Ottomans, Beaten Again in Plains of Thrace, Fall Back on Capital

Allies Announce That Porte Must Treat With Them Direct for Peace

directed against foreigners as much as against native Christians, but the danger to foreigners is real. If the Turkish army sustains complete defeat, the lives and property of thousands of foreigners, as well as native Christians, will be in peril.

The presence of foreign warships is of the greatest importance and would be the surest guarantee of the security of foreign interests and public order generally. The government has made more severe the state of siege; strong patrols circulate through the streets, and the police have received orders to use the utmost vigilance and to repress disorders rigorously.

Thursday the diplomatic representatives of all the nations held a conference. Just what measures were decided on is not known, but the Austrian ambassador visited the foreign minister and called attention to the disquietude on the part of the sign residents respecting their safety.

NAZIM PASHA'S BELATED PLANS

Definitive news of the result of the great battle is expected hourly. According to a government official, Nazim Pasha's plan is to surround the Bulgarians with the help of the Turkish army working to the northwest of Viza. A column of 20,000 will then be ordered to make a sortie from Adrianople to join the main Turkish force.

The Turkish army at Dedeagatch is to be in the western flank of the Bulgarians, while the main Turkish force, occupying the line between Thoriu and Sereai, is expected to deliver the decisive blow against the enemy.

TURKISH ARMY IS RETREATING

LONDON, Nov. 3.—The Turkish army is in full retreat on Constantinople, and the Turkish government has asked the powers to intervene.

An official bulletin was issued by the government in Constantinople tonight admitting defeat at the hands of the Bulgarians in the great battle on the Thracian plain.

Application was made to the embassies in Constantinople tonight for mediation by the powers and to end the hostilities and arrange a peace agreement.

WAR SCRIBES HANDICAPPED

The ambassadors prior to this had asked the porte for permission to each of the great powers to send one warship through the Dardanelles, and this request had been complied with. The only gunboats permitted to enter Constantinople are to be found in the presence of the warships of the great powers in the harbor of the Turkish capital.

It is the general belief that Bulgaria will refuse to listen to anything in the way of intervention until the Bulgarian army is at the gates of Constantinople, and will insist that Turkey make an appeal direct to the allies without interference from the powers.

POWERS CAN NOT AGREE

The powers have not been able to agree upon the French premier's formula of "territorial disinterestedness," which is not acceptable to Austria or Germany. The powers are taking steps for the protection of Christians and their own political interests in Turkey.

Beyond the statement that the Turkish army is retreating to the last line of fortifications outside Constantinople, little news was received from the seat of war tonight. Fighting was reported along the line from Thoriu to Sereai, which was the outcome doubtless of the efforts of the French Turks to re-engage within the Thracian lines, which the Bulgarians are doing their utmost to prevent.

BULGAR AIRMEN DEFEY THE TURKS

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Nov. 3.—Fighting is proceeding all along the line from Thoriu to Sereai, where the remnant of the defeated Turkish army is making a stand.

Reports continue to circulate that Adrianople has fallen, but there is no confirmation. This Turkish stronghold has been subjected to extremely severe bombardment and the latest advice is that Bulgarian shells still are being dropped into the fortress.

There is much elation here over the invaluable services of the Bulgarian aviators, who fearlessly have exposed themselves to the Turkish fire in order to obtain information for the staff. With the exception of Popoff, who was killed, all escaped unhurt.

GREEK DIVISION TAKES STAVROS

SALONIKI, Nov. 3.—A complete Greek division under General Smolensky landed in Stavros, on the northeast of the Chalcis peninsula, and occupied the villages and mining district as well as the capital, Polygros, from which the Turkish officials were expelled. The division now is marching on Galatiste and Saloniki, accompanied by 6,000 well armed Greek peasants,

OLYMPIC TROPHY DESIGN IS READY

1915 Exposition Board to Receive Model From J. Hammer of Stockholm

Designs for the golden plaque presented by the Panama-Pacific exposition to the international committee in charge of the Olympic games as a trophy for the winner of the first modern Pentathlon will be submitted today to the exposition authorities by John Hammer of Stockholm, managing director of the General Export association of Sweden, who has come to San Francisco partly on business connected with the fair.

The designing of the beautiful Olympic trophy was entrusted to Eric Lindberg, a famous Swedish artist and modelist. The design submitted shows the Olympian goddess crowning the victor with a laurel wreath. At the base are five wreaths, signifying that the winner proved his prowess by defeating his competitors in the five events of the pentathlon.

WAR SCRIBES HANDICAPPED

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 3.—War correspondents out of a job present one of the minor tragedies of the Turkish-Balkan struggle. Dozens of eager and experienced writers rushed to Constantinople at the end of September, bought horses, field clothing, quantities of tinmed food, revolvers and ammunition, engaged servants and couriers and then went to the ministry of war and asked to be allowed to accompany the troops streaming to the front.

WAR SCRIBES HANDICAPPED

Next day the correspondents renewed their request and elicited the same reply. A week passed and the journalists were still haunting the war office and learning nothing. Some hired motor cars and tried to escape inland, but were turned back with the remark that private travelers in the interior were exposed to "possible unpleasantness."

WAR SCRIBES HANDICAPPED

One day everybody was electrified by an official note saying that the correspondents might go to the front. There was a great rush by the motley, polyglot crowd. When the correspondents' horses and their armies of servants and couriers assembled the military man in charge exclaimed: "Do you expect the war office to form a second transport department for the newspaper men?"

WAR SCRIBES HANDICAPPED

So the horses had to be given up and with them the correspondents' motor cars. One writer pleaded to have his collapsible hip bath included with his impediments, but it was firmly ruled out. Now the correspondents are impeded and poorly sheltered, badly fed and ignorant of the progress of the war.

bodyguard, who was shaken up and bruised.

"The machine was running about 15 miles an hour," said the governor, "and we were going very smoothly near Hightstown when the jar came. As we struck Captain McDonald and I were thrown against the roof of the car. I felt my head and found that it was bleeding. I knew I wasn't severely hurt, but knew that it was imprudent to continue the journey in the cold, so we stopped some passersby and within a few minutes found the home of Doctor Titus at Hightstown. He dressed the wound carefully and cleaned it, and we went on to Princeton."

The physician shaved the governor's hair immediately surrounding the injury and the strip of antiseptic plaster partly covered the head spot.

YOSEMITE'S ORIGIN IS REVIEWED IN PAMPHLET

Joint Erosive Action of Ice and Water Are Described

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—That the wonderful gorge known as Yosemite valley owes its origin to the action of both streams and glaciers is the conclusion set forth in a publication entitled "A Sketch of Yosemite National Park," just issued by the department of the interior.

During the 60 years that the valley has been known to the white man, many theories have been put forward to account for its origin, and the most important of these are reviewed in the publication issued by the department.

WAR SCRIBES HANDICAPPED

It is the belief of the department's experts that the Yosemite and Hetch Hetchy valley both have developed through stream erosion and have later been greatly deepened and enlarged by repeated ice invasions; further, that they owe their strangely clean cut, moatlike form and the diversified sculpturing of their cliffs to the structure of the country rock, which has locally controlled the action of the eroding agent.

WOMAN ENDS HER LIFE TO JOIN DEAD BROTHER

OAKLAND, Nov. 3.—Dependent over the death of her brother, a month ago, Mrs. Amelia Martin committed suicide this morning in the home of her daughter, Mrs. M. G. Hall, 915 Kingston avenue, by swallowing chloral. Her groans attracted her daughter, who found her expiring in her bedroom. A doctor was called, but the woman died before his arrival. Mrs. Martin was 40 years old and a native of Illinois. She had threatened to end her life several times in the last few weeks, while suffering melancholia.

MRS. LESH SAYS CONFESSION WAS MADE HER HAPPY

Husband of Woman Who Admits Double Murder Holds She is Insane

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 3.—Declaring that she is happier than she has been in years because of her confession yesterday to having killed two women in Missouri, Mrs. Pansy Hastings Lesh is in the city jail here awaiting the arrival of Sheriff M. T. Henderson of Pettus county, Mo., who telegraphed Chief Sebastian today to hold the woman until his arrival from Sedalia.

The case is one of the strangest in the history of local police annals. There is little doubt of the young woman's sanity, say the police, although her husband, who called at the jail today, said there was nothing to her story and that she was temporarily insane.

TOLD HER HUSBAND "He knows I'm not insane," said Mrs. Lesh, after her husband's visit, because I told him all about it before I married him five years ago. He and Father Brooks, whom I confessed to in St. Louis long ago when I became a Catholic, and address to him, which I knew, and I think Father Brooks is dead now."

The young woman told her story today with the utmost frankness. She appeared to be in a happy mood and showed remorse and emotion only when relating the story of how she gave poison to Mrs. Eliza Coe in Sedalia a few days after the death of her husband, Mrs. E. M. Quaintance in Greendale, 12 miles from Sedalia.

GAVE RAT POISON "Mrs. Coe was good to me, though she scolded me sometimes," said Mrs. Lesh. "She had taken a baby to the poor farm through the rain and caught a bad cold. I nursed her when she was ill and gave her two capsules about half full of rough on rats. She got worse and worse and I thought that I was sorry I poisoned her, but I was afraid to tell the doctor. When she died the doctor said it was due to typhoid poisoning."

"I never really felt badly about causing Mrs. Quaintance's death, except that I knew it was wrong. But she and her husband were not kind to me. I was only 15 years old when I was sent to them by the orphanage. Mr. Quaintance, who was about 60 years old, mistreated me, and I had to work for him. He was very kind and encouraged me to be disrespectful to her. We quarreled one day and he took her part, and may be that is why I gave her poison."

QUAINTANCE COMMITTS SUICIDE "After his wife's death Mr. Quaintance wanted me to stay with him, but I refused, and he got me a place with some people near Greendale. I joined the Methodist church there, and one night when I was walking home with my Sunday school teacher I told her about an attack on me by a young man in that town. She took me to the justice of the peace. I think it was, and after a lot of questioning by him I admitted my relations with Quaintance. The old man came to town that day and I guess heard about it, because I really wanted to go to my farm and shot myself."

"I don't know why I killed either of the women. That's a question I have asked myself several times. All I know is that I wanted to get it off my mind. I used to think about it when I was alone or got despondent. If they put me in the penitentiary I would do it again. I know I would. I know I can start in over again and with a clean slate."

HEREDITY IS NO EXCUSE When it was suggested to Mrs. Lesh that heredity might have had something to do with her crime, she said: "Possibly it might. My mother did not lead a good life and my father roamed about a great deal and changed his name often. I know I have never had a bad temper, but I have never wanted to kill any one since, even when in a rage. I don't think now what I really wanted to do was to kill Mrs. Quaintance and Mrs. Coe."

CARDINAL HOLDS RECEPTIONS HERE

Resting from the long and tedious journey across the continent, his eminence Cardinal Farley, who arrived in San Francisco Saturday evening on an unofficial visit to the west, passed Sunday at the palace of Archbishop Riordan, and during the day received only a few of his closest friends.

In the morning his eminence celebrated mass in the luncheon chapel in the archbishop's palace, and in the afternoon he paid brief formal visits to St. Mary's hospital and to the Jesuit fathers at St. Ignatius college. Returning, the cardinal stayed indoors the remainder of the day.

No program has been arranged for today, but tomorrow the distinguished visitor will be the luncheon guest of the exposition officials probably at the Fairmont hotel. In the afternoon he will be escorted over the exposition grounds to the bay by the fire tug Dennis T. Sullivan. A trip around the bay on Wednesday is planned for Wednesday. Mayor Rolph and other city officials will accompany the cardinal's party.

Plans are being made for a visit Thursday to the Santa Clara college, and during the day received only a few of his closest friends.

Receptions in San Jose SAN JOSE, Nov. 3.—The Jesuit community of the University of Santa Clara and the five big Catholic churches of San Jose and Santa Clara have combined to arrange an elaborate series of receptions in honor of his eminence, Cardinal Farley, archbishop of New York, who will visit this city this week.

The cardinal has accepted an invitation to visit John Brooke, a local banker, and a relative, here, and during his visit here he will stay at the home of E. McLaughlin.

The cardinal's visit will be an occasion of great moment to the Catholics of this valley, as in its history only one other prince of the church has ever been here, Cardinal Gibbons, a quarter of a century ago.

Cardinal Farley will visit the University of Santa Clara and for his reception there will be sacred music by a chorus of more than 400 voices, which has already started rehearsals.

Addresses will be made by Mayor Thomas Monahan of San Jose, Rev. J. A. Morrissey, president of Santa Clara university, and Most Rev. Archbishop Patrick W. Riordan, besides the distinguished visitor himself.
