THE STORY OF INNAUR GARDEN.

From the Burlington Hawkeye. "Arms virgineo ensis." To man with two arms and a hoe, I lay. Spring saw him with arms and hoe and rake. At the last, when he was old and weak, he laid down his arms and hoe and rake, and he died.

Another consideration I beg leave to present to my friends. Knowing as we do that the present is a time of transition, and that while it is, and has been the policy of the Government to extend the lines of our civilization from ocean to ocean, on northern lines, this giving to the people on the Pacific coast a fair and equitable share in the benefits of our civilization, it is a denial of justice and becomes an act of oppression to the people of the Pacific coast.

TEXAS PACIFIC RAILROAD.

Speech of Hon. W. C. Whitthorne. MR. WHITTHORNE. Mr. Speaker, in the House of Representatives on this floor by the gentleman from Alabama (Mr. Herbert) upon the Texas Pacific Railroad bill, he referred to a prominent gentleman of my State, and who is an honored and distinguished member of the Senate, and who would not have sought the floor upon this occasion. While it is true that the gentleman referred to is a distinguished member of the Senate, and who would not have sought the floor upon this occasion.

How to Learn to Swim.

Every boy and girl should learn to swim. A writer in the American Agriculturist says that he has seen a number of children who were unable to swim, and he thought it would be well to give them some advice.

Marrying in May.

There is an old superstition, says the Pittsburg Leader, about marrying in the month of May. It is said that if a man marries in May, he will have a long and happy life.

One to Meet the Assailant.

From the Cincinnati Saturday Night. We hate to have a lawyer die. Not that we are in any way opposed to the law, but that we know there has got to be a "meeting of the bar," and resolutions passed in regard to the death of the lawyer.

A Remnant of the School Room.

There is in a rural Kentucky village a middle-aged, gray-haired school-teacher. He is near-sighted, exceedingly nervous, and has a very peculiar way of talking.

Another Wonderful Cave Discovered.

CLASOW JENKINS, Ky., June 22.—Another wonderful cave has recently been discovered near this town. It has already been explored for a distance of 25 miles.

Enormous Cattle Shipment.

There will be shipped in a bill of lading of Western stock a million dollars worth of cattle shipped over the Union Pacific road, this season.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

The True Story of the Assassination. As Told for the First Time by the Manager of the Theater.

Baltimore Special to Cincinnati Enquirer. The impression has long prevailed that Mr. John T. Ford, who was Manager of the Booth Theater at the time the Booth-Lincoln assassination occurred, was familiar with facts in connection with the matter that had never appeared in print.

John Wilkes Booth was trained from earliest infancy to consider the most defiled assassin Brutus just as Shakespeare immortalized him. His father was named "Julius Brutus." His brother is now the bearer of that surname.

Now take the assassination of Lincoln. On the morning of April 14, 1865, Booth, who had conspired for years to assassinate the President, went to the Ford Theater in Washington. He left the hotel after 11 o'clock that morning, and walked up Sixth street to the Ford Theater.

When he reached there it was about a quarter of twelve. He saw a man in a top hat and a woman in a black dress standing near the entrance. He went up to them and asked them if they were the "Booths."

When he reached there it was about a quarter of twelve. He saw a man in a top hat and a woman in a black dress standing near the entrance. He went up to them and asked them if they were the "Booths."

His Final and Absolute Retirement in Diagrao.

Detroit correspondence Chicago Tribune. The resignation, announced by the standing committee, once the candidate had been chosen, was something startling, and when the bishop came back and announced himself, through Mr. Romney, ready for examination, the committee declared that nothing but the regular course of trial could be contemplated.

Rapid Increase of Mental Disorders Here and Abroad.—The Apparent Causes.

New York Herald. Within the past few years the steady increase in the number of commitments to hospitals and asylums for mental diseases has attracted general attention. An examination of the yearly reports of the principal asylums of the country show that during the past five years or more there has been a steady increase in the ratio of insane persons to the population, and, as stated in the report for 1877 of the Asylum for the Insane, "that the increase is out of proportion to that of population, and seems to be confined to the dependent and middle classes."

In England and Wales the ratio of insanity to the population is 1 to 572; in Massachusetts 1 to 425; New York, 1 to 587; Illinois, 1 to 806, and Iowa, 1 to 1,101. This shows that the ratio of insanity in this country is not only higher than in any other country, but that it is increasing rapidly.

No one who has been a constant reader of the daily papers for the past few years will have been impressed with the rapid increase of reports of suicides, homicides and other crimes committed in the different cities and counties of the country. While much of this is directly due to the increase of the population, there must be other causes for the increase in all its various manifestations.

Dr. Tuke, a well-known London alienist, has written a work on the "Insanity in Ancient and Modern Times." In this he elaborately investigates the causes of mental diseases in Great Britain, where the increase of lunatics has been enormously large during the past half century.

The day came, however, when Miss Alice, grown careless by long inactivity, was sitting at her desk, and she saw a man in a top hat and a woman in a black dress standing near the entrance. He went up to them and asked them if they were the "Booths."

When he reached there it was about a quarter of twelve. He saw a man in a top hat and a woman in a black dress standing near the entrance. He went up to them and asked them if they were the "Booths."
