worst practices or align himself with our highest ideals.

In the words of Prof. David P. Barrows of the University of California, who presided at the afternoon meeting of the Young Men's Christian association, assimilation will never be achieved by pressure; it must be done by power of attraction, the immigrant must be persuaded that his own interest is identical with that of his new found country.

"GIVE IMMIGRANTS A CHANCE"

Representatives from all three Pacific coast states were present and the roll of the delegates was found to number 185. Captain Robert Dollar, chairman of the executive committee of the congress, opened the two day session and representatives of the state and municipal government, clergy of all denominations and other leaders have been scheduled to speak.

"We are here to discuss ways and means of stimulating public sentiment to the end that immigrants who are already here may be given fair chance," said Captain Dollar, "and that the many more who come after the canal is opened may be received with warm hearts and helpful hands."

"We want them to become good citizens, and it is necessary that we take up ways and means of locating them under conditions that will give them the best opportunities of success, shielding them against the unscrupulous and aiding them in an advisory way until they are well established and self-supporting."

Mayor Rolph welcomed the delegates to the city, declaring that they were here in the interest of a humane work, whose results would be seen in a few years after the opening of the Panama canal.

John A. Goodell of Portland, international industrial secretary of the Y. M. C. A., representing the West, declared that Oregon was heartily in sympathy with the movement to cope with the immigration problem. For Governor Lister of Washington, Samuel Collier of the Seattle Chamber of Commerce promised the aid of that state.

"The status of the immigration question on the Pacific coast," was the topic of Robert Newton Lynch, vice president and manager of the California Development board and secretary of the California Immigration commission. He put the condition of affairs squarely before the congress by saying that he was not going to discuss the desirability of immigrants, as the problem was to take care of them already here because of his susceptibilities to new influences. If not protected he exploited and then becomes a menace."

The location and distribution of the newcomers was the chief problem, he continued, since it is difficult bodily to transport them from one country to another.

"The first problem to be settled is that of attitude, for we still regard the foreigner with condescension," declared Bishop Hughes. "If we take credit to ourselves for what our ancestors have done, he has just as much right to think similarly of the deeds of his predecessors of this port."

After the morning session many of the delegates attended the luncheon of the San Francisco center at the Palace hotel.

Charles R. Towson of New York, international secretary of the Y. M. C. A., was the first speaker at the afternoon session. He urged more widespread interest in the immigration situation.

Simon J. Lubin of Sacramento, of the California Immigration commission, declared that it is for the citizens of the Pacific coast to say what kind of a man the incoming foreigner shall become, and that a central organizing body is needed to obtain systematic work and effective results. He urged the establishment of municipal reception stations, for immigrants and other means to give the immigrant a chance to become self-protecting, following up the efforts of the state commission.

Prof. J. K. Hart of the University of Washington told of the founding of a voluntary state commission in Washington to cope with the problem, and its desire to build up local committees to supplement its work.

Three committees have been appointed to formulate resolutions and report at this afternoon's session with the following chairmen: Reception and protection, Simon J. Lubin; education, Dana W. Bartlett of Los Angeles; location and distribution, Robert N. Lynch.

"Location and Distribution of the Immigrant" will be the general topic of the session this morning, and the speakers will be Mr. Collier, Rabbi Meyer, Walter MacArthur, Governor Oddie of Nevada and John A. Goodell of Portland.

Governor Johnson has been invited to speak at the afternoon session, and will attend if business permits. Bishop Hanna, and Rev. John W. Beard, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Hogueham, Wash., will also speak.

The members of the congress will dine with the Commercial club at its monthly dinner tonight at the St. Francis.

IMMIGRATION HUMAN PROBLEM—STEINER

A doctrine of brotherhood, of kindness, of toleration and of faith was expounded yesterday by Dr. Edward Steiner at the luncheon of the civic center, at which he spoke on the immigration problem.

Dr. Steiner is recognized as one of the authorities in this matter, and his address was heard with interest by several hundred members and guests of the center.

Simon J. Lubin of the state immigration board spoke in behalf of the commission of immigration and housing bill, now before the state legislature.

Mrs. Robert A. Dean was chairman and introduced the speakers.

Talented Performers to Assist Benefit for Roosevelt School Friday

Motion pictures from several of the best known studios in this and foreign countries and a varied vaudeville program embracing vocal, orchestral and musical selections are among the features of a continuous performance which is to be given in Richmond hall next Friday evening for the benefit of the Mothers' club of the Roosevelt school.

This organization, like similar organizations throughout the city, is working to establish mutual co-operation between teacher, pupil and parent, and the school and home. Judging from present indications, the benefit is to be an unqualified success from every standpoint.

Several talented performers have contributed their services, among them Miss Ida Rodriguez, a promising violinist, and Miss Phyllis Scharff, a well-known vocalist. She possesses a voice of unusual range and power and will render songs particularly adapted to her vocal capabilities.

The program is as follows: Orchestral selection by Professor Graeber's Mandolin club; songs by Miss Phyllis Scharff, with Miss Ida Wellich at the piano; monologue by W. H. Dahl; violin solo by Miss Ida Rodriguez; with Miss Wellich at the piano, and four motion pictures from standard companies.

Office Employee Surrenders Late in Day While Officers Hunt Him

J. C. Wilson and B. A. Wilbrand, members of the brokerage firm of J. C. Wilson & Co., who were indicted last Saturday by the federal grand jury for conspiring with Charles F. Baker to loot the Crocker National bank, and Peter F. Burke, former confidential clerk of the firm, surrendered themselves to United States Marshal Elliott yesterday.

They were released on $10,000 bonds each to appear for arraignment at 10 o'clock Monday morning before Judge Van Fleet in the United States district court. It was not until 5 o'clock that Burke appeared to post his bond after the city had been searched by two deputy United States marshals in search of him.

Burke and his attorney appeared and the bond was given before United States Commissioner Erroll after Deputy United States Attorney McKinley had approved it. The bond was furnished by the California Casualty company.

John Martin and R. M. Hotelling qualified as bondsmen for Wilson and A. A. Moore Jr. and Charles Sweeney qualified for Wilbrand.

Charles Darwin Said:

"If I had to live my life again, I would have made a rule to listen often to good music. The loss of the latter is a loss of happiness, and it may be injurious to the intellect, and more to be feared than the want of the emotional part of our nature."

Charles Darwin was one of the greatest minds the English race ever gave to the world. He realized the great loss he had sustained in having little music in his life.

What does Daddy want?

Every mother must sooner or later ask herself this question, and it is one which must involve a good deal of anxious consideration. It may be that on the advice of friends various foods are tried to see if baby takes kindly to them.

What Food shall I give Baby?

Now, it is not reasonable to assume that an infant's food that has been in general use for upwards of fifty years, and that has been used, in preference to others, in most of the Royal Nurseries of Europe, is likely to prove a suitable diet for the average infant? Such a food is Savory & Moore's, and all mothers who decide in its favour may be congratulated on the wisdom of their choice.

Infants reared on Savory & Moore's Food are characterized by strong, sturdy limbs, firm flesh, plenty of bone and muscle, easy teething, freedom from infant ailments, and that happy disposition which is the surest sign of perfect health. Ask your Druggist to get you a tin.

MOTHER'S GUIDE FREE

Much useful information on the Feeding and Rearing of Infants will be found in Savory & Moore's booklet, "The Baby," a copy of which will be mailed free, to all applicants by Savory & Moore, Ltd., Chemists to The King, New Bond Street, London, England.

HOWARD AUTOMOBILE CO. PORTLAND SAN FRANCISCO LOS ANGELES

2nd, 3d, 4th, 5th, 6th Awards 5 Eilers Bungalow Player Pianos, $3000

THE EILERS BUNGALOW PLAYER The Piano With a Memory What would you give to have in your home the piano which a Paderewski or a De Pachmann took with him on his concert tours—if that piano had a memory, and could repeat at your request all the marvelous triumphs of the masters? How do you know that the Eilers Bungalow Player Piano is not just such a piano? Have you heard it? Those who have listened to its wonderful renditions of the masterpieces are enthusiastic in its praise. They call it the "piano with a memory."

You can hear any day such a program played on the Bungalow Player Piano at Eilers Music House, 975 Market Street, where you will be courteously received if you ask to hear the pianos. The Call is offering five grand prizes in the great Booklovers' Contest. Or, in lighter vein, the Bungalow will play, as Paderewski might not be willing to play, the latest popular dance or song music. Or, you can play it "by hand" just as though the player attachment were not built into the case.

For these reasons, and because it is the only player piano specially adapted to the needs of the small city apartment, the Eilers Bungalow Player Piano was chosen by The Call for this big contest, as something of interest to every home.
