

LORD COWDRAY ASKS U. S. TO SEND WARSHIPS

Arrest Artist Seawell for Attacking Model

PLANS FOR 4 NEW PIERS APPROVED

Will Be Constructed as Soon as Money Is Raised by Sale of $4,500,000 Bonds

The harbor commissioners today approved plans for the construction of four new piers and a new ferry slip, as well as for the construction of spur tracks on several old wharves.

WILL BE OLD TYPE The new wharves will be of the old type wooden construction, which are cheaper to build than the concrete piers, but costlier to maintain.

The others will be built, one at the foot of Broadway and the other at the foot of Kearny street. The ferry slip will be built at the north end of the ferry depot.

Unexpected Rainstorm Comes From the North

A storm not scheduled by the weather bureau blew down from the north last night shortly after 9 o'clock and before it subsided had added .17 of an inch of precipitation to the season's total, making the rainfall to date 4.35 inches, against 3.52 last year.

The rain was confined to the northern portion of the state, this city getting the heaviest downpour. Sacramento reported .08 of an inch, Red Bluff .06 and San Jose .15.

Weather Expert Willson said this morning that the storm is over for the present.

GIRL LURED TO STUDIO BY "AD"

Young Woman Tells Police Story of Mistreatment While Posing

Harry W. Seawell, artist and son of Superior Judge Spawell, was brought before Judge Shortall this morning on a charge of attacking pretty 17 year old Olga Anderson, who had applied to him for a position as model, in answer to a newspaper advertisement printed last Sunday.

Miss Anderson is held in custody at the detention house. Following the arrest of Seawell, Miss Anderson's brother swore to a warrant against Charles A. Blume, a contractor, charging contribution to the delinquency of a minor. The brother asserted that while his sister was employed in the Blume household more than two years ago Blume mistreated her and gave her intoxicants to drink.

When seen in his office Blume made the following statement: "This is a case of blackmail. I'll throw the whole outfit in jail if they try this on me. I am going straight to the city hall to give myself up and swear out a warrant charging blackmail."

Seawell's arrest also was brought about by Miss Anderson's brother, J. Anderson, and his wife. The girl on Monday answered the advertisement, which asked for a girl of 17 to pose as a model for head studies. The advertisement was signed 1617 California street, room 16. This is where Seawell has his studio.

Miss Anderson told her sister in law that she was going to hunt work and tore the advertisement out of the paper. Mrs. Anderson says she saw it, but said nothing.

SISTER IN LAW TAKES TRAIL The girl declared today that when she went to the studio she was told

OLGA ANDERSON, 17, WHOSE STORY LEADS TO ARTIST'S ARREST

LOW PRICES FOR HILL PAINTINGS

Days were when the signature of Thomas Hill upon a bit of painted canvas that had caught and held the driven snow of the mountain gullch unlocked a hundred purse strings in frantic bidding. But today exceptionally low prices marked the auction sale of 200 of his varied works. The sale took place at H. Taylor Curtis' galleries and will close the Hill estate.

COLLINS DENIED LIBERTY BY COURT

The fight of George D. Collins for liberty received a setback today when the state appellate court denied his petition for a writ of habeas corpus. Collins, who is serving a term in San Quentin for perjury, recently filed a lengthy petition setting forth many reasons why he should be released. He was aided in framing the petition by his fellow prisoner, Abe Ruef.

Will Try to Sell City Hospital Bonds

An effort is being made today by Health Officer R. D. Brodick and Treasurer McDougald to launch a campaign for the sale of $250,000 of 4 1/2 per cent San Francisco hospital bonds among public spirited and philanthropic persons who are willing to make up the difference between 4 1/2 and 5 per cent, which the later issues are selling for.

MAYOR WILL VETO OPERA MEASURE

Rolph Declares Proposed Ordinance Is Defective and Says He Will Not Sign It

Mayor Rolph has decided to veto the bill for an ordinance providing for the construction and control of the $1,000,000 municipal opera house. After a careful study of the bill and several conferences with members of the San Francisco Musical association the mayor has found what he declares to be a serious flaw in the ordinance, making it contrary to the charter.

His principal objection is to that provision which gives to the subscribers perpetual right to the boxes. In addition the objects to the clause which makes the board of trustees a self-perpetuating body.

Joseph D. Redding, representing the subscribers, maintained that other cities in this country had municipal opera houses similar to the one proposed here. Rolph telegraphed last night to St. Paul, Minneapolis and other cities mentioned by Redding, and from answers received this morning he declares that Redding was misinformed. The mayor is as anxious, he states, to have the city possess an opera house as are the subscribers, but he believes that the latter should donate the building to the city without attaching any strings to the gift.

Rolph will veto the bill before midnight, as the time for signing expires then.

Woman Is Convicted Of Carrying "Gun"

Nellie Anderson, a pretty stenographer, was arrested yesterday at the instance of Patrick Walsh, a saloon man at Market and Battery streets, who told Detective Thomas Conlon that the woman had a loaded revolver in her possession. She appeared before Police Judge Crist this morning. The detectives found the stenographer had been carrying a revolver in her muff. Judge Crist found the woman guilty, confiscated the weapon and suspended sentence for 30 days on the refusal of Walsh to prosecute.

Falls Overboard Stealing Launch

Prescott Magee fell overboard this morning while trying to steal a Great Western power company's launch in Oakland estuary, assisted by Albert Patterson, a mechanic. Ferryboat swells rocked the launch, upsetting his equilibrium. His cries attracted Deputy Sheriff Frasher, who rescued Magee and then arrested both men.

Proves 25 Cents a Day Not Enough to Live On

How to run a house on 25 cents a day was too much of a problem for Mrs. Lena Goeltz, and she hid herself to the divorce court in Oakland. The court was impressed with the gravity of the situation and granted her an interlocutory decree from Edwin Goeltz. She testified: "It can't be done!"

MUTINY IS CHARGED

Federal authorities at the hall of justice this morning rearrested on charges of mutiny on the high seas the nine firemen of the steamer Santa Rosalia, after they were acquitted of charges of disturbing the peace by Police Judge Crist.

LATEST MEXICO FLASHES

BULLETIN WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—President Wilson today indicated to callers a number of salient features in the Mexican situation. They are:

"That British interests will be protected by Admiral Fletcher at Tuxpam and other points pending the arrival of the British squadron; that Admiral Fletcher has instructions to use his own judgment as to what measures are necessary to protect foreign lives and property along the coast.

BULLETIN LAREDO, Tex., Nov. 20.—The Mexican federals are digging entrenchments on the south bank of the Rio Grande river just east of Nuevo Laredo. This action was taken in defiance of the commander of the United States troops here, who ordered that there be no fighting near this city. The movements of the federals are being watched by men from Fort McIntosh. The third squadron of the Third United States Cavalry, numbering 300 men, arrived here at noon. This squadron swells the local contingent of the United States troops to 600 cavalrymen. There are 150 artillerymen, with four heavy guns and several machine guns, also here.

BULLETIN LONDON, Nov. 20.—Upon the personal request of Lord Cowdray, head of the vast Pearson interests in Mexico, the United States embassy cabled to Washington asking that protection be extended to all property of the Pearson syndicate in Mexico. Lord Cowdray expressed the wish that American warships be kept at Tampico to prevent the destruction of his oil properties there. Ambassador Page was asked by Lord Cowdray to assure the American government that there is no truth in the reports that he had extended financial assistance to Huerta.

BULLETIN DOUGLAS, Ariz., Nov. 20.—Negotiations between General Carranza and Doctor Hale were broken off because the United States demanded a pledge that the constitutionalists would hold an election if Huerta were driven from office, according to officials of the revolutionary junta, which returned here today from Nogales. They declared the negotiations could not be resumed on those terms. This means that if Carranza ousts Huerta he will himself claim the presidency.

BULLETIN MEXICO CITY, Nov. 20.—Famine threatens hundreds of residents in this city. Supplies already are short and prices so high that the poorer classes are compelled to stop buying entirely. Scores of children march the streets, begging for victuals. Hatred for Huerta is growing among the lower classes, as they blame him for the increased cost of living.

BULLETIN SUTRO BATH SALE IS POSTPONED TO JAN. 8 The auction of the world famous Suro bath, in which San Francisco is so deeply interested and which was to have taken place today, was put over until January 8, 1914. The postponement is in policy with the Rolph administration. The mayor was desirous of having the date of sale extended so that he could secure some action by the city. The property is in the hands of the Adolph Suro heirs, Dr. Emma L. Merritt, executrix of the estate, agreed to the postponement.

BULLETIN PITTSBURG, Nov. 20.—Fifty men convicted of taking human life will be liberated from the western penitentiary of Pennsylvania before Thanksgiving. "Big brothers" or other sponsors will assume charge of them when they leave the prison.

ELIMINATE HUERTA IS PLAN IN MEXICO

Members Admit Program of Dictator Provides for New Election; United States Has Approved

BROWNSVILLE, Tex., Nov. 20.—General Pablo Gonzales is today making a forced march to Tampico, having captured and pillaged Ciudad Victoria, the capital of the state of Tamaulipas, in what the rebel leader terms the "bloodiest battle of the revolution." Gonzales is less than 50 miles from Tampico, and some time today expects to join the rebel force working north from Tuxpam and to throw between 5,000 and 8,000 men against Tampico in a night attack. This harbor is well fortified and control of these fortifications would enable the rebels to stand off the three Mexican gunboats operating along the coast.

The first detailed report of the capture of Victoria reached here today, after the telegraph line between Victoria and Matamoros, just across the border from here, had been repaired. MORE THAN 300 MEN KILLED The battle lasted 60 hours and the federals are reported to have lost nearly 300 men, including a number executed after Gonzales entered the city. Additional details bear out the first report from General Gonzales that the battle was the bloodiest of the revolution.

The men under Gonzales, who is a former cattle man, were cowboys, herders and Mexican bad men. In their attack on the city they asked for no quarter and gave none. More than 1,500 of the federal garrison managed to escape during the early morning yesterday. About 350 men were left to hold the city until the others made good their escape, and those remaining behind expected to save their lives through surrendering to Gonzales.

ALTAR CLOTH FOILS MEN At 2 o'clock yesterday the officer left in command of the federal force took an altar cloth from the church in which his men were barricaded and using this as a flag of truce, rode to the outskirts of the city, where the rebels immediately informed the officer that he did not wish to take any prisoners, "as I have other plans and do not wish to be burdened with prisoners."

The federal officer returned to the church and the final skirmish began. Within a short time the federals were driven from the church and scattered about the city. A few of them escaped, but it is believed nearly all were either killed in the attack or executed later.

STREETS LITTERED WITH DEAD The streets were littered with dead today and Gonzales' men marched from the city without burying any of those killed in the battle. The city has been "cut off" from all communication for three days and famine and pestilence are threatened. The federal garrison was commanded by Generals Rabago, Arzamendi and Aguilar. It was reported that the two former escaped, while the latter is said to have been executed after he was found hiding in the church.

MEXICAN CONGRESS MEETS MEXICO CITY, Nov. 20.—Many deputies and senators reached their respective meeting places today, several hours in advance of the time set for Sunday Is the Day for the Excursion to Easton. Are You Going? Have you decided to be one of the hundreds who will go to Easton Sunday as The Call's guests? If you have not decided, do so at once. It will be a free outing that will give you a chance to see what our neighbors are doing in the way of developing.
