

Couple Surprise Friends Miss Wolf a June Bride

Mrs. Romney S. Masters, who was Miss Elizabeth Mary Wolf.

Calistoga Home Scene Of Wedding; Groom R. S. Masters

(Special Dispatch to The Call) CALISTOGA, June 15.—Surprising all their friends except the most intimate members of the two families, Miss Elizabeth Mary Wolf, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Wolf of Napa, and Romney S. Masters were married yesterday at the home of the bride's parents here.

Mrs. Masters was a member of the class at the University of California and has for several years been a teacher in the school department of Berkeley, where she met Mr. Masters. She is a member of the Alpha Chi Omega society, and during her college days was prominent in student activities.

The groom is the son of Mrs. Mary E. Masters, an infirm, of the late Rev. F. J. Masters, D. D., for many years superintendent of the Methodist Chinese missions on the Pacific coast. He is connected with the Pacific States telephone and telegraph company.

For three years, will leave for New York next month, when Colonel Brodie will be placed on the retired list. The bride will go east by way of Panama. They expect to pass the summer in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Osgood Hooker entertained at an informal tea party Saturday evening at their home in Burlingame.

Sympathy being extended to Mrs. Truman Beale and Miss Alice Oge, whose sister, Miss Gertrude Oge, died a few days ago.

Mrs. Alan Macdonald and her little son, Graeme Macdonald, have gone to Pleasanton to spend the summer with Mrs. Macdonald's parents, Colonel and Mrs. J. C. Kirkpatrick.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Chase have rented the cottage of Judge Lennon in San Rafael, where they will remain two months.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert P. Blanchard, who returned recently from their wedding trip, are residing in the Hotel Bellevue.

Dr. and Mrs. John Harold Phillips and children have gone to Marinwood, Los Gatos, to spend the summer. Upon their return to town they will reside in Washington street near Laurel.

Miss Helen Ashston, entertained at an informal tea Friday afternoon in honor of her sister, Mrs. John Piggott, who, with her husband, will depart Saturday for Sacramento, which will be their home for the next few years.

Miss Eleanor Landers has gone to Marinwood, Los Gatos, for a brief outing.

Mr. Albert B. Payson of San Mateo, who has been making a motor tour, is spending a few days at Tahoe Tavern.

The marriage of Miss Louise Kellogg and George Whipple will not take place this month, but instead will be an event of September.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Stone of Burlingame, were week end guests in Highland Springs, as was G. H. Umbson of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Drown will not summer this year, as has been their custom, in Santa Barbara, but instead will divide the next few months between the different fashionable resorts. They will leave in the near future for an automobile tour of the south.

Lieutenant and Wife Advise Younger Couple to Follow Their Example

"Do as I Did," Elder Sister Counsels, and Leads the Way

(Special Dispatch to The Call) WASHINGTON, June 15.—Eloping on the advice of her sister, who did the same thing five years ago, Miss Louise M. Lipscomb is today the happy bride of Lieutenant Sam M. McLeary, U. S. A., a member of the aviation corps.

The bride is only 17 years old and because of her youth her mother, the widow of Captain J. Lipscomb, U. S. A., objected to an immediate marriage. Miss Lipscomb and the lieutenant had been engaged for a year.

Finding their entreaties in vain, the couple confided their troubles to the young woman's sister, Mrs. D. C. Cordner, wife of Lieutenant Cordner, U. S. A.

"Why don't you do as I did and elope?" suggested Mrs. Cordner. Her suggestion was eagerly accepted and the couple, accompanied by Lieutenant and Mrs. Cordner, went to Baltimore, where they were married by Rev. J. R. Stratton in the Seventh Baptist church.

When they returned to Washington the young bride and bridegroom received parental forgiveness. They are now on a wedding tour.

Lieutenant McLeary was recently transferred from duty in San Diego, Cal., to Fort Washington, Maryland. While on duty in San Diego he made a new army record for altitude.

"TALES OF THE MERMAID TAVERN," by Alfred Noyes.

Many who are not strictly speaking, lovers of poetry will find genuine enjoyment in "Tales of the Mermaid Tavern," the latest book of poems by Alfred Noyes. Even those who consider it a prejudice against poetry are likely to be caught by the infectious vigor and swing of the ballads and sea songs which constitute the more mermaid parts of the volume.

Like a great sailor on his long voyage, Noyes has a sense of the sea, and the sea is in him. The T for Tyburn brand on his thumb, and grim, peck-pitted face, and the beard that would frighten a sailor.

Considered critically this newest work of Mr. Noyes shows the same failure to handle blank verse successfully, which marked his "Drake." His liberty with rhythm and stress have not the finely lessoned technique of the modern manner, which by judicious end stopping and variation of the caesural pause give freedom of movement to the blank verse.

"THE GARDEN OF DESIRE; LOVE SONNETS TO A SPANISH MONK," by Edna Worthley Underwood. Scattered through the 63 sonnets of "The Garden of Desire," by Edna Worthley Underwood, there are a certain number of detached fragments of poetry.

"TO THE LOST TRINITY," by Auguste Angelier. Translated from the French by Mildred J. Knight and Charles R. Murphy. There is abundant evidence of literary address in the translation of Auguste Angelier's sonnet sequence, "To the Lost Trinity," which has been made by Mildred J. Knight and Charles R. Murphy.

"MYSELF AND I," by Fannie Stearnes Davis. In the poems by Fannie Stearnes Davis, published under the title, "Myself and I," there are no offenses against taste.

"THE RUSSIAN EMPIRE" by Charles W. Winter. That most energetic of literary travelers, Charles W. Winter, has added to his long list of works "The Russian Empire of Yesterday and Today," a book of almost 600 pages, in which he describes the country and its people, furnishes a present, and gives a survey of its social, political and economic conditions.

"SEEKING NATURE FIRST" is the title of a new book by Clarence M. Weed (Lippincott). As a summer trip, such an excursion is really a very good thing. It is a book of nature, of the wild flowers, insects and other wild things are disappearing. And in a comparatively short time the world will be impoverished to obtain many specimens now common.

"THE RAYAL AND ANCIENT GAME" is the subject of a new Outing publication, "The Art of Golf," by Joshua Taylor. Herald is explained "The Mystery of the Mashie" and other things worth knowing. The author's brother, J. H. Taylor, former champion, has contributed a chapter on the "Evolution of the Bunker"—explaining how in the early days of golf bunkers "just happened."

WOMAN WOMAN

By RUTH CAMERON THE other afternoon I had a caller who said nice things about my house, my clothes, my flowers, my family, etc., almost every time she opened her pretty mouth. And such clever and graceful nice things, too! She assured me that my old-fashioned furniture was beautiful in itself, but even more beautiful as a background for my personality.

She flattered my taste in clothes by asking if I would mind if she copied a certain point in a gown which I wore. The full force of this compliment is only understood when you are told that she dresses infinitely better than I do and knows it, and knows that I know it.

She declared that I must be prepared to have her intrude frequently because she did so enjoy drinking afternoon tea from my old blue cups; it added so much to the flavor of the tea, "which is exquisite enough in itself, my dear."

You would surely think I would have been in a glow of pleasure over all these compliments, wouldn't you? And yet, hear my confession—they meant little or nothing to me.

And now, before you condemn my lack of appreciation, let me explain. I did not feel delighted with her gracious speeches because I knew they were actuated, not by genuine enthusiasm nor yet by a desire to please me, but merely by the wish to say clever and pretty things, that she herself might shine thereby in the eyes of my other guests and myself.

How did I know it? I felt it just as one usually feels insincerity and pretense. You think I may be doing her an injustice? Possibly. But I doubt it very much.

I think she is a type of a large class; the people who say gracious things and do kind acts not from any desire to give happiness, but simply to make themselves appear well.

Surely you have met such people. Surely you have known by the self-satisfied smile with which they launched their pretty compliments that it was themselves and not of you they were thinking. Surely you have realized the shallowness of their benevolence and seen it evaporate beneath some slight inconvenience or annoyance or an insufficient return in gratitude.

Such people sometimes wonder why they are not more popular. They do the world an injustice. They think it unable to sense insincerity and tell a pose from a genuine feeling.

A pretty speech made with a genuine emotion behind it, and made only for the pleasure it will give and not for the admiration it will excite, is a joy forever.

But the other kind, and the people who make them, we could well do without.
