didn't tell me. I just sort of felt them the way you do in dreams."

"Still, I didn't know who she was and she wouldn't tell me, so when I saw the man who brought her to me I ran up to him and asked him again, and this time he said, 'Why, haven't you found out yet? She's the girl you might have been. She's going to be your companion everywhere you go.' He said, 'there she is now.' And I looked around and there she was behind me. We were in a room where there was a big mirror, and when I looked around I saw us both in it, and she looked so much sweeter and nicer than I just hated myself and wanted to go away and hide, but when I tried to she followed right after like a shadow."

Molly fell silent.
"And then what?" prompted the author man.
"And then I woke up and was glad I was awake," finished Molly.
"And made good resolutions?" suggested the wants-to-be-a-cynic a bit mockingly.
"And made good resolutions," said Molly defiantly.
"I guess it wasn't half so bad a dream for you as it would have been for most of us if we had dreamed it," said the author man thoughtfully.
"I should say not," agreed the wants-to-be-a-cynic emphatically and not at all mockingly this time.
And the fire snapped out loudly and suddenly as if it also agreed.

ARGENTINA-PARAGUAY PEACE PACT IS SIGNED

Trouble Between South American Republics Averted
BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 18.—Friendly relations have been re-established between Paraguay and the Argentine Republic.

Senor Bosch, minister of foreign affairs, and the Paraguayan minister of justice, Frederico Casas, today signed a protocol as the result of negotiations of the last three weeks for settlement of the trouble between the two republics. Paraguay, it is announced, has given satisfaction to Argentina for attacks on Argentine shipping and property.

It is expected that the diplomatic representatives of the respective countries will return to their posts immediately.
