SEVEN DAYS' FIGHT.

ITS NINETEENTH ANNIVERSARY.

The Battle of Mechanicsville and the Preliminary Movements Thereof—Opening of the Memorable Battle of the Peninsula—Result of Change of Base.

The "Seven Days" fight in reality began June 25, 1862, and ended with Malvern on July 1; but, according to the popular and generally accepted belief, it commenced with Mechanicsville and terminated with the arrival of the Union army at the Landing on the morning of June 26. In order to fully understand what is to follow, it becomes necessary, however, to go further back and take a brief glance at the situation in the Army of the Potomac...

General Porter had a conference with the other commanders of the Army of the Potomac, and they decided to move back to the north side of the Chickahominy, with a portion of the Fifth Corps to take possession...

TREASURY REGULATIONS.

The Laws Relating to Customs, Commerce, and Navigation.

New regulations of the Treasury Department, embodying the laws of the United States relating to customs, commerce, and navigation, are undergoing final revision, and will be issued for the information and guidance of officers of the customs. These regulations cover 531 printed pages, irrespective of full indexes. The book will consist of a compilation of all laws, regulations, and decisions of the Treasury Department to the date of issue relative to customs and navigation. This work has been in progress during the past two years and no time has been lost. The labor involved in this immense task would have been properly accomplished at an earlier date, because numerous and essential delays in the interest of completeness and perfection had to be submitted to. For instance, the regulations under the treaty of Commerce, respecting customs matters on the Canadian frontier, had to be submitted to the British government for its views, suggestions, and criticism, and the same delay occurred in the case of the approval of the proposed regulations. Another cause of delay was the fact that advances or proofs of the work were sent, by order of Secretary Sherman, to all of the chief customs officials at the most important ports of entry in the Union, with requests for careful examination and criticism on the material contained. Responses to these requests were in many instances delayed, but they are now all in, and, as above stated, the work is undergoing final revision, with such light and assistance as is afforded by the Treasury Department. Views of Virginians.

Men Who Favor the Readjusters.

An Additional List of White Republicans Who Support the Proposed Movement to Crush Out Bourbon Rule in the Old Dominion State.

Below will be found the views of other prominent white Republicans of Virginia relative to the coalition movement in that State: Dr. James E. Bell, of Princess Anne County, ex-Republican sheriff of that county, claimed to know fully the sentiment of the intelligent Republicans of that county, and states that they are in full accord with the Liberal movement, and that the colored vote of that county is in favor of a coalition movement if not manipulated by the custom-house ring at Norfolk.

Mr. B. W. Laws, of Alexandria, states that nineteen-twentieths of the Republicans in that city and section are in favor of the Liberal ticket.

Mr. John Lester, who is now and has been for the past eleven years the Republican sheriff of Norfolk County, and ex-Republican sheriff of that county, claimed to know fully the sentiment of the intelligent Republicans of that county, and states that they are in full accord with the Liberal movement, and that the colored vote of that county is in favor of a coalition movement if not manipulated by the custom-house ring at Norfolk.
