3 YOUTHS PUT TO SEA IN CANVAS CANOE; MISSING

Naval Reserve Cutters, Fishing Boats and Steam Launches Vainly Search Off Santa Cruz for Trace of George Doland, Lisle Hitchings and Earl Boyd

BATHHOUSE GUARDS' WARNING UNHEEDED

Clad in Bathing Suits, High School Students Man Sixteen Foot Craft and Venture Out to Whistling Buoy, Never to Return

(Special Dispatch to The Call)

SANTA CRUZ, June 8.—Venturing several miles to sea in a frail canvas boat that they had themselves constructed, George Doland, Lisle Hitchings and Earl Boyd, high school students of 16 years of age or thereabouts, are believed to have been captured and drowned, yesterday afternoon. The local naval reserve cutters were called into service, and these, with a fleet of fishing boats and steam launches, are making a thorough search that has utterly failed of results as yet.

The clothing of the boys was found at the mouth of San Lorenzo creek, showing that they had undertaken the trip clothed only in bathing suits. An alarm was given late in the evening, and, while every fishing boat and steam launch in the harbor responded, it is feared that they were too late and that the boys have lost their lives.

FISHERMEN TO RESCUE

The fishing fleet was first put off from the pier in the search. Later an alarm was given to the naval reserves and they quickly responded. Every part of Monterey bay was searched, but no sign of either the boat or its crew was discovered.

Inshore at this beach there is no undertow, nor any currents, but at the whistling buoy, two miles off the beach, there is a strong current and frequently choppy seas. While the boys were good swimmers, they must have been drawn out to sea while rounding the buoy, their boat capsizing. The long swim to land apparently was too much for them.

The boat that the lads constructed was 16 feet long and was known as a canvas collapsible canoe. It was not the sort of craft that could stand a heavy sea.

WARNING IS NOT HEEDDED

Notwithstanding the warning they were given by the San Lorenzo bathhouse guards, the boys threw off their garments, put them in one of the lower river bathhouses and started out in their bathing suits for the trip. The day was pleasant, but at sea considerable wind was blowing. It is not customary for any of the small craft of the harbor to venture out beyond the buoy unless they be the sturdy fisher boats.

12 SUICIDES A RECORD FOR ONE DAY IN MILAN

One Case in Suicide Epidemic Is Boy Who Wishes He Were Girl

(Special Cable to The Call)

MILAN, June 8.—All records for the number of suicides in one day were broken here this morning. Twelve separate cases of self-destruction were reported to the police. Five were due to unrequited affection, three followed field losses, two were due to religious melancholy, one was the case of a boy of 12 years who said he killed himself because "God should have made him a girl," and the twelfth was that of a mother who poisoned herself so that her children might collect insurance which she had taken out before poverty came, preventing her from paying the premium about to fall due.

The director of public safety, Bartlett, has issued a new set of rules for the beach patrol, and one reads: "Lounging of guards in the hospital tent or beach chairs, flirting, unnecessary conversation, reading, giving bathing or swimming lessons, allowing bathers in boats, or using boats for fishing purposes during working hours will not be permitted."

JUNE SNOW CALLS OUT MOSQUITOES

Hammond, Shivering in Cold, Fights Clouds of Stinging Insects

(Special Dispatch to The Call)

HAMMOND, Ind., June 8.—What will be hereafter known as the "June blizzard" established some astonishing records here. Early yesterday it snowed. The storm produced a peculiar plague of mosquitoes, which drove the inhabitants almost frantic. The whole Calumet region was afflicted, clouds of black mosquitoes descending upon the towns and villages, driving persons indoors, halting cars and virtually stopping all activities. One streetcar ran into a swarm of the insects and the passengers battled for several minutes to close the windows. Women fainted and the men were nearly crazed with pain before the pests were banished.

Espying Bedouins From Afar, He Warns Captain and Summons Troops From Garrison

(Special Cable to The Call)

TOBRUSK, June 8.—Aeroplane are now being used by the Italians as escorts for the caravans journeying between Egypt and Tripoli. Through the vigilance of an aerial scout, a large caravan was saved from destruction yesterday from Os-Himim. The scout saw a party of Bedouins approaching from a great distance, and descended to warn the captain of the caravan, who ordered detachments hurriedly thrown up. Then the scout flew to the nearest Italian military post and returned with cavalry and a field battery of artillery.

The Bedouins were attacking the caravan when the rescue party reached the scene. The latter pursued the raiders and inflicted heavy loss in a brief engagement.

Desert Becomes Bivouac

(Special Cable to The Call)

DEENA, June 8.—General Tattoni will resume his march against the Bedouin stronghold at Mehule tomorrow. His column now numbers 15,000 well equipped Italian soldiers and a brilliant campaign is anticipated. General Salsa, the commander in chief, is mobilizing the reinforcements as they arrive, and will follow up Tattoni's advance as soon as the troops now at Naples and Genoa reach this port.

Altogether about 34,000 troops will take part in the war against the fanatic sheik, Grand Senusso Achmet Scherif Ali. The latter has added to his army 20,000 Arabs and 1,500 Turks, about 7,000 warlike Sudan, many of whom served under the Mahdi and the Mad Mullah against Gordon, Wolseley and Lord Kitchener.

The Grand Senusso has thrown up fortifications from Mehule to Marsura. He has also commandeered all the camels on the Egyptian border. About 800 camels were lost to his forces, however, while gunners were testing four large cannon just secured from the Turks. The loud detonation of the guns scared the "ships of the desert," and they took to their heels in mad gallop, and escaped from the camp in a great cloud of dust and sand.

"SULTAN TIPS WHEN HE DECORATED MAJ. FINLEY"

Sheik Sends Envoy to Islands Ordering Dattos to Keep Up War and Ignore Yankee Firmness

(Special Cable to The Call)

VIENNA, June 8.—Sheik ul Islam, head of the Moslem priesthood, is incensed at the action of the sultan in giving a firman to Major John E. Finley, the American Moro governor, commanding the Dattos of Mindanao and the Sulu archipelago to cease molesting American or Filipino citizens and expressly prohibiting the religious vendetta against Christians.

The sheik is sending a representative of his own to Mindanao, telling the Dattos to ignore Finley's firman as it was obtained "while the sultan's mind was heated with strong wines and the seductive arguments of the crafty American." He is also sending an offering to the mosque in Talunggay, which he says has been defiled by the "American unbelievers." The sheik has just commended the "grand senusso achmet, Scherif Ali," head of the Bedouin Mohammedan sect, for declaring the jihad against the Italians in Tripoli.

IGNORES DREAM; MEETS DEATH IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Kittie Howe, Chorus Girl, Leaps Over Steep Embankment in Excitement of Crash

(Special Dispatch to The Call)

LOS ANGELES, June 8.—Though warned by a dream the night before that she would be killed in an auto accident, Kittie Howe, a chorus girl, took a joy ride yesterday in an automobile driven by Howard Ham, and today she is dead.

Ham, with the Howe girl and Babe Leroy, another chorus girl, were coming down the Waterman canyon road when the auto swerved to one side and hit a rock, smashing a wheel. The Howe girl, who was in the rear seat, leaped down the steep embankment. She struck a pile of rock, fracturing her skull at the base of the brain.

Autos bringing the high school senior class from a reception at Arrowhead hotel picked up the injured girl and brought her to the Ramona hospital, where she died.

Nothing is known here as to the girl's relatives, as she joined the chorus but a week ago.

A letter was found in her baggage from J. E. Hohemann of Venice, a member of one of the leading families of San Bernardino. Two other young men, William Nielsen and Ray Smith, and a third chorus girl, had been members of the party, but they were not with the machine when it was wrecked.

PARIS IS SOME TOWN, COLUMBIA PARK BOYS SAY

San Francisco Lads With French Boy Scouts Storm Heights of Meudon in Rain

(Special Cable to The Call)

PARIS, June 8.—The Columbia Park boys of San Francisco, with the French boy scouts, stormed the Heights of Meudon this afternoon in the rain. The Californians marched from the Lycee Montaigne, to the Invalides street, where they took the train for Meudon valley Fleury.

All along the route the youngsters missed none of the sights of Paris. Passing the Eiffel tower they did acrobatic tricks in their efforts to see the top from the train windows and commented with refreshing candor on everything they saw.

"This certainly is some town," said Elmer Bowman, who bangs the cymbals in the band. He is the youngest in the group, only 11 years old, and the smallest.

"He is a great kid, is Bowman," said one of his comrades. "Why, when we were in London we were all introduced to Miss Shirley Kellogg, the American dancer. Next day, when we were on the march, along she came in an automobile. What did she do but pick Elmer up and kiss him."

"Gee," said Bowman, coloring up to the ears, "you're just jealous." "What strikes me as funny," said Allan Freeman, the cornet player, "are these old signs, 'English spoken,' in the shops. I went into three of them on the boulevards last night before I could find any one who could speak Californian."

"Say," interjected Edward Firestone at this point, "ain't those steam trams funny. We wouldn't stand for them in San Francisco. But the statues here are fine. They make me think of our world's fair."

When the Californians got out in Meudon they faced a line of boy scouts, who presented arms, and the drummers rub-a-dubbed away up the hill until a particularly heavy downpour drove everybody to the trees. The French scouts opened their knapsacks, took out capes and courteously offered them to the Californians, but the offer was declined with thanks.

At the scout's camp the French boys

Congregation of First Baptist Church of San Jose Indorses Advisory Board's Action in Returning Resignation to Dr. Claude Kelly, Accused of Indiscretion During Pastorate

(Special Dispatch to The Call)

SAN JOSE, June 8.—Following a dramatic appeal from the pulpit today the congregation of the First Baptist church voted to indorse the action of the advisory board in returning the written resignation of the Rev. Dr. Claude Kelly, who had been accused of indiscretion and who has been under investigation three separate times during his pastorate of 18 months in San Jose.

The action of the congregation was practically unanimous, only about 15 members refusing their indorsement. Several of the leaders of the opposition who have consistently fought Dr. Kelly were absent, among these being Dr. Edward Newell.

READING OF APPEAL IS DRAMATIC SCENE

While Handsome Wife Sits by His Side, Clergyman Recites History of Attacks Upon Him and Refutes Them All—Only Fifteen Members Favor Removal

(Special Dispatch to The Call)

Dr. Kelly's victory followed the action of the advisory board, which was in session at a late hour last night. The board was practically unanimous in its decision to vindicate the pastor. It is said that there were only two dissenters out of a membership of 22.

The scene which preceded the action of the congregation was dramatic. "I don't want to be entirely selfish in this matter," Doctor Kelly said. "There is some one here whom I am sure you will all be glad to see; I am sure that you will be glad to see your assistant pastor."

With these words Doctor Kelly stepped from the platform pulpit and walked to where Mrs. Kelly was sitting among the members of her class. He took her by the hand and led her to the platform amid cheers and applause. As they stood smiling side by side bowing to the great assemblage the hand clapping grew more enthusiastic. In pantomime the wife's affection and faith in her husband and pastor was evident.

WIFE SITS BY HIS SIDE

Mrs. Kelly took a seat on the platform at her husband's side and the pastor proceeded to read a statement reviewing his pastorate here, which, he said, had been submitted with the approval and upon advice of the advisory board. The statement was as follows:

"In Oakland, 1911, while pastor of the Oakland Baptist church, Pittsburg, Pa., I accepted a call of the First Baptist church, San Jose, Cal. The call was unsought, unannounced, and accepted in good faith. During my pastorate here of 18 months repeated attacks have been made upon my work and character.

"The first of these was directed by Robert Whitaker and his associates of Los Gatos, and among other things it is alleged that the pastor of the First Baptist church of San Jose was in collusion with blackmailing criminals operating from Oakland. It was claimed that a room had been raided by detectives and impeaching correspondence discovered. One of our own members, already privately antagonistic, used this matter in a way to create unrest in the church. So menacing be-
