CLINTON, Miss., Sept. 6.—About forty negroes were killed and many wounded. The whites held possession of the town and the negroes scattered in all directions. The leaders are to be in Jackson. The negroes were called to assemble at the depot on Saturday afternoon to attend a general meeting. All quiet at present—10 p. m.

CLINTON, Miss., Sept. 6.—An extra edition of the Herald gives the following account of the massacre at Clinton: The origin and particulars of the Clinton massacre have been variously stated. After hearing all the statements, we think the following about correct: There is a law prohibiting the sale of liquor in Clinton. Some young men from Raymond bought a bottle of wine, and while the speaking was going on, Martin Slevoy and some of his friends went a short distance to take a drink.

The colored marshal for the occasion approached them and forbade their drinking.

This order was not regarded, and the marshal attempted to take the bottle out of Slevoy's hands. Slevoy struck him over the head with his cane. Slevoy (colored) started to strike the white men, but about one hundred men rushed on him. Some one fired a shot, and the white men followed by the colored men. Slevoy fired all the barrels of his revolver and the negroes then demanded his surrounding and gave up his arms. After he was shot and his brains kicked out, he was robbed of his clothing, and the injured was taken to the hospital. Frank Thomas, a promising young lawyer, was shot from his horse and a half from the ground. The white men then drove the negroes from their homes in many places. John Neal was fatally struck in the leg in the town, and Wm. Rice seriously injured. The negroes were driven from the field and two mortally wounded. Six addition negroes have been found dead
