and widely opened in chape, usually tinted white and gold, and their zinc inside linings are filled with blossoms of blue and pink, or blue and white. Sometimes, the baskets when stained a dull mahogany contain quantities of the single daisy variety of chrysanthemums, graduating in color from pale yellow to deep bronze and through all shades of leafy red. Multitinted autumn leaves complete the harmony. At the ball given the other evening by the William Crookers for three debutantes this arrangement was carried out with exquisite effect. The reception room in which Miss Phyllis de Young made her bow recently was decorated with these French baskets overflowing with a variety of roses and orchids, carrying out the pink and white color scheme that is the accepted effect. The debutantes who dance—and who among them does not?—are very glad to receive a Periplocean bunch. This, instead of being fastened to the corsage, where it not only will be crushed, but will surely be in the way, is worn on the shoulder and above the elbow, it is always in evidence and there is no danger of soiling the elaborate present day gowns with crushed leaves and flowers. The orchids and paler flowers are favored for this arrangement to harmonize with the white gowns of the debutantes.

There was the dance Tuesday evening at which Miss Christine Donohoe made her formal bow to society, and the dance Wednesday evening given by the William Crookers for three buds to interest the debutante group last week. The trio of girls who shared the honors at the Crooker dance were Miss Sophie Beylard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Duplessis Beylard; Miss Helen Garritt, daughter of the George Garritts; and pretty Miss Margaret Nichols, the daughter of Bishop and Mrs. William Ford Nichols. At the Donohoe dance there were not as many guests at the affair the night following, but the guest list at this debutante party was restricted in the major part to the younger crowd. There were a few older friends invited, but it was a young group that greeted Miss Christine Donohoe on her debut. This debutante is the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Donohoe and a younger sister of Miss Katherine Donohoe, one of the favorite belles here and in Burlingame. She is a charming girl who has had the advantages of travel and education in this country and abroad. Her first season will be a gay round of parties given in town and down the peninsula, where she has a large coterie of relatives. Among those in the family connection are the Robert Haynes, the daughter of the members of the De Vaugne family, among whom are those two charming young hostesses, the Vicomtesse Helie de Dampierre, and her sister, the Vicomtesse Philippine de la Roche. There are also last Tuesday Mrs. William S. Tevis gave a dinner for a group of young people, who later went to the Donohoe home. Mrs. Tevis' dining was another hostess entertaining for a group of guests at her home.

The latter part of the week was enhanced for the young set by two dances. The Friday Night dance was an enjoyable affair, with holiday decorations and scores of pretty gowns to make the scene memorable for more than 200 young people. This series of dances is being held at California Club hall and is under the patronage of the group of matrons who have guided the club through several successful seasons. There were several dinner parties before the dance and one of the most enjoyable of these was given by Miss Ethel Graham, the attractive daughter of Judge and Mrs. Thomas Graham. The decorations at this affair were in the holiday red and green with brilliant pointillism on the prettily decorated table. The dinners given before the Saturday Evening assembly were very informal affairs. The dance given last evening at the home of Mrs. Cesar V. Meyerstein in Octavia street when her daughter, Miss Inez Marlon, was hostess for a score of young friends, many of whom are members of the Friday Evening Dancing club.

The dance given last evening by the members of the Neighbors' club was as enjoyable as the previous affairs of this organization. The club has a varied membership, as it were, with a detachment of matrons and the young married set and several of the older matrons who enjoy dancing. It was, as the name implies, formerly a neighborhood affair, composed entirely of the residents of the Presidio terrace and Pacific avenue near the terrace. It was organized in this manner as a family party, with daughters and mothers in the membership of the club, and met every fortnight for an informal dance. When the dancing club became a permanent organization the aspect of the membership remained the same and the club became unique among the dancing clubs. In most of the other clubs the members are of the same age, approximately, and have a list of older friends who exchange their parties for them. The neighborhood club has a group of patronesses who are in reality just a receiving party and who meet the guests informally at each dance, assisted by a few members. The patronesses of the club this season are Mrs. J. K. Wilson, Mrs. E. D. Bullard, Mrs. R. H. Postelthwaite, Mrs. Andrew Carrigan and Mrs. Alpheus Bull.

Announcement of the engagement of Miss Anna Priber and William S. McKnight was made at an informal tea given Tuesday afternoon at the home of the bride elect in Scott street. Miss Priber has recently returned from the east, where she traveled during the summer, and there was no rumor of her engagement until she told a few friends the afternoon before the announcement tea. The news was a complete surprise to the friends of the couple and felicitations were showered upon the bride elect at the afternoon affair. Miss Priber has taken an active part in social affairs during the last few seasons and her home in Scott street has been the scene of many enjoyable parties. Her sisters are Miss Lucy Priber, the violinist, and Mrs. Charles Houston of New York, whom she has been visiting during the early season. Her fiancé is a Harvard graduate and prominent in club and professional matters in this city. There are no definite plans announced for the wedding, but the event is scheduled for the early part of the new year. In the meantime there will be a round of informal entertainments for the bride elect.

Society Notes

The picturesque Mission Dolores witnessed the culmination of a pretty romance Tuesday evening, when Miss Annie M. Nyland, a former belle of the Mission district, became the bride of George M. Bohm, a young business man of this city. A large gathering of relatives and friends crowded the church, where the impressive ceremony was read according to the rites of the Roman Catholic church by Rev. Father Tobin. Joseph S. Nyland gave his daughter into the keeping of the bridegroom.

The bride was attired in a costly robe of white satin embellished with Irish point lace, with which she wore a tulle veil crowned with orange blossoms. Her shower bouquet was of lilies of the valley and maidenhair fern. There were three attendants. The maid of honor, Miss Etta Williamson, was charming in a gown of white charmeuse with an overdress of broad, ed pink chiffon, in pretty combination with which she carried a bouquet of pink roses. The two bridesmaids were gowned alike in flame colored brocade under chiffon, and they bore shades of tea roses. They were Miss May Tierney and Miss Irene McDonald. Jack Bohm was the best man, and the ushers were William Driscoll, Oliver Johnson and Harry Williamson. Immediately after the ceremony the bridal party and a few close friends and relatives of the couple repaired to the home of the bride's parents in Dorland street, where a wedding supper was served. Mr. and Mrs. Bohm have gone to the southern part of the state, where they are passing their honeymoon. On their return they will reside in this city, where an attractive home awaits them. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Bohm. He is well known in the financial and fraternal circles of the city and is a prominent member of the Philomath club.

The Iota club entertained at a charming dancing party at 141 Eureka street last Wednesday evening. The rooms were attractively decorated for the occasion with baskets of chrysanthemums and foliage which were hung about the walls and used as adornment for mantel and shelf. At midnight a buffet supper was served. Those who took part in the evening's pleasures were:

- Miss Estelle Goodwin
- Miss Mary Jones
- Miss Loretta Wilson
- Miss Adele Goodwin
- Miss Edna O'Shea
- Miss Theresa Selp
- Miss Agnes Bell
- Miss Carrie Withington

A quiet wedding was celebrated Thursday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William D. Hobro in Clay street, when their daughter, Miss Delphine Hobro, became the bride of Wesley McKenzie, a young business man of this city. Rev. Mr. Colegrave of the Methodist Episcopal church officiated at the impressive ceremony. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore the conventional white satin and lace enveloped in a tulle veil. She carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. Her only attendant was her sister, Miss Emily Hobro, who as maid of honor, was gowned in a creation of pink messaline satin and carried a shower of roses. Lester Hobro, a brother of the bride, was the best man. Only the relatives and a few close friends witnessed the marriage, after which the young couple departed on their honeymoon, whose destination, however, they are keeping secret. Their future home will be in San Francisco.

The marriage of Miss Irma Harris and Samuel Logasa was celebrated at the home of the bride's parents last Sunday afternoon. The young couple are spending their honeymoon in the southern part of the state. On their return they will reside in the new home, just built for them, in Northbrae, Berkeley.

There was a large gathering of members and friends at the Thanksgiving dinner given by the New England association last Wednesday evening. The Auditorium, where the entertainment was held, was converted into a fitting setting for the affair, with palms and evergreens and boughs of eucalyptus, with which were intermingled the flags of the New England states and bunting in the colors of the organization.

At the dinner the old fashioned dishes were revived and the favorite dish of each state was included in the elaborate menu. At the conclusion of the repeat the merry makers gathered in the ballroom and enjoyed every variety of the dance from the stately measures of 100 years ago to the rag of today. The party was a grand success. It was a real rally such as San Francisco has rarely seen and the guests were descendants of New Englanders or were themselves emigrants from the pilgrim states. Old friendships were renewed and new friendships were formed and the evening was voted an unequalled triumph.

Some of those who contributed to the success of the evening were:

- Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Durgan
- Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Newcomb
- Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Coogan
