Washington, June 2, 1880.

NOW WILL THEY SUBMIT? The reports from Chicago make it evident that one weapon of assault against General Grant's candidacy has been deprived of its edge.

Such talk has been from the beginning the coinage of those who themselves have unscrupulously used the machine in every state of the union. Nowhere have General Grant's friends been in a position to use the machinery of public office to advance his interests.

It is clear now that the opponents of General Grant have a majority of the national committee; the committee on admission to the exposition building is in their interests, and the audience will surely not be a "Grant mob."

There is such a thing as party fealty we may consider that every hole has been stopped through which a bolt or a scratcher can escape from his obligation to support the nomination of the ex-president when he secures the necessary 700 votes.

Certainly, we shall not begrudge the rivals of General Grant their short day of triumph, if their exultation now will help them to bear their defeat then with equanimity.

A correspondent elsewhere asks what is to be done in case sewer gas escapes through the drain trap into the house, and evidently thinks the sewage of the city is defective. We should say that the trap is in fault.

Mr. WALLACE proposed in the senate yesterday the establishment of a political campaign smut machine, in the form of a continuance of the committee on alleged frauds in the late presidential election.

Every steamer from Europe reports icebergs floating in great numbers and of vast size off the banks of Newfoundland.

These evils will not be remedied as long as people are unwilling to give up the divine right of building as cheaply as they please.

Reports from Chicago are to the effect that the BLAINE men are very bitter against the followers of the ex-president, and that they will stop at nothing to defeat them.

During the hot days of May the New York ice companies took measures to let their supply run short and then raised the price exorbitantly, whereupon it is proposed that the city ought to be able to furnish frozen water as it furnishes liquid water at the mere cost of its delivery.

Rev. HENRY WARD BEECHER opened the soldiers' reunion at Chicago with prayer and was immediately followed by BOB INGHAM with an oration.

It is calling the Washington Star a republican paper the Philadelphia Telegraph exhibits a want of astronomical knowledge.

A PARTY which fights so fiercely over a nomination must be pretty sure of the election.
