

ROSE PLACES FOR ALL TIME

Medical Board Plans to Forever Close Alleged "Anatomy Museums" was arrested at the Cook "museum." Both gave $100 cash bail.

Dr. George Morton was arrested at 745 Market street.

Detectives Jackson and Gallagher and Special Agent McDonnell of the state board led the raids.

Holmes is known as one of the "museum magicians" of the United States.

The outfit in the two places raided is identical.

Each consists of two floors and is the typical "specialists' layout."

On account of the publicity given the quacks by The Call in backing up the fight of the state board for a clean San Francisco, there was very little "business" in the museums.

With the information the medical board has in its possession available, the board members do not think it possible that either the Cook place or the gang at 745 Market street can obtain a license to work San Francisco.

They are out of the game for good," said Dr. Harry E. Alderson and his statement was echoed by Dr. W. W. Vanderburgh, another member of the board.

With the museums out of business we have cut the heart out of this whole rotten system," said Ward.

The place may try to get a license, but I do not think it will. We certainly have the goods on them and will keep right at their throats until they are good business locations are occupied by reputable concerns.

Plucky Women Struggle With House Thieves, but Garments Impede Action and Thugs Make Escape

Hobbled by a tight skirt, Mrs. Anna Runaldue was prevented from capturing a burglar with whom she had engaged in a hand to hand combat in her apartments at the home of Mrs. Leona Knox, 205 Twelfth street, Oakland, last night.

Returning home from a shopping tour at about 5 o'clock, the two women upon entering the room occupied by Mrs. Knox was astounded to find the dresser drawers and their contents strewn upon the floor and the trunk lock broken.

CATCHES BURGLAR BY COLLAR. Owing to the fact that two buildings make a very narrow rear entrance to the court of the apartment house, the talk of the two thugs hesitated, undecided whether to go that way or scale the fence.

They were in the act of scaling the fence when Mrs. Runaldue, who was in the act of locking the door, saw the two men and rushed to the aid of her friend.

MADE MANY GIFTS TO S. S. EMPLOYEES

U. S. Grand Jury Investigates Western Fuel Presents to Pacific Mail Men

St. Nicholas and Old Nick appear to have been caught in a strange partnership in the Western fuel case, under investigation by the federal grand jury.

According to the testimony before the grand jury it had been the practice of the Western Fuel company to give gifts of $20 or $25 to certain employees of the Pacific Mail who were engaged in handling or accounting for coal deliveries by the fuel firm to the steamship company.

David C. Norcross, secretary of the fuel company, testified that the fuel gifts were regularly entered on the books of his concern.

Edward Park, a coal weigher for the Pacific Mail, testified that he had received $20 as a Christmas gift from the Western Fuel company.

Special Prosecutors Matt I. Sullivan and Theodore J. Roche contend that the Christmas gifts smack strongly of bribery, as it has already been shown that the Pacific Mail was charged by the Western Fuel, they claim, with more coal than it had received.
