

BABY'S BODY IN WALL OF OLD MANSE

Discovery Made in Former Home of "Mad Millionaire," Thomas Snell

CLINTON, Ill., Sept. 26.—Belief that the finding of a child's mummified body in a thick inner wall of the old Snell mansion here will be followed by other sensational developments. Sheriff Armstrong ordered a guard about the place while the structure is being torn down. Work by the wreckers who found the body in an aperture about four feet square said today that the old house was a labyrinth of concealed passages and wall spaces.

The house was built under the personal direction of Colonel Thomas Snell, known as the "mad millionaire." It cost him $75,000, but none of the members of the Snell family have lived in the place in the last 27 years. It has been unoccupied most of the time.

State Attorney Williams today admitted that the police had discovered a man and woman believed to have been implicated in the placing of the body of a baby in the wall of the house, and that they would be questioned.

Portola Tour Contestants, in Live Political Campaign, Adopt Novel Methods

The prospect of a real, live, active political campaign is looming up in the Portola girls' tour contest. Miss Abigail Whelan, candidate for Hale Brothers, is sponsor for it, for she started regular district meetings.

Men win votes by eloquent language at big mass meetings, but with true feminine intuition the girl candidates seek to charm admirers into piling votes in their direction by dances instead of by speeches. Many dances have been arranged by the candidates. Miss Whelan has arranged for two, one tomorrow evening and the second on the evening of October 4, both at Hale's hall.

Other candidates' dances are as follows: Miss Elizabeth Gleason, this evening, Findlay's hall, 3241 Sixteenth street, and Wednesday evening, place not announced.

Miss Hilda Hofenhe, tomorrow evening, German house.

Miss Victoria Cassano and Miss Genevieve Peterson, joint dance, Wednesday evening, Knights of Columbus hall, under auspices of Y. L. I.

Miss Lulu Bettanier, Native Sons' hall, October 4.

A baseball game will be held tomorrow at the Coast League grounds in Oakland between the Southern Pacific and Western Pacific clubs for the benefit of the girl candidates from the two railroads.

CLUBS; OLD WOMEN DIFFER ON JUSTICE OF ORDER

San Francisco Leaders Differ in Opinions, Some Thinking Young Women Have Been Punished Enough and Should Not Be Restrained by Juvenile Court—Capital City Committee Stands 4 to 3 to Sentence the Elopement Victims

By a vote of four to three, members of the probation committee of the juvenile court of Sacramento decided yesterday that Marsha Warrington and Lola Norris, the girls involved in the Diggs-Caminetti cases, should appear before them and be placed under restriction.

There was discussion of the matter, Mrs. Sheehan, one member of the committee, declaring that the girls had been sufficiently punished, while Mrs. Moreland, wife of the Episcopal bishop of the diocese of Sacramento, said that the same treatment should be given to these offenders as to other girls who had committed offenses.

Clubwomen of San Francisco are not agreed on the point any more than the Sacramento probation committee, and some of their opinions are given herewith.

MARSHA AND LOLA MUST FACE COURT

After Bitter Argument Probation Committee Votes 4 to 3 to Try Girl Elopers

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 26.—Marsha Warrington and Lola Norris must appear before the probation committee of the juvenile court here Monday to face charges of delinquency, based on their elopement to Reno, which resulted in the recent conviction of Maury I. Diggs and F. Drew Caminetti on charges of violating the Mann white slave act. After a heated argument yesterday the probation committee, by a vote of 4 to 3, decided that an example should be made of the girls.

Three members of the committee made strong opposition, pleading and arguing that the girls and their parents have suffered enough through the publicity and odium of the recent trials. Mrs. William Hall Moreland, wife of Bishop Moreland of the Episcopal diocese of Sacramento, led the argument to hold the girls to answer.

"It is the duty of the court to protect and warn other girls," she said. E. J. Carragher, city commissioner of education and member of the committee, strongly backed Mrs. Moreland's stand, saying:

"There should not be two standards, one for the rich and those who have friends and pull, and another for those who have not."

Those voting to hold the girls for court were Mrs. William Hall Moreland, Mrs. J. A. McKee, E. J. Gallagher and Chairman Albert Bonheim. Those voting to acquit the girls were Arthur Miller, Mrs. T. W. Sheehan and Mrs. John T. Greene.

MORE TIME FOR APPEALS
Counsel for Maury I. Diggs and F. Drew Caminetti want 20 days more in which to perfect appeals.

The 10 days' stay of sentence granted by Judge William C. Van Fleet expires tomorrow.

Diggs and Caminetti, who were convicted of violating the Mann white slave traffic act in the trip to Reno, Nev., with two Sacramento girls, were sentenced to two years and eighteen months' imprisonment, respectively.

The government prosecutors will make no objection to an extension of the stay of sentence.

COURT NO RIGHTS IN CASE—MRS. CORNWALL

Mrs. Arthur Cornwall of the California club:

"They have been punished enough. They not only have been punished, but they will be.

"As to their laughing and chatting with their friends on the streets—if they can find friends and can smile after the experiences they have been through with—for God's sake let them do it. Their disgrace will follow them all their lives and they will never be able to escape it.

"You should try once to get some woman who has not the blot on her past into a woman's club, and see how she is regarded and the experiences she has. Her story will follow her—she can never get away from it.

"I don't think the juvenile court has any right to continue to act in this matter. I think there is getting to be too much interference in people's private lives, anyway. It is going just a little too far."

MRS. BELL UPHOLDS SACRAMENTO RULING

Mrs. Mary C. Bell, former president of Juvenile Protective association:

"I agree with the majority of the committee in Sacramento. I really think that in this entire case we should not show any partiality. It is unfair to put the whole burden of punishment for going wrong or doing wrong on the tired workingman's family.

"Well to do girls who transgress are really, to my mind, more reprehensible and more deserving of punishment than the poorer girls. But when a girl who has so much to make life a happy thing for her, deliberately goes against the laws of all sorts she should get her due of whatever legal or social punishment is to be meted out."

GIRLS ARE PUNISHED ENOUGH—MRS. SEATON

Mrs. Ella M. Seaton, writer and clubwoman—It is hard to say what should be done in the case of those girls, but I hardly think they need court intervention. If they are really punished enough, but if they have not repented nor shown a chastened spirit, something should be done.

"It should be rather by the disapproval and silent rebuke of their friends than by legal means. If they are really repented, they should be met half way and given every touch of the helping hand.

"If they are giddy, 'flirty' and feeling themselves heroines, they should be left alone by their friends and by society at large. Social ostracism is, after all, the most powerful and effective punishment that can be given, and particularly to a woman.

"If these girls, of whom I believe Marsha Warrington is much the worst, are not sorry for what they have done and do not feel their disgrace, the action of the juvenile court will do no good for them. It would certainly be a mistake to my mind to send them to any institution. I do not believe in reforming institutions for girls of that type."

Bargemen Shocked in Live Wire Contact

But for the brevity of the contact between a steel boom and a live wire, five men at work on Crowley's derick barge No. 55 would have been electrocuted last evening at Greenbrae. As it was, they were all knocked insensible and when they arrived here this morning were still suffering from the effects of the shock.

The barge had been employed for several days taking heavy boilers out of a discarded brickyard. The last, a 20 ton affair, was hoisted up and swung over the barge. Then everybody's light went out. The deck of the barge was wet. It is supposed that the steel boom touched a loaded power wire. The wet deck and the metal freight and machinery gave the "juice" a free pass all over the boat and everybody got a jolt.

SAILOR FALLS FROM TOPSAIL YARD IN GALE

PICK AND SHOVEL FOR CRAGMONT

Residents of Berkeley Suburb Will Improve Park With Their Own Hands

Residents of Cragmont, in the northeastern part of Berkeley and just outside the city, have organized for the purpose of improving with their own hands the Codornices park playgrounds, leased by the city from the People's Water company.

October 4 has been designated Park day. On that day the men of the district will take picks and shovels and go to work grading and leveling and planting shrubs. City Engineer J. J. Jessup will attend to establish grades, and Mayor Charles D. Heywood will lead councilmen in the shovel brigade.

The women will serve luncheon to the toilers at noon and a New England dinner at night.

To provide tennis courts a club is being organized by Miss Evelyn Petch and Miss Maria Sanderson. The general committee in charge of Park day consists of E. P. Carey, Prof. Thomas H. Reed, Leon Martin, Thomas D. Petch, H. H. Gastman, C. A. Martin and E. M. Ellis.

A "labor" day will also be held by the residents of the Allandale district, Oakland, October 4, when the Allandale playgrounds will be leveled off for basket ball and tennis courts. The mothers' club will serve luncheon to the workers. As a bit of diversion for the afternoon the single and married men will cross bats on the diamond, and there will be a ball game between the boys of the Bella Vista and Allandale playgrounds.

Adler Counsel for Himself in Trial On Forgery Charge

Defendant Shows Skill in Examining Prospective Jurors in the Courtroom

The unusual spectacle of the defendant appearing as his own counsel was seen today in Superior Judge Lawlor's court when Charles Adler, accused of forgery, questioned the jurors who are to decide his fate.

Adler is the man who, two and a half years ago, attempted to shoot Superior Judge J. K. Trabucco of Mariposa county because the magistrate decided against him in a civil suit. He was found not guilty of insanity at that time, and Trabucco refused to prosecute him.

Recently Adler was arrested on a charge of forging signatures to 2,000 shares of the International Music Roll company. Adler proved himself a clever examiner of jurors, and is confident that he will acquit himself through his own efforts.
