

LEGION TAKES GOODWILL OF CANADIAN CITY

Boosters Assured That Victoria Will Have Large Part in the Exposition

Wheeler Delivers Address on Significance of Canal in International Politics

VICTORIA, B. C., Aug. 28.—The "Flying Legion" took its departure from Victoria at midnight deeply appreciative of the splendid reception and entertainment given it by the citizens of this city and pleased with the knowledge that Victoria would send a large representation to the 1915 exposition and with the pledges of prominent citizens that they would strive to have the capital city of this province erect its own building at the world's fair.

President Benjamin Ide Wheeler of the University of California addressed the members of the "Flying Legion" at the Canadian club luncheon today on the significance of the canal in international politics. Close attention was paid to President Wheeler's statements in reference to the so-called German peril because of his intimate acquaintance with the German emperor.

"The expansion on the part of Germany," said President Wheeler, "is rather for the extension of German trade. It is not a people who should know this, and I venture to suggest that the next Nobel peace prize will go to the Kaiser. I wonder why it is that nobody has noticed that for twenty-five years he has had a good war machine under his hand and has never used it."

GARDEN PARTY
The last day in Victoria was a busy one for the "Flying Legion." In the morning the visitors motored out to Malahale drive to Shawigan lake. In the afternoon they were entertained at a garden party at Mount-Joy, the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Pemberton. It was a farewell smokening held at the Empress hotel. Duncan McKinlay, surveyor of the port of San Francisco, delivered a talk on the Panama canal.

Edgar D. Peixotto delivered the farewell speech. W. L. Hathaway, one of the leaders of the flying legion, aroused great enthusiasm among the Victoria residents at the smoker by announcing that if this city would hold an annual celebration of the Panama-Pacific international exposition would induce it and use its powerful publicity to advertise it over the world. In part he said:

ANNUAL REUNION
"I want to crystallize here tonight an understanding that will make certain an annual reunion of the Victoria flying legion, not only of those present, but of many others and their families, and this reunion will take place here, if you take seriously and follow up actually this advertising campaign as a movement for some unique annual event of one week during the summer months—something of a water nature, call it, or instance, the Victoria regatta, build bathhouses or turn your old whaling fleet into such, line the banks of this four miles of beautiful waters from the upper part of Victoria harbor with a floating city; make it a second "Honey Week," and you will not only have the majority of us and our families here once a year, but you will have thousands of others from the south with us.

SUPPORT PLEDGED
"Nature has given you everything to warrant such an undertaking, and if you will organize and work next summer will see the Victoria flying legion as the first substantial outcome of this visit. And I am here to pledge you the support of San Francisco in such an undertaking.

"I consulted with President Moore of the exposition upon this subject and he authorized me to say to you that if such a movement was successfully launched, the world would include it in advertisements of Pacific coast events as they are to include similar week events in several other important coast cities."

The flying legion will arrive in Vancouver tomorrow morning and be the guests of that city for the entire day. On Friday it will be in Seattle and Tacoma, and on Saturday will spend the day in Portland.

S. H. Daniels, member of the flying legion, was the speaker at the annual stampede. He was accompanied by President Moore of the exposition to the Calgary to attend the annual stampede.

BOOTH ATTRACTION MOST IMPRESSIVE Merchants of Pacific Coast Cities Accept Invitations to Attend Celebration

Thirty-four Thousand Persons Participate in Services for Dead General

LONDON, Aug. 28.—Funeral services for the founder of the Salvation Army, General William Booth, were held at the Olympia tonight. In accordance with the tradition of the organization, they were without pomp or symbols of mourning, but were carried out with moving fervor and impressiveness.

Thirty-four thousand persons participated. The body of the late general, in a plain pine coffin, rested high upon a white catafalque in front of the big platform across the end of the hall, where all the chief officers of the organization were seated and where forty bands of music were massed. The crimson flag of the "army of fire and blood," which the general unfurled on Mount Calvary, was placed on the coffin.

A bank of flowers, composed of the tributes sent by royalty and by many societies, were behind it. The front rows of chairs before the catafalque were reserved for representatives of various parties and also the clergy for the king, several mayors in their robes and chains of office, a delegation from the Protestant churches and a Jewish rabbi.

But the rank and file of the great gathering was composed of the plain people for whom the army works and of whom it is composed. The most solemn moments of the long meeting were when the coffin was borne along the center of the hall to the solemn music of the "Dead March in Saul." A small procession, representing many branches of the army's activity, carrying the flags of the respective countries, preceded the coffin.

Every seat on the floor and in the galleries was taken when the service began and thousands of persons were banked around the outskirts of the hall, many of whom could not see over the shoulders of those in front, but who could hear and take their part. When the bands began with the revivifying hymn, "Behr we will stand together," the strain. Then every one bowed in silent prayer.

The hands broke into the "Dead March" at the conclusion of the prayer and the thousands rose and turned toward the far entrance, where appeared a cluster of white tipped flags. Amid reverent silence the catafalque was wheeled along the aisle to the position in front of the platform, where its escort broke to the right and left and mounted the steps. Bramwell Booth immediately raised his hand where he fell to his knees and buried his face in his hands.

The meeting was turned into a colossal revival. Striding back and forth on the platform, General Bramwell Booth, swinging his arms above his head, led the singing, pausing frequently to remind the throng that the departed had given his life to saving them.

The most impressive feature of the service then followed. All the soldiers of the army of the Lord were called to the front, pledging themselves to be faithful soldiers of the Lord.

FLOODS STILL RAGE AS RESULT OF RAINS
LONDON, Aug. 28.—The cessation of rain in most parts of England after a month's downpour has not been accompanied by a corresponding abatement of floods. Norwich, in the east, is still cut off from the outer world except by telephone. Ordinarily 170 trains enter and leave the city every day, but not one has arrived or departed since Monday. In some instances women are forcibly removed from their partially inundated homes, refusing to leave voluntarily.

EXILED OFFICER AGAIN FAVORABLE
WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—By the direction of President Taft, Colonel Charles I. Lauchheimer, one of the officers of the marine corps who was sent to exile in the Philippine Islands as a result of the controversy in that organization two years ago, is to be returned to his former post.

Friends of Colonel Lauchheimer, who was deposed from his duties as adjutant and inspector of the marine corps at the headquarters in Washington, have interested themselves in his behalf ever since he was sent to the Philippines. They had developed a plan to have Colonel Lauchheimer as the innocent victim of the result of the court of inquiry which was ordered by Secretary of the Navy Meyer to investigate the controversy that had developed between Lauchheimer and Major General George P. Elliott, then commandant of the corps. General Elliott had suspended Lauchheimer from duty as a result of some petty order, and when friends of the colonel appealed the case of the navy department a complete investigation was made of the marine corps service and many officers were severely reprimanded for unwillful and disrespectful conduct.

Dr. Simon Wolf succeeded in interesting the president in Lauchheimer's case and Taft ordered the officer's return from the Philippines to the United States a year ago. He was detailed in charge of the military police in San Francisco, where he since has remained. By orders issued today Lauchheimer will resume his former station in Washington.

ARMY OF MADMEN TO MEET ON BATTLEFIELD
SACRAMENTO, Aug. 28.—Brass buttons on bright uniforms of the army, uniforms of officers and men with gold braid and distinguishing stripes of rank will be worn by the volunteer army at the Agnew state hospital for the insane.

TELEPHONE BONDING ELECTION FAVORED Public Utilities Committee of the Supervisors Adopts Declaratory Resolution

The supervisors' public utilities committee declared yesterday in favor of a bond election to provide for the acquisition of a municipal telephone system. The date for the election was not set, but it will be held with charter amendment and other bond elections before the end of the year, probably in December. Leading up to the adoption of the resolution, the committee, headed by E. P. E. Troy, favored the proposition with his insistence that an "automatic" system be specified in the resolution.

Incidents of Chairman Vogelsang expressed himself as opposed to a municipal system, favoring instead ownership by the federal government. Supervisor Murphy joined with Vogelsang in expressing disfavor for an automatic system. Vogelsang explained, however, that while there was no reason for including the word "automatic" in the declaratory resolution, when the proposition was submitted to the people it would be a call for an automatic system, since that appeared to be the wish of the voters. The initiative election several months ago.

PLEA FOR PHONE GIRLS
Supervisor Murphy made a brief but strong plea for the telephone girls. "An automatic system," he said with a "woman" across a lot of persons out of employment.

"So do all great modern inventions," responded Troy. "Where the automatic system requires but five employees for a given plant, the manual system requires 20."

"The Pacific company," continued Troy, "would unload its manual system from the city if it got a chance and would then install the automatic."

"What leads you to suppose," interposed Supervisor Andy Gallagher, "that they would not take a chance to buy that manual system?"

"Well, we don't want to take any chances," argued Troy. "You would better insert the word 'automatic' in your resolution, so that the people will know what they are voting for."

"But your ordinance, upon which the people voted, did not say 'automatic,'" declared Vogelsang; "it said the Home phone system."

"Which is 'automatic,'" insisted Troy, "and, besides, the people prefer the automatic."

"NOT IT" CHIEF VOGELSGANG
"Not it!" cried Vogelsang, "and I am one of the people. I wouldn't have one of these automatic systems installed in my home."

"Nor I either," cried Murphy. "Nobody wants to be uphauled by numbers around," added Vogelsang. "If I will vote against municipal ownership of the telephone, anyway," said Vogelsang, "I will vote for a bond election, but not limited to my neighbor across the street. I want to be able to talk to the man upstairs, or to a friend in Spokane, or to a friend in London, favor government ownership."

Troy wished the committee to set the date for the election, but it was explained that this could not be done until the time for other proposed bond and charter amendment elections was set.

GEARY ROAD BIDS
In conformance with the recent request of the supervisors the board of works yesterday directed the secretary to advertise for bids for the installation of the electrical equipment for the Geary street road. The estimated cost is $44,000, which includes the overhead trolley lines from the base terminal to the street, including the installation of the electrical equipment for the Geary street road, where it is planned by the city engineer to use the poles and wires of the United Railroads. The date upon which the bids are to be submitted has not been set.

On the recommendation of D. J. McCoy, the new superintendent of street repairs, the board of works directed J. O'Connell, electrical engineer at the municipal asphalt plant, McCoy charged O'Connell with drunkenness.

Ten bids were received for the complete outfitting of the new hospital building in the new San Francisco hospital group, the lowest being $156,500, submitted by Grant Fee. The estimated cost of the work, which will place the buildings in readiness for occupancy was $160,000. All the bids were very close. The award will be made later, without doubt by Felt.

CIVIC CENTER PLANS
The board set September 4 as the date upon which the question of obtaining plans for all monumental buildings in the civic center will be argued and determined. The consulting architects will be present.

The Branigan street sewer contract was let to C. J. Harney, his bid being $43,544.

The contract for connecting the Lincoln sewer with the septic tank in Golden Gate park, for which Sunset residents have been most anxious, was let to Felix McCue for $325.

At the request of the assessor, coroner, recorder, county clerk, sheriff and justices' clerk, the supervisors' judicial committee yesterday adopted a resolution favoring a proposed charter amendment to the city code, which would give utility, clerks and other employees who have served a year with the above county officers from taking the impending civil service examinations.

BENESH'S 'ANGEL' IS CLOAK MODEL

Alleged Embezzler Says Lovely Young Women Will Settle His Shortage

A new variety of "angel" has been discovered by Otto E. Benesh, a bookkeeper for the Blanchard-Brown firm of general contractors, who says that he has a self-appointed guardian in the person of a beautiful cloak model, who has promised to come to his financial rescue and settle his difficulties, which yesterday culminated in a warrant for his arrest on a charge of embezzlement being sworn out before Judge Deasy by his employer, C. E. Blanchard.

So sure was Benesh of the loyalty and beneficence of the diving cloak model that several days before his arrest he offered to pay his employer $50 a month out of her salary until his financial obligations were settled. Benesh admitted yesterday that he had taken $745 of his employer's money, but explained that part of it was given to Mrs. Blanchard at her request to pay household bills, without Blanchard being informed of the fact. He also says that his employer's statement that from $1,500 to $2,000 had been taken was wrong.

Benesh is 23 years old and resides at 250 Commercial avenue and has held his present position for seven months. He says he is the disowned son of a wealthy manufacturer of Chicago.

All efforts to get in touch with the Vicksburg, since yesterday afternoon have failed.
