

AS WOMAN 1913
WOMAN
DO you keep memory cupboards in your mind in which to put the things that will interest your various friends?

The other day I met a woman whom I usually see about half a dozen times a year. As soon as our greetings were over she said warmly, "I'm so glad to see you. I wanted to tell you about a letter I had from Miss L., you remember, the lady who visited us last summer. Well, she said—" and then she went on to tell me of some kind words Miss L. had been good enough to write about my little talks, and which, needless to say, made the rest of the day bright for me.

Now, she had received that letter some six weeks before, and she had been saving this up to tell me all that time. That is what I mean by memory cupboards. I never see this woman but that she has something in her memory cupboard for me. Of course, it isn't always a compliment. Sometimes it's a new nonsense rhyme because she knows I enjoy these products of a peculiar genius. Sometimes it's a piece of news about some mutual friend. Sometimes a suggestion of a topic that I might enjoy using. But she always brings into our conversation some personal bit which she has been saving up especially for me. Nor am I the only one thus honored by any means. I happen to know that she does this for all her friends.

Do you wonder that she has just as many friends as she has room for—and then a lot more?

I think this woman acquired the habit of keeping memory cupboards for the sake of her mother, who was a semi-invalid for years. She has told me that she used to be always on the alert to pick up any little incident, or piece of news or information to take home to the shut-in. And I suppose that is how the gracious custom first became a habit with her.

Little things like the repeated compliment, the interesting bit of news, the carefully remembered nonsense rhyme, can give a great deal of pleasure. For in addition to their intrinsic value one is also pleased by the kindly spirit that stored them up.

There are some people who never have interesting things like this to tell; there are other people who occasionally give pleasure that way, more by chance than intention; and there are a few who deliberately keep these memory cupboards.

To which class do you belong?

Four Troops March All Day and Camp on Golf Links

"Attacking" Force Will Return to Presidio Today, Completing Inspection

The four troops of the First cavalry marched all day yesterday, encamped on the golf links last night and will continue the hike today, all under the direction of Lieutenant Colonel John H. Beacom, inspector general of the western department.

Inspection of the cavalry squadron before its departure for the parks for the summer is being made and its fitness for marching and other necessary qualifications are being determined.

The cavalrymen resolved themselves into a defensive force, marching south from the Presidio toward the Ingleside, doing scouting duty "to see what they could see" of a possible enemy about to attack the city.

From 7 o'clock in the morning until 6 o'clock they were in the saddle. Early this morning they will leave their shelter tents, eat their breakfasts in the open air, and reversing the conditions, become an attacking force.

Fort Winfield Scott, with its companies of coast artillery men and its great guns, lies all unaware of the inspection, but it is the objective point of the cavalry troops.

The inspection, which will be completed this afternoon, is a general one of the field and includes mapping, signaling, etc. Colonel Beacom will be aided in the work of inspection by his assistant, Major George H. McManus, inspector general's department.

Major John P. Hains, coast artillery corps, assumed command of Fort Winfield Scott yesterday, which duty he will perform until the arrival of an officer yet to be detailed to succeed him to which Colonel Adam Slaker, coast artillery corps, was assigned and then recently relieved.

Major W. Chase, coast artillery corps, who has been in temporary command at Fort Scott, was relieved by Major Hains.

At Fort Barry, where Major Hains has been commanding officer, Captain J. C. Goodfellow, One Hundred and Sixty-first company, is in command until the arrival of Major J. F. Knowlton, coast artillery corps, who goes from Fort Scott next week.

Major Kenney J. Hampton, quartermaster of the Presidio, placed the troops at Fort Riley and Fort Mason yesterday morning. In the afternoon he will perform the duties of the Lettermen and of inspecting the cooks and bakers, the signal corps and the ambulance companies. Today he will pay the coast artillery men at Fort Winfield Scott.

Lieutenant Colonel Joseph P. O'Neil, now attached to the Thirtieth infantry, is assigned to the regiment, vice Lieutenant Colonel William H. Sage, relieved from assignment and placed on the unassigned list.

Captain Carr W. Waller, ordnance department, Benicia arsenal, has been ordered to proceed to Fort Ruger, Fort de Russy, in the Philippines, where he will be in command of the ordnance and engineering companies of the 24th regiment.

Captain Lawrence B. Simonds, quartermaster corps, assistant to the chief quartermaster, western department, will go on to the east coast Saturday. He will depart for the east accompanied by Mrs. Simonds, and will return to San Francisco via the Panama canal.

Lieutenant Harvey H. Fletcher has been transferred at his own request from the Twelfth to the Twenty-ninth infantry.

The medical corps of the army has just purchased eight new pattern X-ray machines of the interrupt type, one of which is to be sent for use in the hospital at the Presidio of Monterey. Others will go to Fort Riley, Kan.; Fort Leavenworth, Kan.; Fort Andrews, Mass.; Fort Williams, Me., and Fort Mackinac, Wyo.

The work of improving portable X-ray machines for use in field hospitals is being continued.

The quartermaster corps will, April 23, open bids for furnishing the army with 150,000 pairs of russet shoes, the bids to be opened at the quartermaster's office in Philadelphia, Boston, New York, Chicago, St. Louis and San Francisco, in order that the opportunity of bidding may be increased and greater competition obtained.

Complaints have gone forth from the San Francisco merchants in the past that they have not been given opportunities to bid on the army shoe contracts but they are now given the same chance as eastern manufacturers.

"THOSE CIRCLES SAVED MY LIFE," SAYS CONTESTANT!

"One Picture That Goes on a Circled Page Had Me Worried to Death!"

Contestants have welcomed the Answer Book circles announcement with a shout. "I've been wondering what those circles could mean," one contestant writes, "and it is a welcome and delightful relief to discover that they pointed out the 10 pictures that the 10 starred titles fit."

"One picture in this contest has simply had me worried to death trying to solve," another contestant declares. "You can imagine my joy to discover through your announcement of the Answer Book circles that this picture is actually one of those that the 10 starred titles fit. Of course, it was dead easy to find the starred title that the picture represents. And so my troubles are over, unless some of the pictures yet to appear will stump me. But I really think that the 10 pictures which go on the 10 Answer Book pages are the 10 hardest of the whole series, so you can imagine that I am pleased to find that their titles are told us."

Ten of the 5,000 book titles in the contest catalog, you see, have stars printed on them. THESE TEN STARRED TITLES ARE TEN OF THE 77 CORRECT TITLES.

And 10 of the 77 pages in the Answer Book have circles printed on them. AND THE TEN PICTURES WHICH GO ON THESE TEN CIRCLED PAGES ARE THE PICTURES WHICH REPRESENT THE TEN STARRED TITLES.

So you have 10 of the correct titles told you, and then have the 10 pictures these titles fit told to you. Look into the Catalog and pick out the 10 starred titles. Then look in your Answer Book and see the numbers of the 10 pages which have circles printed on them. The 10 pictures which go on these pages are the 10 pictures which represent the 10 starred titles. The 10 starred titles are the CORRECT titles to the 10 pictures.

Get all the back pictures free with the Catalog and Answer Book, and start after that $1,800 auto!

ANSWERS TO QUERIES If you have made two or more answers to pictures which appear on circled pages, and now want to do away with them and put down one of the 10 starred titles, just rub out the answers you wish to eliminate, or paste a strip of white paper over them.

Rejoice, all you contestants who wanted to know the meaning of "The Croppy." A contestant from Calistoga writes as follows: "In England it meant one who had his ears cut off for treason, as was the law in former years; it also was used to refer to an Irish rebel who had close cropped hair. In American slang it refers to one who has been in the penitentiary and had his hair cut. Several anxious contestants and the Contest Editor give you their thanks, W. J. H."

That baldheaded man in picture No. 30 seems to be holding nothing at all in his hand. His hand is raised, that is all. In picture No. 9 the sun is rising. In picture No. 39 no one seems to be in the auto. Perhaps its occupants are walking to the nearest railroad station.

The woman in picture No. 42 seems to hold a sales tagbook in her hand. C. H. Fresno, writes that she has only eight starred titles in her catalog. Look among the titles beginning with the letter O and those beginning with the letter S, and you will find the other two stars.

SECRETARY'S WIFE ON HUSBAND'S DRESS

Mrs. Redfield Declares It Is Bane and Makes Homes Suffer

By CONSTANCE CARRUTHERS (Special Dispatch to The Call) WASHINGTON, April 7.—"Dress is woman's bane." Such at least is the opinion of Mrs. W. C. Redfield, wife of the secretary of commerce.

"I am a firm believer in every one presenting as good an appearance as possible at home and abroad," declares Mrs. Redfield. "I take great pride in the reputation which the American woman has for being neat, stylish and charming to the eye. What I protest against is that foolish idea which so many have about the latest cry from Paris to use the modish term. That silly feeling about appearing twice in the same gown or wearing any robe, no matter how elegant or becoming, because perhaps the sleeves show a line not in accordance with the Paris fashion book or the train shows a divergence from what constitutes elegance in Rue de la Paix."

MANY GOWNS NO VALUE "Every woman knows what gray matters, what energy, what precious time is spent getting gowns. When they become multiplied as the modes prevail, it means part of every day given over to something which is without value to one's self, to society, or to the family."

"Really, I should like to see our sensible American women, those who form public opinion and whom the general run of womankind consider as models of deportment, take a more common sense view of this question of dress. Why not be happy in last year's gown, if the modish fashions are not to the taste, and give the time and money which would be spent in getting new ones to something more worthy?"

All womankind complains of the almost prohibitive prices we now pay for domestic service. As the price mounted higher and higher I was led to protest to some who sought service with me. I pointed out that in the new modern equipment of the homes, electric lights, hot water heating, the modern methods of cleaning homes made work so much lighter than in the days when there were lamps to attend to, kitchen ranges and kindling wood and the old fashioned way of house cleaning every room with broom and mop.

COST OF GOOD DRESSING "They listened to me interestedly and several told me they were compelled to have more money to live. Everything costs more—their wardrobe, their shoes, stockings, soap and such things. The modish fashions, the wearing of usually as good shoes as her mistress. She must present a certain appearance or she can not fill the engagement. Her aprons must be of good quality and so must the material of her gown. Of course, many home keepers furnish these for maids, but I speak of the rank and file of people who keep but one maid of all work and who must also present a stylish front to their acquaintances."

"All this leads me to wonder how so many merchants, furriers and silk purveyors, who mark the extra-garments which marks the working girl is but the reflex of the lack of economy of those above her. The same is true of other expenses. The home must suffer in this restless rush for pleasure and display."

Luther Burbank Says:

"Music is fundamental—one of the great sources of life. Health, strength and happiness. It is one of the voices of nature—a voice of soul to soul adapted to every mood. Music releases the soul from its mortal shell and takes it to brighter skies, new oceans, mountains, flowers, birds, trees and brooks, where time and space do not intrude."

The great "Wizard" knows well what constitutes the fundamentals of life, and that music is one of these. No thoughtful person can afford to disregard these words of Luther Burbank.

HINTS By MAY MANTON

Every dainty girl likes pretty lingerie. This night gown is sure to appeal to them. The gown consists of front and back portions and little sleeves that can be finished with bands or be provided with a simple ribbon at the shoulders that provides fullness, while the back is plain. The gown can be drawn up at the Empire line by means of beading and ribbon or it can be left loose. The neck is cut on a square outline. The gown is slipped on over the head so that there are not even buttons and button-holes to be provided. Crepe de chine makes a very delightful material for gowns, and many girls like cotton crepe. Nainsook is always a standby for lingerie garments. In this case, that material is trimmed with lace and beading and the effect is extremely pretty. The edges of the neck and sleeves could be scalloped and button-holed and, if liked, some further bit of handwork could be embroidered on the front of the gown.

For the 16 year size the gown will require 4 1/2 yards of material 36 or 3 1/2 yards 44 inches wide, with 2 1/2 yards of beading and 2 1/2 yards of edging to trim as illustrated.

The pattern of the gown 6973 is cut in sizes for girls of 14, 16 and 18 years. It will be mailed to any address by the Fashion Department of this paper on receipt of 10 cents.

SORORITIES BAR MEET TO "RAG"

Secret List Compiled Showing Those Who Refuse to Dance a la Society

BERKELEY, April 7.—Sororities at the University of California have barred several college men from dances in the future because the men are said to have indulged in ragging, and because of other customs to which the women vainly objected.

The sororities, acting unofficially, made up a secret list of the men to whom no invitations will be issued. The college women say they mean not only to rag dances, but to the habit which certain men are said to have held of talking across the dancing floor to other men, usually fraternity brothers.

The college women say the men must talk to the women with whom they dance, not to the man dancing with some other woman.

Tobacco among the dances is the aeroplane glide, a form of "rag" in which men could, by holding their elbows akimbo, like the wings of an airplane, annoy others. The chief complaint is that these fellows strike other dancers in the ribs.
