TAYLOR SAYS HE DECLINED OFFER TO PLEAD GUILTY

Declares He Told Attorneys He Would as Soon Jump From Window as Admit Crime

WITNESS TELLS OF PARK GATHERINGS

Met There for Privacy Only; Macphee Is Given Rigid Cross Examination

At a meeting of the eight indicted officers in Mr. Schlesinger's office, with Mr. Barrett and Mr. Schlesinger present, a proposition was made to go to plead guilty in order that we might get off with a light sentence. I said that I would as soon jump out of the window as I was not guilty and I did not intend to plead guilty. And from that day to this we have had nothing to do with the others and have left them strictly alone.

With tears in his eyes and his voice hoarse with restrained emotion, Charles Taylor, on his trial in Judge Lawlor's court for criminal conspiracy, made the foregoing statement.

The incident, the most sensational during the trial yesterday, occurred toward the end of Taylor's direct testimony in the afternoon. He had been asked by Attorney O'Grady as to the meetings of the eight indicted policemen held in Golden Gate park and had stated, as did Macphee, that the gatherings were held there because there were so many Burns, McCarthy and district attorney's detectives and newspaper reporters and photographers about the hall of justice that they could not confer with regard to providing funds to hire lawyers to defend them. This, therefore, decided to meet in the park at these assemblies the newspapers were read and each of the indicted men obtained from them information as to the charges against him.

EXPENSIVE LAWYERS WANTED Taylor had stated that the other men, except Macphee, wanted to hire expensive lawyers whom he and his partner could not afford, and he said that had it not been for the personal friendship of Mr. O'Grady, he would be in a bad fix.

Mr. Brennan asked him if it were true that they met in the park to frame up a story, and Taylor replied flatly in the negative. Then he volunteered the statement about the meeting in Schlesinger's office.

At the beginning of the morning session Judge Lawlor took up the matter of Chief White's conversing with some of the jurors last Friday morning, saying he would like to have it cleared up, that while he was sure the chief was merely telling the jurors of the baseball game, O'Grady said he was convinced that nothing out of the way was intended. Judge Lawlor stated that while he was sure the chief was entirely innocent in the matter, still, in view of the fact that two men of the police department were on trial, it was important that nothing of that sort should occur.

Attorneys for both sides assured the court that they had attached no importance to the incident, and the matter was dropped.

Taylor, when called to the stand yesterday afternoon, made fully as good a witness as had Macphee. He seemed to be candid in his answers, he made no evasive, and rarely qualified his answers, except to state frankly that he did not remember some things, where a more accurate memory would have helped his case. He broke down, once only, when telling of the proposition made to him and Macphee to plead guilty.

The witness had been referring to a note book, which he stated contained a record of the work done by himself and Taylor in the matter, and that they were on the bunko detail. Mr. Brennan made a direct attack upon the reliability, accuracy and integrity of the book account, pointing out numerous places where there were no entries. Macphee replied in each instance, explaining that sometimes he was off duty, at others that he was working in Chinatown, was on a vacation, or because of pressure of work or on account of neglect, he had not made entries.

Once Mr. Brennan asked him flatly if he had not prepared the book with a view to the trial. Promptly Macphee proffered the book to Brennan. "Look for yourself," he said. "The ink has been dry for years."

"Have you any idea," asked Brennan, "why Rovigo should testify falsely against you?"

"Not unless it was put into his throat, as it was into those of the other bunko men by some unfortunate," replied the witness.

"Have you any idea who would do that?"

"I guess," replied Macphee significantly, "that discretion is the better part of valor, and I'd better not say anything now."

On redirect examination Macphee explained the meetings in Golden Gate park just as Taylor, as previously related, explained them later when he took the stand.

"Didn't you," asked Brennan, "shake hands all around, and wasn't it you that said, 'we'll all stand together, and if one goes to jail, we'll all go to jail?'"

DECLARES STORY TRUE "That the biggest lie that was ever printed," shouted Macphee, thoroughly angered. "It was Jim McGowan that sprang that stuff. Drolette accused McGowan of weakening and McGowan got excited and walked around and shook hands and got off that stuff."

Taylor went on the stand about 3 o'clock in the afternoon. His testimony was along the same lines as that given by Macphee. He, too, denied emphatically that he ever took a dishonest dollar, that he had any arrangements with any of the bunko men, or that he had any acquaintance with any of them except that gained by arresting some of them. He stated that on one occasion, when a "load of bunko men on their way to jail passed him, Gallo pointed him out and they all shook their fists at him.

This morning Taylor will be subjected to cross-examination. Arrangement will probably begin this afternoon and the case will probably go to the jury tomorrow.

Two Society Maids Are Brides Weddings Take Place in Homes

Mrs. George Moore Shaw Jr., Who Became a Bride Last Evening

University Graduates Plight Their Troth; Rector of St. Marks Reads Service

OAKLAND, June 30.—Miss Elina Scott became the bride of George Moore Shaw Jr., of Oakland, at 3 o'clock this afternoon in the presence of members of the family, and closest friends. The betrothal of the young couple was announced early in the spring.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Moore Shaw of this city. His father is a well known attorney. Mrs. Shaw has been active many years in the Y. W. C. A. and is the daughter of a widely known mining man in Nevada and a niece of Mrs. A. B. McClelland, from whose Berkeley residence she was married.

The ceremony was read by Rev. Clifton Macon, rector of Trinity Episcopal church. There were no bridal attendants. The bride wore a tailored gown of brown charmeuse with a large hat trimmed in plumes. She was given into her husband's keeping by her aunt.

The honeymoon will be spent touring southern California. A home in Claremont awaits the return of Mr. and Mrs. Shaw to the bay cities.

Ralph Ewert Robson claimed Miss Barbara Lucretia Reid as his bride this evening. The ceremony took place at the Reid residence in Berkeley in the presence of the members of the families and a few friends. After six weeks spent in southern California Mr. and Mrs. Robson will establish their home in the college town.

Pink and blue in the pastel shades were combined in the decorations for the wedding. The bride's only attendants were a cousin, Miss Hermina Lathrop, as maid of honor, and Doris Anderson of Reno, Nevada, as flower girl. Herman L. Reid assisted Robson as best man. The ceremony was read by Rev. Edward Lamb Parsons, rector of St. Marks Episcopal church.

Bride and groom are graduates of the University of California, where they were prominent in their undergraduate days. Robson is a member of Delta Tau fraternity. He is the son of Mrs. Nellie Robson and a brother of Frederick Thurston Robson, whose marriage with Miss Frances Woolsey last summer was a brilliant event. His bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Reid. After completing her college course, she took a degree from Simmons college in Boston. She is a member of the Pi Kappa sorority and the Chi Omega sorority.

Mrs. Tyler Henshaw was a dinner hostess last week in her Vernon Heights home. The later hours of the evening were devoted to bridge.

Mrs. George Rodolph has leased the country place of Mr. and Mrs. George D. Greenwood in the Santa Cruz mountains, of which she has already taken possession. Last week she entertained a large house party, among them being Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hubbard, Mr. and Mrs. William Hamilton Morrison, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Youngberg and several others.

Mrs. Horry Meek will take one of the bungalows in Inverness through the mid season. She will have as her guests a part of the time her daughters, Mrs. Stuart Hawley and Mrs. William Volkman.

Mrs. J. M. Barry and her daughter, Miss Letitia Barry, have been spending a part of the mid season at Tahoe.

Mrs. William Hamilton Morrison will be in Inverness during the mid year, planning an out of town visit of several weeks.

MANY COLLECTORS OF CUSTOMS LOSE POSITIONS TODAY

Sweeping Order by Congress Puts 49 Heads of Departments Off the Federal Payrolls

BORDER AGENTS LOSE THEIR PERQUISITES

Local Officials Manifest Uneasiness at Action in Effect This Morning

WASHINGTON, June 30.—The machinery by which the government collects $300,000,000 annually in tariff duties will be revolutionized tomorrow by the most drastic reorganization of the customs service ever attempted.

Treasury officials tonight announced that everything was in readiness for the transformation.

By a sweeping consolidation, the number of customs districts grown to 162 during the nation's history, has been reduced to 19 and 113 collectors of customs lose their positions.

Officials estimate that the reorganization will result in an annual saving of between $400,000 and $500,000 in the cost of collecting the duties. Because of ambiguous phraseology in the law authorizing the reform, many are unable to determine whether congress contemplated a saving of $350,000 or $700,000 by the new plan.

Collectors of customs on the Canadian border, who for years have enjoyed perquisites from the sale of manifests and other customs blanks to importers aggregating, it is said, at least $200,000 annually, will be deprived of this gratuity by the innovations. These collectors will receive not over their statutory salaries, ranging from $3,500 to $8,000 a year. These perquisites, it is declared, in some instances netted collectors $20,000 annually. The government in future will sell the blanks at one cent each or permit importers to furnish their own forms.

LOCAL EMPLOYEES TO BE DROPPED TODAY

There was considerable uneasiness in the custom house yesterday on account of the pending changes that were scheduled to go into effect today. The reorganization of the service, here which effects several men, some of whom will be dropped from the service, was done by Collector Frederick S. Stratton in conference with Chief Deputy Henry A. Farmer, Special Deputy Collector William Hamilton and Deputy Surveyor Charles A. Stephens.

The reorganization and consolidation of the custom districts in California was ordered by the last congress and executed by former President Taft just before going out of office.

The congressional order also directed him to abolish the offices of surveyor of the port, held by Duncan McKinlay, and naval officer, held by General George Stone. On account of his friendship for Surveyor McKinlay former President Taft struck out that part of the order relating to the offices of surveyor and naval officer.

The consolidation brings Eureka into the San Francisco district and San Diego is included in the Los Angeles district. Eureka and San Diego and Oakland will now be presided over by deputies. Sterling Campbell was relieved of the collectorship at Eureka.

In some instances the reorganization has caused promotions and advance in wages. A few days ago a bill was introduced in the senate directing the postponement of the reorganization and consolidation of the customs service for six months. The bill failed to pass the house and the old order became a law yesterday. The letter directing the changes was not received, although Special Collector Hamilton was in receipt of a telegram saying that the official order had been mailed. It may arrive today and put the new scheme of things into immediate operation.

BERKELEY MAYOR REGRETS FAILURE TO GET RESULTS

J. Stitt Wilson Says He Would Not Waste Time Opposing an Hostile Administration

SOCIALIST PROPOSALS WERE VOTED DOWN

Retiring Official Intimates That He Will Devote His Time to Propaganda

BERKELEY, June 30.—Looking back over his administration, on the eve of his retirement from office, Mayor J. Stitt Wilson today spoke of his efforts to bring about in Berkeley municipal ownership of public utilities, and declared that had the council "only come through with the municipal lighting and telephone plants and market," he would have consented to remain mayor of the city. Two years of his life at this time, he said, is worth too much to devote to fighting for what other members of the administration do not want.

"It is a mistake to consider that Berkeley has had a socialist administration," he said. "The majority members of the council are nonsocialists or antisocialists. Each of my distinctly socialistic proposals has been resisted and voted down by a majority, except the municipal employment bureau and the League for Home Rule in Taxation. The majority members have treated me courteously, but when it came to a vote they voted solidly for conditions as they exist."

"I worked for a municipal telephone system and proposed an extension of the same over the whole bay region. A complete equipment was installed here at small cost by the Home Telephone company. This went down to defeat."

"I worked for six months on the question of a municipal electric lighting plant and presented a voluminous report on the subject. This, too, was voted down."

"We worked on a municipal market, for which a very large number of the people are now wishing. This also was defeated."

"My pet proposition for the indorsement of taxation of land values and exemption of improvements was tabled. This was only for the sake of strengthening the movement. But even this failed. As acting president of the League for Home Rule in Taxation, it was somewhat humiliating not to receive the indorsement of my own council for the measure."

"These men are good fellows, all honorable men. But they have no socialistic convictions or ideas. Perhaps a flavor. Falling in my larger plans for city government, we have worked with the men on the council for all municipal improvements on which we could unite. These have been accomplished."

"We are building our incinerator; have equipped an ambulance garage; perfected our flashlight apparatus for the police department; improved the fire department; made extensive street improvements; and cleaned up the city as never before."

"I have not harassed the corporations or monopolies in control of our public utilities, but have struck straight from the shoulder, and told them what I stood for. I told John A. Britton to his face that the people of 200 cities in California were paying altogether too much for light and power. I demanded a lower rate, and expected the council to sustain me. But it closed with a compromise. The socialists voted against the compromise."

"In every city of the size of Berkeley was awakened to economic justice as we are as the results of our campaigns in Berkeley, the new era of abolishing monopoly and privilege would come to America without tragedy."

"Had my council only come through with the municipal lighting and telephone plants and market, I would have consented to remain mayor of the city. But two years of my life right now, and two years of California history, are worth too much to spend in the mere routine of municipal affairs."

"I leave the city hall tomorrow. My auto stands at the door, and I start on a tour of the state, impeaching the capitalist system, advocating socialism, championing the cause of the common people. I am a missionary for social and economic justice. I am a preacher of practical Christianity. The present system can not last. This old regime must pass. And to prepare the minds and hearts of the masses for the new age seems my present mission."

"I open my state tour at San Jose on July 1, then on Pacific Grove, where I will address a mass meeting of all the churches; back to Santa Cruz and thence to Paso Robles to deliver the fourth of July address. After a few weeks, returning early in August to cover the state of California."

Mayor Wilson was the guest of honor at a dinner tendered him last evening at the Crystal Catering company by the heads of departments in the city hall. Congratulatory addresses on his administration were made by the officials.

Following his greeting to his successor, Charles D. Heywood, tomorrow morning, Mayor Wilson will be the guest of the socialist local in Berkeley at a rally to be held at the headquarters in Center street. The majority party will go from the municipal building to the hall in automobiles. After a luncheon in his honor the mayor will leave in company with other socialist workers, for a tour of the state, as mentioned in his statement.

Mayor Wilson will depart for Chicago tomorrow morning to Berkeley from his first tour of the state, to attend a meeting of the national executive committee of the socialist party. A trip will be made to New York while he is in the east. Then he will return to California to take up his propaganda for the party with which he has been so prominently associated for many years.

LABORER THROWS HIMSELF BENEATH FAST MOVING CAR

Deliberate Act of Manuel Chase, Aged 36, Doubtless Result of Temporary Insanity

Sister Says He Had Premonition of Death Before Leaving Home

OAKLAND, June 30.—Waiting until a swiftly moving, westbound Hayward street car was within a few feet of him, Manuel Chase, aged 36, a laborer, deliberately threw himself on the rails and was instantly killed.

Motorman W. M. McDermott threw on the emergency brakes and reversed, but the effort to save the man was futile.

Those who saw the incident say Chase had crossed East Fourteenth street to return a ladder he had been using, and following this action he returned to the curb and apparently watched the car coming, timing its approach.

Policeman Habernig says Chase acted as if he intended getting aboard, until the car was close, when he dived beneath the wheels.

Mrs. Mary Chase, sister of the dead man, says before leaving home this morning he said he had a premonition he would be killed before night.

Chase is said by friends to have been mentally unbalanced on several occasions. He lived with his parents at 1826 East Twelfth street.
