

another. Especially the latter.

You wouldn't.

How very easily and quickly most of us forget to be happy.

Suppose you should have an automobile given you tomorrow (and perhaps we'd better say, the wherewithal to run it); suppose your husband should get a big raise in salary; suppose the very biggest annoyance of your life were to be forever removed; suppose some rich relative whom you do not even know, and hence could not grieve for, should leave you $100,000 tomorrow; don't you think you would be happy for a very long time?

Of course you would be very happy for a while, but it's astonishing how short that while would be.

Somehow it doesn't take any particular effort to remember to be unhappy over the tangles that won't come straight, and the conditions in our lives that aren't pleasing, and the luxuries we can not have. But when the tangle is straightened, the disagreeable condition disappears, or we gain the coveted possession, how hard it is to remember to be happy over our blessing more than

The duty of happiness is one of the most sadly neglected duties in the world. Indeed there are still many people who do not even recognize "the great

The old idea that one must necessarily be sour and miserable in order to be good is slowly disappearing, but it's positive, the idea that goodness and happiness are more or less synonymous, still smells of brimstone to many folly. I know a woman whose morning prayer is "May I be happy today and make others so." Do you think she can wander very far from the right path if that prayer is granted?

Is there not some blessing in your life today that you were once sure would make you very happy? And have you forgotten to be so? Then begin again today. It's never too late to remember to be happy.

"Women may want the vote, but the desire for masculine prerogatives does not extend to the wearing of whiskers. Superfluous hair on face or forearms always will be abhorred by women. To remove wild hairs, make a paste with powdered delatone and water, cover the hairs with this paste for two minutes, wash the skin and the hairs will be gone.

"The use of powder tends to clog and enlarge the pores of the skin, causing blackheads. It is much better to use a lotion instead of powder. Dissolve an original package of mayatone in a half pint of witch hazel and apply in the morning. It will hold all day and will not look 'mussy' if you perspire. Mayatone prevents sunburn, an and freckles.
