Grim Air of Doubt Seems to Pervade Yale Atmosphere on Eve of Harvard Game

WHY THEY THROW BOMBS.—By Goldberg.

MEN OF ELI ARE LACKING IN 'PEP'

Harvard as High a Favorite as 10 to 7 in the Betting Odds on the Big Game

Special Dispatch to The Call
 NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—Nothing more in the way of real work can be given to the Harvard and Yale elevens. The crimson has taken things fairly easy this week, while the Elms have been hurried up to the last minute. Yale needed the work, while Harvard needed only to keep on edge.

The mental attitude of this year's Harvard eleven is worth considering. The team has been alert and on its toes from the start, besides being free from those errors in judgment that frequently have characterized Cambridge elevens. The team always has been confident without being overconfident, and this feeling has been communicated to the undergraduate body.

Wall street, and other districts where betting on big games is conducted, Harvard is in judgment that the crimson is potentially one of the strongest that ever represented the New Haven institution, but there is not one of them who can tell whether the team will play up to form on Saturday.

NO YALE OVERCONFIDENCE

The feeling at Yale is a trifle grim. There is no more of that hopeful, even overconfident, talk that preceded the Princeton game. The coaches realize that the eleven is potentially one of the strongest that ever represented the New Haven institution, but there is not one of them who can tell whether the team will play up to form on Saturday.

Both Yale and Harvard practiced this afternoon on the field which will be the scene of their conflict two days hence, Yale giving the visitors the field until 2:30 this afternoon, when the Elms took possession.

Contrary to expectations, Yale indulged in a scrimmage, but it only lasted 10 minutes. The main work of the coaches today was to get the team on fighting edge. There are faults in the Yale play, but the coaches are willing to let these pass if the team will only bring results.

COACH VOICES DOUBTS

A coach said today that if Yale carried the attack five minutes to Harvard, instead of lying back until within the shadow of her own goal posts, the blue would win the game; that the team had the power, football ability and everything else it needed except aggressiveness—and this lack he could not account for. It is an unusual thing to try to rouse in a Yale team.

"If Yale fails to come through," said the coach, "this team will go down into history as the strongest Yale team ever have had. It will be the nearest to a Yale team's quitting that ever has been known, and that certainly is something that never could be said of any other Yale team."

Whether or not this fighting spirit has been stirred in the team is a matter of question. No doubt it has wonderfully improved.

THAT OLD SPIRIT NEEDED

If, when the team faces Harvard Saturday, the same old spirit Yale has always looked for appears in the team, the confidence of undergraduates and coaches at once will be firm, because all who know this year's team thoroughly insist it can defeat Harvard if it simply carries the fight to Harvard and does not assume the defensive.

Yale also has been spending considerable time with her kicking squad. In yesterday's practice in drop kicking Pumphrey tried about 20 at all sorts of angles and missed three. The kicks were all between the 25 and 35 yard lines.

The lineup today—and as many as are apt to be used in the Harvard game if the first team fails to show the desired snap—contained all of the probable substitutes and was as follows:

Carter, Gile, Avery and How, ends; W. Warren, Talbot, H. Warren, W. Baker, tackles; Cooney, Pendleton, Arnold, Reade, Madden, guards; Ketchum and Marting, centers; Wheeler, Cornell, Dyer, quarterbacks; Philbin, Spalding, Flynn and Substitutes Markle, Pumphrey and Dick Baker.

Peninsula Stars Have Their Work Laid Out for the Entire Winter Season

Special Dispatch to The Call
 HILLSBOROUGH, Nov. 21.—The most elaborate polo schedule ever arranged for a season on the Pacific coast was announced today by the tournament committee of the San Mateo Polo club. It calls for an almost continuous series of tournaments and matches lasting until March 1, when the Hillsborough players plan to leave for Colorado to battle for the all western trophies.

The "Bulgars" headed by Walter Hobart, have drawn a bye for the event and the other two teams, the "Stockmen" and "Erratics," will meet in the preliminary game on El Cerrito field Sunday afternoon to fight for the right to play in the finals Thanksgiving day. The junior championship is open to teams of four whose aggregate handicap does not exceed 12 goals.  SACRAMENTO, Nov. 21.—The most important Rugby football game to be played locally this season will be held at the Buffalo grounds here Saturday, when the fifteens of Sacramento high school and Chico state normal clash for the championship of northern California.

Both of these teams have been playing bangup football this season, and neither has lost a game. The normal boys have been Marysville, Woodland and the other teams, while the Sacramento boys have defeated Davis state farm and Stockton.

The Sacramento team played Stockton, which has qualified for the A. A. L. finals, a scoreless game here last Saturday.

Rugby critics who have seen the Sacramento boys in action say they have the best high school team in the state. Last year they were undefeated and were refused a game by the A. A. L. champions.

GREAT SWIMMING MEET ON TONIGHT

B. C. A. L. Water Dogs Look Good to Supporters of Each School

The annual swimming championships of the Bay Counties Athletic league will be held tonight at the local Y. M. C. A. tank. The meet will bring together all the schools of importance, with the exception of Lowell, from both Berkeley high, Cogswell, Oakland and San Francisco Poly all have strong teams entered, and it looks like an even fight between them for the honors of the meet.

Some of the best high school swimmers in the state are entered. Lindsay of Berkeley high has shown himself to be in the front rank of the school water dogs and will represent his school in the 50 and 440 yard events. In the 50 he has fast men against him in Jensen of Poly and Stephenson of Cogswell.

Another lad of great note as a web-foot is Linc Johnson, the phenomenal one legged lad of Cogswell high. He will swim in his favorite 220 yard and 850 yard events. Of the men entered it is hardly likely that any of them will be able to take the honors away from Johnson.

The relay will have six teams entered and should prove an interesting affair. Many of the schools are looking for the score to be close throughout, and believe the relay will be the deciding event.

STANFORD TENNIS OPENS TOMORROW

Star Racquet Wielders of the Cardinal Are Entered

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Nov. 21. Stanford tennis enthusiasts soon will be able to get an accurate line on the actual strength of the cardinal on the courts, as the annual interclass singles championship tournament will be inaugurated Saturday morning. The drawings have been made and the players will first decide the class champions and then fight it out for the university title.

The junior class has failed to enter a single player. The freshmen and sophomore champions will decide the underclass supremacy, and the winner of this match will play the senior winner. The players who have entered the tournament are the best racquet wielders in the university and some brilliant tennis should result. Five players are members of former varsity teams, three of last year and two of the team which competed against California in 1911. They are R. L. Murray '13, G. L. Shaul '13, F. S. Pratt '13, V. A. Sheldon '16, and W. N. Hutchinson '15. Two freshmen, F. C. Hunter and J. S. Hutchinson, have shown the marks of varsity caliber in previous matches this semester.

The drawings resulted as follows: Seniors—R. L. Murray, bye; C. L. Shaul vs. C. S. Grace; A. Pierpont vs. T. J. Elberth; F. S. Pratt, bye. Sophomores—V. A. Sheldon, bye; L. Sloss vs. W. S. Hutchins; W. N. Hutchinson vs. F. C. Hunter; Freshmen—A. A. Goldsmith, bye; O. G. Brum vs. F. C. Hunter; H. L. Hahn vs. J. S. Hutchinson; R. N. Wright, bye.

Club Rugger Training for Annual Argument

Arrangements Completed by Commissioners for Big Yearly Battle

Arrangements were completed yesterday by Commissioner Phil Johns of the Barbarian club and Commissioner Harry McKenzie of the Olympic club Rugby football teams for the playing of the annual club championship between the two teams. The game has been scheduled to be played one week from Saturday on the St. Ignatius stadium.

The annual contest between these two club teams is always one of the big items of the football season, and on every occasion when the teams have met the game has always turned out to be a close and hard fought contest.

Though the Olympic club team has won every club championship since Rugby was adopted, the margins by which the Barbarians have been defeated have been very small.

Both teams have started in training, the Barbarians gathering at the club headquarters last night to talk over the plan of battle. The last week of solid practice will be started on the stadium Sunday morning. The Olympic club men will also get into harness for their final game, and Commissioner McKenzie will start a training table at the club Sunday for his experts.

Berkeley and Palo Alto High Schools Also Will Battle

Special Dispatch to The Call
 STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Nov. 21.—Stanford Rugby fans are eagerly awaiting the game between the Berkeley and Palo Alto high school teams, which will be played on Stanford field Saturday afternoon. These two teams made the best showings of all the preparatory school fifteens that played against the freshmen this semester.

Interest in the contest has been aroused not only owing to the high grade of Rugby, that undoubtedly will be furnished, but also because the game practically will decide which team is to play Los Angeles high school during the holidays. Palo Alto has the grade of Rugby, but also because the game practically will decide which team is to play Los Angeles high school during the holidays. Palo Alto has the grade of Rugby, but also because the game practically will decide which team is to play Los Angeles high school during the holidays.

PANAMA MODEL

Be Reasonable in Selecting Shoes

If your foot is made for a low heel, you are very unwise to wear a high one. If a high heel carries your weight right, wear high heels. But don't leave it to chance. Come in and try standing and walking in both styles. Then you will know, and will save yourself much discomfort.

We show here PANAMA MODEL, Black Smooth King Calf Button Boot, the latest in high-toe styles. Has half double sole, military heel, high arch and short vamp which makes the foot look short. Would be five dollars in most shops.
