

WOMAN'S WORLD

The Smart Set

SOME one writing in Washington remarks the vogue of Buddha. He has been popular for years in San Francisco. Usually in bronze, though carved wood and ivory figures are found in many living rooms. Also in the shrines where Buddha muses in bronze in the hall of Beaulieu.

Mrs. Carolan is especially fond of him. She is really very much of a scholar in an interesting dilettante way. Awfully well versed in eastern lore. She has books about the ancient religions and has read old Hindu philosophers and Confucius. Last year Mrs. Carolan studied Bahaim, that strange, universal religion spreading out of India. Not that she personally subscribes to orientalism. It is an aesthetic and spiritual experiment with her. As for Buddha, she merely admires his perfect lines and symmetry, and the brooding calm that makes him one of the world's seven wonders. It is a wretched distinction, like being a book on President Elliott's five foot shelf, but some one made it years ago and Buddha has the company of pyramids and a Sphinx for his consolation. Any one, it seems, might be accorded appreciation of a world's wonder without an accusation of orientalism.

They say in Washington, though, that Buddha in boudoirs (agreeably illiterate), give inspiration to tired maids and matrons who withdraw from the rush of a season for hours of introspection in his presence. When Mrs. Lars Anderson was in Japan last year, briefly resting in San Francisco en route, she found a wonderful Buddha. Not all the reproductions of the famous figure catch the serene tolerant understanding in its face. But the one Mrs. Anderson found in a Yokohama bazaar is excellently like the god of Kamakura in whose hands was recently photographed a trio of Bohemians. When they were in Japan, Raphael Weill, Frank Unger and Dr. Ainsworth made a pilgrimage to Buddha, who was once reproduced effectively in plaster for a mid-summer jinks. It was in the old Bohemian grove, and the great, white figure among the trees was tremendously impressive.

Also in Washington, Mrs. Winthrop Murray Crane has a Buddha, and Mrs. Clarence Moore, both of them always among the patronesses. So has Colonel Fred May, the brother of Mrs. William Babcock of San Rafael, who is the father of Cecelia May, heroine of a broken engagement to Ambassador Bacon's son. They say she is to announce a second engagement soon. But these are digressions.

Miss May Power, the attractive sister of Neal Power, is visiting here from Washington. She has been the incentive for a series of entertainments. Mrs. J. A. Driscoll entertained at a recent dinner for Miss Power, and among those who enjoyed the affair were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Driscoll, Dr. and Mrs. Herbert Moffitt, Miss Verdon, Neal Power and Judge Campbell of the United States circuit court of Manila. Doctor Campbell entertained in honor of Miss Power, and Neal Power was host at a dinner given at the St. Francis for the popular visitor. Miss Power will leave in August with her brother for her eastern home. She has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Tom Driscoll at Burlingame.

Miss Merle Madden returned to town yesterday after a trip to Del Monte and Carmel and is again at the home of her father, Will A. Madden, in Jones street.

Society Matron of Army Soon to Leave the City

Mrs. Carroll D. Buck, who will remain here for a month as the guest of her mother, Mrs. J. de Barth Shorb, before joining Major Buck, U. S. A., at Fort Mackenzie, Wyo.

THE friends of Mrs. Carroll D. Buck, the attractive wife of Major Buck, U. S. A., are regretting that she will leave within a month for Fort Mackenzie to remain for two years. Major Buck has recently been ordered to the Wyoming post, and has already gone to his new station. Mrs. Buck remained here for a brief visit with her mother, Mrs. J. de Barth Shorb, at the family home in Broadway, before leaving to join Major Buck. She has taken an active interest in the affairs of the younger set, and her skating parties will be missed in the social program this winter. Major and Mrs. Buck have been at Alcatraz for the last two seasons, but have been frequent visitors in town, where Mrs. Buck has occupied an important place as social dictator for the affairs of the younger contingent.

Curtis has been ordered. Before their departure from Yerba Buena, where they have been stationed, Doctor and Mrs. Curtis are being informally entertained at farewell affairs.

Mrs. Francis J. Young will leave next week for Cisco in the high Sierra, where she will join Mr. and Mrs. Roy and Lettie Oliver and will remain two weeks.

Mrs. Lovell White left yesterday for a visit of a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Ralston White at Mill Valley.

Miss Elizabeth Jones was hostess at one of the recent dinner parties given at her home.

Raphael Weill will remain in Paris until September, according to his present plans, and has just arrived in the French city after an interesting trip through the Suez canal, along the Mediterranean and through Italy.

Mr. and Mrs. Robin Hayne are receiving a cordial greeting from their friends in town and San Mateo since their return from their wedding journey abroad. They are the guests of Mrs. Robert Y. Hayne at San Mateo.

Miss Marian Miller, whose marriage with Bernard Ford will take place later in the season, is being entertained at a series of informal affairs at Ross. One of the recent dinner parties for the young couple was given by Mr. and Mrs. George A. Moore.

Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Ghirardelli are enjoying a visit in Portland, where they will remain during the month.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Mansfeldt are passing the month of July at Del Monte.

WOMEN VOTERS FIGHT RECALL

OAKLAND, July 8.—To fight the recall, instituted following the Industrial Workers of the World disturbances, the Women's Good Government league has secured a large registration of woman voters by sending out special registration deputies who made a house to house canvass, according to the plan. The election will be held August 5 and Mayor Frank K. Mott, F. C. Turner, commissioner of public health and safety, and W. J. Bacaus, commissioner of streets, have been assured by the women's organization that a big vote will be polled "against the recall and for law and order."
The work of the canvass was in charge of Mrs. Nellie Nelson, Mrs. J. M. Porter, chairman of the club, and Mrs. J. W. Rook, secretary. The city was divided into precincts, deputies going to every home in each precinct.
A series of meetings will be held by the club in all sections of the city at the homes of members of the club in the afternoons and evenings. All women in the respective neighborhoods will be asked to attend.
"The league has gone into the campaign with much earnestness," said Mrs. John Nelson Porter, the president. "We want the whole world to know that the women of Oakland are for the American flag and are against anarchy."

MARE ISLAND OFFICERS ARRANGE FOR DANCE

One of the lectures will be given at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning in the Hearst mining building and will be illustrated with "canned music," consisting of violin solos of Mischa Elman. NIECES CONTEST WILL OF MINER

[Special Dispatch to The Call]
SACRAMENTO, July 8.—Mary Mulhare and Margaret Gibbons, nieces of the late Patrick Campbell, pioneer miner of Smartsville, filed in superior court here today a contest of the will recently filed here. The nieces charge undue influence on the part of Albert Rigby, a nephew, Bernard Campbell, a cousin and James F. Sheehan, an attorney of San Francisco.
The contest filed today further complicates the fight for possession of the $250,000 estate of the eccentric miner. It is pending in San Francisco another suit regarding the will and a charge of kidnaping against Bernard Campbell, who is alleged by Albert Rigby to have abducted Patrick Campbell.
The Sacramento will bequeathed about $200,000 for education of poor boys of California who aspire to be Catholic priests.

GIRL AT PHONE MAKES TROUBLE

[Special Dispatch to The Call]
WOODLAND, July 8.—Developments here tonight show conclusively that little people should be seen and not heard. Since Friday evening the local authorities and nearly every sheriff in this section of the state have been searching for Miss Vera Wilder, a 13-year-old girl whose parents live at Gardnerville, Nevada.
Miss Vera was to have visited with friends in this city and a telephone call saying that she had not arrived Friday evening caused intense anxiety and trouble. Another message Saturday morning stated that Miss Vera was in the night land with a male companion but the authorities failed to locate the missing girl in that place, with the result that the whole county was worked up over the probability that the little girl had been kidnaped. A message tonight from the home folk at Gardnerville solved the problem. A little girl friend in this city proved to be the mysterious voice that was heard so many times over the telephone.

GIRLS RUN FROM PAPA'S SPANKS

ALAMEDA, July 8.—Alice Stansbury, 17 years of age, and her sister, Mary, 14, object to corporal punishment at the hands of their father, T. L. Stansbury of 2307 Clinton avenue.
The girls returned home late after spending the day in Oakland. Their father met them at the gate and then announced that he was going to spank them for disobeying his order to be home at 5 o'clock in the evening. They went to the police station and related their troubles.
Secretary M. J. White of the society for the prevention of cruelty to children, who lives here, was notified. He returned with the girls to the Stansbury home and succeeded in patching up a truce between father and daughters.

COUPLE DECIDE TO CALL ON MOTHER

[Special Dispatch to The Call]
PETALUMA, July 8.—Wondering whether it would be better to meet mother at McCray or meet her in San Francisco Mr. and Mrs. Hart Weaver, who eloped Saturday from McCray and were married at San Rafael, stopped at Petaluma today for deliberations. The absence of father from San Francisco decided the cast and they left this afternoon in their touring car to throw themselves on the maternal bosom in the city.

HAPPY THO' MARRIED?

There are unhappy married lives, but a large percentage of these unhappy homes are due to the illness of the wife, mother or daughter. The feelings of nervousness, the fogged mind, the ill-temper, the pale and wrinkled face, hollow and circled eyes, result most often from those disorders peculiar to women. For the woman to be happy and good-looking she must naturally have good health. Dragging-down feelings, hysteria, hot-flashes or constantly recurring pains and aches—are the great drains upon a woman's vitality and strength. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription restores weak and sick women to sound health by regulating and correcting the local disorders which are generally responsible for the above distressing symptoms.
"I suffered greatly for a number of years and for the past three years so bad that life was a misery to me," writes Mrs. R. F. Dwyer, of Utica, Ohio. "The doctors told me I would have to go to a hospital before I would ever be better. A year ago this winter and spring I was worse than ever before. At each period I suffered like one in torment, and the mother of six children. I was so bad for five months that I knew something must be done, so I wrote to Dr. R. V. Pierce, telling him as nearly as I could how I suffered. He outlined a course of treatment which I followed to the letter. I took two bottles of Favorite Prescription and one of Golden Medical Discovery and a fifty-cent bottle of Smart-Weed, and have never suffered much since. I could tell every suffering woman the worst ever what a boon Dr. Pierce's medicines are. There is no use wasting time and money doctoring with anything else or any one else."
The Medical Adviser by R. V. Pierce, M. D., Buffalo, N. Y., answers hosts of delicate questions about which every woman, single or married ought to know. Sent free on receipt of 31 stamps to pay for wrapping and mailing only.

Positiveness Must Always Be Qualified—By Ruth Cameron

If you can keep your head when all about you are losing theirs and blaming it on you; If you can trust yourself when all men doubt you, But make allowance for their doubting, too; If you can wait and not be tired by waiting; Or being lied about, don't deal on lies; Or being hated, don't give way to hating; And yet don't look too good or talk too wise."
—Kipling.

To be clever is an excellent thing. To know how to throw a veil of unconsciousness and pretense of being just like other people over your cleverness is even better. Likewise, to be accurate and right when you make a statement is a good thing. To know better than to be positive when you make one of these accurate statements is even better. I wonder if there is any quality which wins for its possessor more dislike than positiveness? It may be founded on the most praiseworthy accuracy and "well informedness," but that makes no difference—to a world made up mostly of common people, positiveness is always irritating. Haven't you often noticed how delighted every one is when one of the positive folks by any chance is wrong? If one else made the same blunder he would be unostentatiously set right. But when the positive man makes the mistake, it is heralded abroad and laughed over and made fun of, with great eclat. The positive one can not understand this. It seems most unjust to him. "I'm sure I'm usually a good deal more correct than these people who are crowding over me for this one blunder," he thinks resentfully. Quite so, my friend, but you forget that by your "I-am-always-right" attitude you have been rubbing it into these people so long that they couldn't help being delighted at a chance to return the compliment. For any girl—or man, either, for that matter—who desires popularity, I should recommend positiveness as a red light on the track to be sedulously avoided. Be as accurate and well informed and as "right" as you can, but don't let on that you are so. People will like you much better if you let them have the pleasure of discovering these qualities in you. People always like to discover things, you know. "Be sure you're right, then go ahead," is excellent advice from a moral standpoint, but for social conduct, "be sure you're right, then keep it to yourself," is better. For no matter how well you fulfill the rest of Kipling's "ifs," if you fall in that one, if you look too good or talk too wise," you nullify the rest and do not reach the full measure of a man.
