Sunol Merchant Is Stabbed to Death Following Quarrel Lasting Many Weeks

Laborer in Oakland Jail Says Victim Met End by Falling on Knife

OAKLAND, Nov. 10.—A quarrel of several weeks' standing culminated in the killing last night of John Smith, a merchant of Sunol, by Ferdinand Mammalite, a laborer. After wielding a small pocket knife with deadly effect, Mammalite walked along the railroad tracks from Sunol to Pleasanton, where he was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Wells and brought this morning to the county jail in Oakland by Constable Lock of Livermore and Deputy Sheriffs Sweeney and Phillips. Smith leaves a wife and several children. He was 45 years old.

The men quarreled several weeks ago over a poker game in James Crow's saloon at Sunol, Smith accusing Mammalite of cheating. Last Tuesday the men met again, when Smith showed a large roll of bills and said he had found the money. According to Mammalite's statement to Sheriff Barnett, Smith accused him of trying to steal $20 of this money.

"Last night," said Mammalite to Sheriff Barnett, "Smith entered Crow's saloon. I was drinking beer. He called me bad names, and wishing to avoid trouble I gave one of my two pocket knives to a friend and left the saloon. Smith followed me and struck me on the jaw. I pulled out the knife, thinking to frighten him. He is a big man and I was no match for him physically. I held the knife in front of me and he again rushed at me. I did not strike at him. He ran into the knife."

The stabbing occurred at 8 o'clock. Four hours later Smith died from the wound, which was near the heart. Mammalite, who has been employed as a laborer in the construction of a breakwater in Sausalito, is 25 years old. Smith formerly kept a saloon at Mount Eden. For the last two years he was proprietor of a grocery at Sunol.

The missing student has taken an active part in student life. He is the son of a Stockton business man. Communication with his family has failed to throw a light on his disappearance. The only explanation that can be given is that his mind was depressed owing to overstudy.

GAMES MAY SURPASS SERMONS, SAYS PASTOR

Tells Christian Associations They Do More Than Revival

OAKLAND, Nov. 10.—"A gymnasium frequently does more real good than a revival, and a game of basket ball is more helpful than a volume of sermons."

This statement was made this morning by Rev. Herbert A. Jump, preaching before the Young Men's and Young Women's Christian associations, many members of which met in the First Congregational church for an "Association Sunday." The meeting had been called by Rev. Mr. Jump to express to the organizations his appreciation of their work.

He preached on what he called "The Christian Quadrilateral" and dwelt on the work of the associations in ministering to the body, the mind, the soul and the social nature of man.

He declared that it was one of the big mistakes of Christianity that it had to such a great extent overlooked the needs of the physical man. The associations, he said, were doing good work along this line. Regarding the mind, he said, the associations were lending valuable aid to the foundation of a better democracy by their educational work. Referring to the social nature of man, he held that the associations were offering men and women opportunities for clean amusement removed from temptation.

By rising above the prejudice against pool tables and dancing, these organizations have made themselves authorized competitors of the saloon and the dance hall, he said.

John Fechter, newly appointed general secretary of the Young Men's Christian association, and Miss Ida Green, general secretary of the Young Women's Christian association, were the platform with Rev. Mr. Jump. The attendance was large.

CHIEF OF STREETS TWENTY-FIVE YEARS

Superintendent Frodden Asks for Assistant After Quarter of Century

ALAMEDA, Nov. 10.—After personally supervising the construction and care of Alameda's thoroughfares for nearly a quarter of a century, V. M. Frodden, street superintendent, asked the city council to give him an assistant.

His principal reason is based on the fact that many of the early built thoroughfares are worn down to such an extent they will soon have to be reconstructed.

Superintendent Frodden ranks high among those who have to do with the building and maintaining of municipal highways. The fame that has come to this city because of its model streets and avenues is due more to the veteran superintendent than to any other person.

From the time he was placed at the head of the street department he has made a careful study of thoroughfare construction. He was long regarded as an authority on macadamizing. When it was first discovered that crude oil could be used in prolonging the life of worn macadamized thoroughfares Frodden invented various machines for applying the oil and obtained excellent results.

The problem of constructing a stable roadway across the spongy Webster street marsh, which puzzled engineers for years and cost the taxpayers thousands of dollars, was solved by Frodden and the late W. R. Poyser, who was city engineer. After experts had despaired of devising a foundation that would not disappear into the slushy depths of the marsh Frodden and Poyser hit on the plan of laying a floor of heavy redwood planks just below the water level on the east side of the roadway. Slickens was pumped from the estuary on this foundation. When the slickens set several coatings of crushed rock were put on and the surface rolled and bituminized. The roadway has given splendid service ever since.

Three of his productions have been staged here and all were well received. President M. J. Devaney of California council and all of the officers and members are working to make the benefit a success.

ALAMEDA, Nov. 10.—The dramatic section of California council of the Young Men's Institute will give two performances for the benefit of branch No. 3 of the Catholic Ladies' Aid society of this city in Lafayette hall, San Antonio avenue and Lafayette street, the evenings of November 21 and 22.

The program will include vaudeville numbers by clever local and outside talent and the playlet, "The Governor's Gift," written by Louis Lefevre, who has achieved more than local fame as a playwright.

California Council Dramatic Section to Give Two Performances in Berkeley

ALAMEDA, Nov. 10.—Neil Schmidt, the sturdy girl swimmer of Alameda, whose feats in swimming the bay and negotiating the difficult passages around the Sea Rocks have made her famous, stars the bill at the Pantages theater this week in her initial vaudeville appearance in this city. Miss Schmidt was given a great welcome at the first show. She performed some graceful feats of diving and swimming in a tank on the stage, which served to demonstrate her perfect form and splendid development. It was announced that Miss Schmidt will soon leave this country to try to swim the English channel.

"The Years of the Chorus" offered by Eleanor Otis and company, assisted by Genevieve Schrader, is an entertaining bit showing the sacrifice by a chorus girl for another member of the chorus. The scene shows the dressing room. Miss Schrader has a good voice and her singing, together with the crisp sayings by Miss Otis, put the act across with no dull moments.

The Millard Brothers appear in a comedy cycling act, interspersing clever tricks on the bicycle with comedy. Their act is brassy, and the dog, he said he decided it would be foolish for him to take his life. The letter had been mailed and his parents acted at once. He is employed at the Richmond Standard Oil refinery.

BALKAN TROUBLES MAY INCREASE EXPORTATION

Market for American Goods Is Growing in France

[Special Cable to The Call]

PARIS, Nov. 10.—The American farmer evidently has "discovered" France as a market for his wheat, for during the last few months his exports to this country have doubled. They will be quadrupled if the war continues, and the Russian crop is short because of the danger of navigation in the Black Sea and the detention of Greek vessels by the ports.

Wheat from the orient is largely consumed, especially in the south of France, on account of its richness in gluten, but the American flour will supply the deficiency until the arrival of the surplus crop from Argentina, Australia and India.

SCHOOL SUFFRAGE IS SOUGHT BY FAIR SEX

Berlin Women Begin at Bottom in Fight for Vote

BERLIN, Nov. 10.—Although other large cities in Germany allow women to serve on their school boards, actual voting members or advisers, and this feminine element has proved itself most progressive and helpful, all attempts to induce the Berlin municipal body to extend the "glad hand" to women and grant them similar privileges have proved fruitless. Not recognizing defeat, however, the women of Greater Berlin are petitioning the council to allow them to have a small voice in the arrangement of evening classes for girls, hoping thereby to force an entering wedge for greater responsibilities.
