Democracy about town is very jubilant over Alabama. They have gained the election down there, but if Democratic reign in Alabama means what it does in Tennessee and Texas for example, may the mercy of a return to Republican ways come down upon them.

A good joke is going the rounds of the western part of this State at the expense of the erudite editor of one of the Michigan dailies, who, on discovering a fire, rushed out into the street shouting: "Conflagration! conflagration! conflagration!! conflagration!!! conflagration!!!! conflagration!!!!!! conflagration!!!!!!!"

A Double Sabbath. You know that in crossing the Pacific it becomes necessary to alter the reckoning of the days to conform to that of the Eastern and Western Hemispheres, according as a ship is sailing in one direction or the other. In going to Japan, when the 108th degree of longitude is reached (which is just half way round the world from the Royal Observatory at Greenwich, England, from which longitude is reckoned) a day is dropped, and in returning is added.

We crossed that meridian on the 18th inst., and so two days were put down on the ship's calendar as June 18. Now, as it happened that this was Sunday, we had two Sabbaths succeeding each other one of which was the Sabbath in Japan and in all Asia, and the other the Sabbath in America and in Europe. Some of our ship's company were puzzled to know which to keep; but I do not think it would do me any harm to keep them both, and shall always remember with pleasure this double Sabbath on the sea.—Evangelist.

Hamburgs. The Democratic press are industriously striving to impress on the minds of a sensible people that the Hamburg murders were not of much consequence, and when a paper or a person expresses indignation at a state of affairs that will allow such degrading crime, the howl, "bloody shirt" drowns all other utterances. We believe just this, that as long as one part of the press and one class of individuals uphold and seeks to cover up such low-lived work, just so long will our country's history be blotched by such crimes. It is not within the conception of any honest mind to find excuse or palliation for the murder of those six men, who were in custody so that a just law could have taken its course, even though they had committed any crime. This is all the question there is about it, but a portion of the press is continually dodging here and there seeking to hide the awfulness of the outrage by filling their pages with "bloody shirt," and such balderdash. We don't sympathize with the other extreme—the one that makes such occurrences out to be of purely political origin and solely the work of Democracy—but we do abhor the effort to belittle these outbreaks that disgrace some portions of the South, and the effort to make them out as being warranted by justice.

A Trip to the Capitol of the Nation.

Correspondence of THE WEEKLY HERALD. Knowing that some of the readers of the HERALD would like to hear from the National Capitol, I will proceed to give you a short account of our trip.

In company with Messrs. S. P. Gaut, J. M. Crow, J. M. Hardwick and J. P. Cooper, of Cleveland, and H. A. Lowery, of Dalton, we left Cleveland on the 8th. We were joined at Athens by that prince of clever chaps, Henry Bradford, and at Sweetwater by ditto, King Benson. Arriving at New Port, who should bounce the train but that jolly gentleman, Judge Swann, accompanied by his beautiful daughter—all bound for the Centennial—thus making nine in our crowd. We were also joined by three more young gentlemen from Greeneville—making twelve in all. We arrived at Bristol at 9 p. m., where your most humble and three others were lucky enough to get a "bunk" in the sleeper for the pitiful sum of 75 cents. We enjoyed a long night's sleep—at least two hours! and then the conductor growled because we slept late.—About sun-up that king of big eaters, J. M. H., spied a musk melon in a corn field about a quarter of a mile off; John made tracks for that melon, cut it off with his knife and returned to the car, thinking about saving 75 cts; he took a second look at his melon, when Lo and behold! it was a pumpkin, to the great enjoyment of at least two hundred passengers. The next place was Liberty, Va., where we got a first class breakfast for a "leettle monish," and at 8:45 a. m. we arrived at Lynchburg, a lively little city of about thirty thousand inhabitants. Its trade is mostly confined to tobacco. We left Lynchburg at 11:40 a. m.; passing through the famous battle fields of Culpepper, Manassas and Fairfax, arriving at the Capitol of this "glorious Union" at 9 p. m. on Aug. 9th. At Washington we were met at the depot by our gentlemanly Representative in Congress, Gen. Dibrell, who took us to his house at No. 903 E Street, where the party were furnished with nice rooms and comfortable beds. After taking a night's rest we "arose from our slumbers" and took a square meal at the Imperial Hotel, and from there in company with Senator Key, we went to the Treasury Department and had a good look at the process of money making; the Senator introduced us to Hon. Lot M. Morrill, Secretary of the Treasury, and also Hon. Mr. Wyman, U. S. Treasurer, who treated the party very kindly indeed—allowing us all privileges that could possibly be given us. After leaving the Treasury Department we went to the WHITE HOUSE, and were introduced to his Excellency, Ulysses S. Grant, President of these United States. The President is a heavy set man, with a solid look on his face. There is no "put on" about him. He is a plain kind of a man, who will win the admiration of all who are so lucky as to talk with him. I imagine some of our Southern editors would be ashamed of themselves if they only knew just the man the President is, and how kindly he receives strangers. All of our company were Democrats except myself, but they all admire Gen. Grant. After leaving the White House we went to the

CAPITOL. We first visited the Senate Chamber, where we found the best looking man in the Chamber, Senator Conkling, making a speech. The prominent members were pointed out to us, Cameron, Kernan, Boutwell, Burnside, Spencer, President Ferry and others. We then took a look through the Capitol and went to the HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, where we found Mr. Saylor of Ohio in the Chair. It would make a dog laugh to see this House. It puts us in mind of our County Court—only more so—a perfect uproar all the time. They looked to us more like a lot of boys than they did like Congressmen. Col. Thornburg remarked to us that "it was a fair specimen of Democracy," and it undoubtedly is. The prominent members were pointed out to us, Frye, Hale, Garfield, Cannon, Clymer, Banks, Randall, Kelly, Spinger, Caulfield, and others. After spending some four hours in the Capitol, we went to the

SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTE, where everything in this world, or any other world can be seen. It is worth any one's fare from Cleveland to Washington to see the Smithsonian Institute. We advise all visiting the national capitol to see it. After leaving the Institute we visit the AGRICULTURAL GARDEN, where Frederick Watts, commissioner of agriculture, holds forth. Here we saw everything in the agricultural line that could be seen. After returning from the Garden we again met Senator Key, who had with him Senator Hannibal Hamlin, of Maine, who was Lincoln's first Vice President. Mr. Hamlin is quite a jolly old fellow; and we have no doubt that if all the Editors in the country could make his acquaintance, they would not be so hard on him about the newspaper law. After taking our supper, the party visited the GERMAN SCHUTZEN-FEST, where there was a crowd of at least five thousand, drinking Lager and dancing.

This morning (Friday) we visited the Post-office Department, and met that clever gentleman, Capt. J. C. Morgan, late of Cleveland. Mr. Morgan spent the day with our party; taking us to the Corcoran art gallery, War Department museum and the city yard, in fact every part of the city that is interesting—and it is all that way. We had a glance at the famous

"BOSS SHEPARD," whom the Southern newspapers abuse so. He is quite a popular man in Washington—in fact he has made Washington what it is. I was telling a gentleman to-day what a name Mr. Shepard had in the South. It amused him very much. His remark was, "I am a Democrat, but am free to acknowledge that all these tales on Shepard are lies; He is one of the best business men in the Union." Such is Shepard's character at his home.

You scarcely ever find a Democrat, a resident of this city—out of a population of one hundred and thirty thousand, there is not enough of the "Simon pure" to support a daily paper—while the Republicans have five large dailies. On almost every corner you see a large banner floating with "Hayes and Wheeler" on it.

I will write you again from Philadelphia, and probably from Niagara Falls. We leave to-morrow for Philadelphia where we will stay four days and then go to New York city, before starting to Niagara. Yours &c, W. S. TIPTON.

How cool and nice it would be to fall down a well!—Detroit Free Press. Provided you did not kick the bucket.
