

Bulgarians Follow Up Their Great Victory

Turks Mobilize Near Constantinople for Another Battle

Defeat of Nazim Pasha Reduces the Importance of Adrianople

declared war. The first week of the campaign closed with the dramatic fall of Kilk-Killes, fully revealing for the first time the disorganization, bad morale and insufficient commissariat of the Turkish army. Today that army is scattered, routed within 50 miles from Constantinople, and possibly its retreat within the capital's line of defense is cut off.

Nazim Pasha Outmaneuvered

Apparently Nazim Pasha has been completely outmaneuvered by Savoff's skillful generalship. The Bulgarian turning movement along the Black sea coast now appears to have been a feint, which induced the Turkish commander to throw his main army to the eastward, to such effect that the Bulgarian force on this side had the greatest difficulty in holding the Turks in check.

In the meantime, however, General Savoff hurled his great strength against the Turks' weakened left wing, which he crushed in at Lule Burgas. The fighting along the whole front, which evidently has been of the most stubborn and determined character, was carried on day and night with but a few intermissions, and both sides lost heavily.

The capture of Nazim Pasha's headquarters, in Tchoru, to which town the defeated Turks retreated, has not as yet been reported, but is hourly expected in Sofia.

In this event the Turks will be forced to abandon the Turkish lines of Tonalia, the only remaining fortified position protecting Constantinople. It lies 25 miles to the northwest of the capital.

ADRIANOPLE STILL HOLDS OUT

Adrianople still holds out, but has lost its importance, now that the Turks have met their Sedan at Lule Burgas.

DIVISION OF SPOILS

It is believed a peace settlement will be arranged either by the porting suing for peace or through the intervention of the powers, and an interesting question involving difficult diplomatic problems immediately will arise as to the division of the spoils of war.

BULGARIANS STAKED THEIR ALL

The Bulgarians staked everything on the result of this battle. They brought up all their available regulars to the front, leaving the Balkan peninsula and Greece in occupying islands in the Aegean in addition to various towns in Macedonia.

The powers, fearing disorders and massacres in Turkey, are hurrying warships to the various parts of that country to protect foreign residents.

The political history of the war is the insignificant part played by the Turkish and Greek fleets.

The Turkish commanders, too, appear to have brought to Europe all the troops it was possible to withdraw from Asia Minor as well as to insure that regular traffic on the Anatolian railways has been partly resumed.

Some of the Turkish troops from Asia Minor have been in the Bulgarian port of Burgas, on the Black sea, doubtless with the hope of drawing in that direction part of the Bulgarian troops engaged farther south.

Sir Edward Grey, the British foreign minister, stated today in the house of commons that when the military situation in the Balkan peninsula permitted, the powers would take steps to insure enduring peace between the belligerents.

ATROCITIES OF TURKS

The Serbian legation has received a dispatch from Belgrade giving accounts by returned Serbian officers of atrocities committed by the Turkish troops before abandoning the country conquered by the Serbians.

"Wherever the Turks passed," says the dispatch, "the Serbian army found only land strewn with bodies of men, women and children, mutilated in the most barbarous fashion. Bodies of men were also found bound to trees. They had been burned alive by means of fires kindled under their feet. One body bore indications of having been roasted on a gridiron."

The Austrian cabinet is considering the French proposal for mediation by the powers, according to a Vienna dispatch to the Daily Mail. There is a feeling of great anxiety at Vienna, as it is believed Europe's task, confronted by four victorious armies on Turkish soil, is an extremely dangerous one.

SOFIA REPORTS COMPLETE ROUT

SOFIA, Oct. 31.—The Bulgarian army has completely routed the Turkish army under Nazim Pasha. The Turks fled in disorder, leaving many killed and wounded on the field.

The battle, which is regarded as the most important engagement since the beginning of the war, lasted three entire days. It extends along the lines from Lule Burgas eastward to Sarai. The Turkish front was over 51 miles long.

The Ottoman troops retreated to Tchoru, about 21 miles to the south of the positions from which they were driven by the Bulgarians. Tchoru, where the Turks are expected to make another stand, occupies an important position on the main road between Constantinople and Adrianople at the point where the road from the port of Rodosto joins. Unless the Turks hold this place they will be unable to bring any more troops from Asia Minor by way of Rodosto.

The eastern wing of the Turkish army at Viza was able to maintain its ground at the present time. The Bulgarian troops, but it could not be held for long.

tended from Lule Burgas to Viza, now lies across Tchoru, Sarai and Istrandia.

The Bulgarian army is vigorously pursuing the Turks, who are retreating in disorder and panic. Many guns and a large quantity of ammunition have been captured. Alvali, near Lule Burgas, and Maras have been burned. All the Christian inhabitants, according to the Bulgarians, were massacred.

News of the defeat of the Turkish army even affording no intermission. The Turks suffered severely. Many were captured and great numbers of dead were left on the field.

News of the capture of Nazim Pasha's headquarters at Tchoru is eagerly awaited. Little has been heard from the Bulgarian left wing, which stretched from Jundishiss to Midia. In this territory the Turks greatly outnumbered the Bulgarians, who have only been able to hold their own. Any slight success which the Turks obtained here, however, was of no material importance.

The Bulgarian victory was due to superior strategy combined with the extreme energy of their offensive movement. It appears that the object of the rapid advance early in the week on Viza and Midia was not really to outflank the Turkish right, but to mislead the Turks. This was successful. The Turks moved their reserves by sea and along the coast to strengthen the right wing, which reached to Istrandia and directed all their efforts to meeting here what they believed to be the main attack.

PORTE RECEIVES SERIOUS NEWS

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 1.—I. a. m.—Serious news has been received from the front. The council of ministers is still sitting at the porte. It is believed that the ministers are discussing the question of concluding peace with the Balkan states.

The exact nature of the latest advances from the battle line in Thrace has not been made known, but last evening the government received the following report from Nazim Pasha, the war minister and commander of the Turkish forces:

Our eastern army has been engaged for the last four days in serious fighting with the Bulgarian forces between Lule Burgas and Viza. Our army corps concentrated in Lule Burgas and the north and officers vigorous resistance to the enemy advancing in this direction.

The citadel in Adrianople is still holding. The Turkish forces in the neighborhood of Viza are making a successful advance.

Still earlier official advices stated that the Bulgarian force of 30,000 men, which was concentrated in the Istrandia mountains, where the retreat of the Bulgarians had been cut off.

It is rumored here that the Bulgarian troops are being disbanded by a Turkish squadron on the Black sea coast, and that under cover of the firing a body of Turkish troops has been landed.

FRANCE SENDS SHIPS TO WAR

PARIS, Oct. 31.—In view of the danger threatening foreigners in Turkey the second division of the flying squadron of the French fleet has been ordered to sail from Toulon this evening at full speed to the Syrian coast. It consists of the armored cruisers Leon Ramet, Victor Hugo and Jules Ferry. The French armored cruiser Erre, which is now at Samos, has been ordered to Saloniki.

TURKS ISOLATED IN ADRIANOPLE

VIENNA, Oct. 31.—The Turkish troops in Adrianople, the correspondent of the Reichspost telegraphs, made another sortie yesterday along the Maritza river and on the east front of the Bulgarian lines, which have completed the circle of the fortress. They were driven back. Despite the floods, the dispatch adds, fighting continues almost every day in the meadows around the city, but till now the engagements always have ended in the retreat of the Turks.

RIEKA, Montenegro, Oct. 31.—General Fuletic, at the head of the victorious Montenegrin troops, entered Ipek Wednesday afternoon.

GREEK SQUADRON TAKES ISLANDS

ATHENS, Oct. 31.—Admiral Countouriotis, in command of the Greek squadron in the Aegean, announces that the islands of Thasos and Sobres have been occupied and the Greek flag raised. Thasos is a dependency of Turkey off the south coast of Thrace. It has an area of 150 square miles and a population of about 12,000, mainly Greeks.

Veteran Montenegrin Leaves for the Front to Fight Against the Turks

Stephen N. Mitrovich, a veteran of the Montenegrin army of the campaign of 1877, is again to fight under his people's banner. He left San Francisco last night for the Balkan battle line. He expects to join his compatriots who left here Wednesday in New York city and sail with them for the southeast of Europe, where the Christian nations are fighting against the Turk. He has left in San Francisco, where he is engaged in business, his wife and two handsome daughters, Miss Elena and Miss Milena Mitrovich, and they, in their patriotism, have urged him on.

Mitrovich is a native of St. Stephen, Dalmatia, where he was born in 1850. There he received his education under private tutors and became proficient in languages. At the age of 17 he volunteered for service with the Montenegrin army.

In 1880 he came to the United States. At first he worked as a miner and mine leaser and prospector in Arizona and Nevada. Then he settled in Fresno and developed silk culture successfully. But there was no market in this country for the raw silk at that time. Then he engaged in the fruit growing and packing business and received gold medal awards at the Columbian exposition in Chicago and the Midwinter fair in San Francisco for the excellence of his product. In 1890 he married. He was active in Goldfield in 1906 and still is interested in mining property there.

GREEK ARTIST WRITES OF WAR

War conditions in Greece and the manner in which the Greeks are going into the fight against Turkey, are described in a letter written from Athens to friends in San Francisco by Ferdinand J. Burgdorf, the well known artist and Bohemian, whom his friends know best as "Pete."

"Silent columns of infantry, with new uniforms and new equipment have marched through the silent lines of those who stay behind," he writes. "Only on the first day after the order was there any grand excitement. This war scare has crippled transportation all over. The cars are minus their horses; only the plugs are left. Out in the country they have left only the little fellows and burros."

WILSON ANSWERS PROSPERITY TALK

Candidate for Presidency Says Only Wall Street Could Wreck Country

ization of purpose, spreading throughout the United States, in order that great bodies of men may unite together for the great project of emancipation, and the only possible chance of having a great united organization after March 4 next is to vote the democratic ticket.

"After next Tuesday we shall know not what men are going to proclaim, but what men are going to do. God be pitiful to the man who promises the American people what he is not ready to perform. The case is made up; the case is before the jury."

REPLY TO PROSPERITY TALK

Governor Wilson took occasion to reply to the talk of his opponents that the prosperity of the country would be affected by his election. He pointed to the betting odds in Wall street, so largely in favor of democratic success. This was what he called his "answer in a nutshell," showing, he declared, that there was not the slightest prospect of any check in the country's prosperity. The only way the prosperity of the country could be injured, he said, was by the deliberate efforts of Wall street.

"The gentlemen in Wall street don't bet five to one on their own destruction and they don't go to their business smiling and complacent when they expect a deluge next week," was his way of putting it.

DEMONSTRATION IN BRONX

When Governor Wilson reached Niblo's hall in the Bronx, where he made his first speech of the evening, a big crowd had gathered. He was given a demonstration lasting 10 minutes.

"What I am fighting for personally," he said, "is that the average man be not kept down and denied opportunity. What I object to in the prosperity of the country is that too small a number of persons originate and manage the prosperity and that the rest of us merely get what is left over after they are satisfied. If the government of the United States is not suited to the fortune and hopes of the average man, then it ought not to be maintained to the benefit of the minority."

"But suppose, for example, that I should be elected president of the United States; it is a reasonable hypothesis."

A great shout interrupted the governor and the demonstration of cheers lasted several minutes.

PEOPLE'S AID NEEDED

"Suppose I should be elected on the fifth of November and everybody would say on the sixth of November, 'Well, he has got the job and it is up to him. Now what do you suppose would happen? Nothing. You've got to stay on the job and back me up, or there is nothing in it.'"

There is no use putting men in office unless you are going to help them do your thinking, unless you are going to help them know the needs of the man can think the thoughts of a nation. The leader must know and think. What is there in leadership if there is no one to follow?"

Governor Wilson motored to Madison Square garden, picking up National Chairman William F. McCombs at the hotel. The party reached the garden at 9:11 o'clock, when the thundering demonstration was begun.

Congressman William Sulzer, democratic candidate for governor, and Congressman Oscar W. Underwood, democratic leader of the house of representatives, addressed the meeting before Governor Wilson arrived.

Governor Wilson will leave New York at 8:30 o'clock tomorrow for Rochester, where he is to address a night meeting.

I am neither able nor disposed to force my candidacy on the people in the conventional political way. They know that I am a candidate. They know of my conduct on the bench and I am satisfied that if the public mind is not confused that the people will be able to render a just verdict at the polls. But I want to say here and now that every effort is being made to confuse the people, to poison their minds against me."

This evening Judge Lawlor will address meetings at Maerhuber hall, Twenty-fourth street and Potrero avenue, and the Lyceum theater, Twenty-ninth and Mission streets, under the auspices of the democratic county committee.
