

MILITARY MATTERS.

Amendment to Senator Logan's Bill to Promote the Efficiency of the Army—House Measures on the Same Subject. Senator Logan yesterday reported favorably, with a number of amendments, from the committee on military affairs the bill introduced by him entitled "A bill to increase the efficiency of the army of the United States."

As introduced by Mr. Logan, the bill contained a provision limiting the number of enlisted men of the army to 30,000. This provision was stricken out in committee. As otherwise amended, the bill provides for an increase of the army to 40,000 men, the average increase being about $2 per month in each case. It provides that hereafter, in time of peace, all officers in the army charged with offenses now punishable by a regimental or garrison court-martial shall be brought before a summary court, to consist of the commissioned officers second in rank at the post or station of the offender, who shall hear and determine the offense and adjudge the punishment to be inflicted in place of the general court-martial, and submit the record of his proceedings and submit the same to his post commander, and that the latter upon approval of the proceedings in the case, shall order the execution of the sentence and shall forward the record to the department headquarters for examination and file in the office of the judge advocate of the department, the punishment in such cases to be limited to that authorized to be inflicted by a regimental or garrison court-martial.

It also provides that officers of the army arrested at a garrison post or station shall be held in custody until the approval of their post commander, each employ one private soldier as a servant, the written consent of such soldier, however, to be first procured, and his pay proper during the period of such employment to be charged against the officer employing him.

Also, that the secretary of war may authorize the employment at the headquarters of military divisions, departments, and districts of civilian clerks in place of military service clerks not authorized for such employment at rates of compensation not to exceed those paid to other civilian clerks employed at such headquarters by officers of the quartermasters and subsistence departments.

It provides further that the officer detailed to duty as the commandant of the military prison at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, shall have the local rank of colonel, in the government thereof, with the pay and allowances of such rank, and that the general officers of the line detailed for duty as acting assistant quartermasters shall be allowed the same compensation (ten dollars per month) as is now allowed by law to acting commissaries, and that such officers in the army shall be issued to the quartermaster's department, only in quantities as prescribed by the army regulations and general orders.

Also, that any person who has been captured while in the line of duty in the army or navy shall be provided with a truss of approved pattern, under such regulations as may be prescribed by the secretaries of war and the navy, respectively; that so much of the act making appropriations for the army, approved July 1, 1874, as relates to the mileage over land and rail roads, shall be repealed and that the secretary of war be, and is hereby, authorized to cause the enlistment of competent instructors for post schools, as they may be needed, not to exceed 150, who shall have the rank and pay of commissary sergeants.

The house committee on military affairs yesterday instructed Representative Rogers to report favorably a bill to amend the articles of war, so that any general or lieutenant colonel commanding a regiment or a separate department, may appoint general courts-martial, provided, however, that when he is the accuser or prosecutor the court-martial shall be appointed by the President.

Representative Laid was instructed to report favorably a bill providing that any officer of the corps of judge advocates of the army who has served fifteen years continuously as major shall be promoted to be lieutenant colonel, and any officer who has served thirty years in the corps of judge advocates shall be promoted to be colonel, provided, however, such promotions shall not increase the number of officers in the corps beyond that fixed by law.

Representative Laid was instructed to report favorably a bill to allow veteran bounty to volunteers in the late war who were afterward commissioned as officers in the regular army.

Secretary Chandler and the Jeannette Investigation. Secretary Chandler has addressed a letter to Representative S. S. Cox, chairman of the committee on naval affairs, in reference to the resolution of the house of March 3 providing for the investigation of the facts of the Jeannette Arctic expedition and the alleged unofficial and unhuman conduct of certain of the expedition's officers.

POLITICAL NOTES.

It hardly requires pointing out that neither Mr. Carlisle nor Mr. Morrison have one-tenth as much faith in their talk about the unreasonableness of protection, as they have in the hope that professions of caution will enable them to hoodwink the protectionist democrats.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Ren Butler is the Osmun Dignis of this country. You may trash him regularly twice each year and at every election for several years, yet he will "hook up generally" at the end of the campaign, and never be whipped or set down on in the least.—Cincinnati Blade.

Mr. Speaker Carlisle is not a success as a tariff straddler. Before attempting that role he should cultivate a more intimate acquaintance with Hendricks, of Indiana. He is a general failure, and his only success is in a known subject with inimitable grace and elegance.—Pittsburg Commercial-Gazette.

We have had a short experience in this style of reform and already we can see how it works. The wool duty has been reduced, but wools are not appreciably cheaper. The farmer has suffered, but the consumer has received no compensating benefits. How will it be if the tariff on every protected industry is reduced one-fifth? What assurance have we that the result will differ from that already experienced in the tariff changes of 1882?—St. Louis State Journal.

The Carlisle-Morrison combination thought it would be a good idea to make Mr. Carlisle a speaker. They have doubtless discovered the extent of their mistake. Randall is stronger on the floor of the house to-day, and with that wing of his party without whose aid it can not succeed in a national center, than he ever before. The Carlisle-Morrison combination, therefore, before the adjournment of congress his strength in the convention will be materially increased.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

On the basis of a "tariff for revenue only" the republican party is glad to meet the revolutionary democracy, and that is the democratic platform, whether the form of words may be. The republican party stands for reformation of the tariff upon the policy of revenue and protection to American industry and labor, the democratic party is for a revolution of the tariff on the principle of "revenue only" and with hostility to the fundamental idea of protection.—Indianapolis Journal.

In a letter received from Gen. Grant by one of his friends in this city, he denies the Times interview in regard to the forthcoming contest at Chicago as being between Blaine and Arthur. He says: "I have had no interview with the Times, and I have not been interviewed by anybody." The general has been confined to his rooms for nearly three months, and is not taking active interest in politics, but it is generally understood by his friends that he stands press work state wide, expected references required. Address 2 1/2 N. E. Republican Office, 2-19.

There is no doubt that President Arthur being good presidential timber, and the people are rapidly coming to a recognition of the fact, and this without the least semblance of interference on the part of the President and his friends for the purpose of working up a popular sentiment.

Did it not partake of the nature of cruelty to attempt to make Mr. Randall a member of one to induce Mr. Tilden to run? The Sage of Greylands showed becoming modesty in declining to name the man for the party to nominate, but he went far enough to give a certain amount of good character to the candidate of his party. The man nominated by the republican party is a man of high character, and a very formidable and dangerous independent movement. Butler, be sure, will not try it in that event. It will be tried and utterly fail. In the event of the adoption of either of the candidates named, the republican party is a very formidable and dangerous independent movement. Butler, be sure, will not try it in that event. It will be tried and utterly fail.

GOOD PRESIDENTIAL TIMBER. There is no doubt that President Arthur being good presidential timber, and the people are rapidly coming to a recognition of the fact, and this without the least semblance of interference on the part of the President and his friends for the purpose of working up a popular sentiment.

It is estimated that the repeal of the Scott law is equal to giving the republicans a gain of 20,000 votes. No wonder the demagogues of the legislature are in a quandary about the repeal of the Scott law. The repeal of the Scott law is equal to giving the republicans a gain of 20,000 votes. No wonder the demagogues of the legislature are in a quandary about the repeal of the Scott law.

THE CLASSICAL SOCIETY. The classical society held an unusually interesting session at Miss Hanson's studio, No. 915 F street, on Tuesday evening. The Hon. A. G. Riddle delivered an able and interesting oration on the Greek classics. He reviewed at length Greek art, Greek oratory, and Greek scholarship, contrasting them with the weak imitations of later ages. At the conclusion of Mr. Riddle's remarks Judge Shellbarger, the president of the society, expressed his appreciation for the oration, and the secretary read the minutes upon the peculiar excellence of Greek oratory and Greek poetry. Judge Shellbarger was followed by the Hon. A. J. Warner, from Ohio; Dr. Brenner, of Massachusetts; Prof. Graener, Dr. Gregory, and others, each of whom discussed the topics of the evening from his particular standpoint in a masterly manner.

At a meeting of the Union Bethel Literary association last evening a paper was read by Mr. Louis H. Douglas on the subject, "The Negro not at all a feeble creature." The paper developed many facts as to the educational, moral, and financial advancement of the negro and the services he had rendered the country in every department of citizenship, and the unwavering fidelity he had shown to the cause of law, order, and good government in war and in peace. The paper produced quite an interesting discussion by Rev. J. H. Scott, Mr. J. H. Hicks, J. W. Ewing, and Col. J. M. Arnold. Hon. Geo. W. Williams, who has recently completed a history of the negro race, was present and took part in the discussion.

NEW MUSIC. From the publishers, Messrs. Lee & Walker, of Philadelphia, has been received "Hon. James G. Blaine's March," by A. H. Rosewig. The music is stirring, with a pleasing melody, and in mechanical construction the march is perfect. It is not devoid of execution, and players of moderate ability can readily master it. A portrait of the ex-senator from Maine adorns the title page. This is probably the first installment of campaign marches, and compositions bearing the names of the various candidates of both parties may be expected to follow.

THE SCREAMER GOING TO BOSTON. Secretary Folger yesterday received a telegram from Capt. Gabrielson, commanding the revenue steamer Dexter, saying that strong northerly winds had delayed the departure of the steamer from Wood's Hole. Capt. Gabrielson says that the Screamer was bound to Boston and that he will convey her to that port as soon as the weather permits.
