

The National Republican

Daily (except Sunday) and Weekly. BY THE NATIONAL REPUBLICAN COMPANY.

THE WEEKLY is a sixteen-page paper of fifty cents per copy, or $5.00 per annum in advance.

Entered at the Postoffice at Washington, D. C., as second-class matter.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 25, 1884.

Snow fell Thursday at Harrisburg and Pittsburg, Pa.; Cleveland, Chicago, Toronto, and Warsaw, N. Y.

It looks as though Mule Barnum and his committee were going to pay Mr. J. Barker and his charges off on the county in lieu of a Morey letter.

A MEETING of "Independent" republicans in Wall street is suggested. When Mr. George William Curtis, Carl Schurz, and Henry Ward Beecher decide to congregate publicly on the steps of the sub-treasury, or some like prominent place, they had best give due notice of the fact, or they may be overlooked.

TWELVE counties, containing 98 per cent of the miners and 90 per cent of the iron workers of Ohio, last week gave a net increase of 3,735 over the large republican majority of October, 1880, when the state went republican by 19,000 votes.

THE NATIONAL WINE, LIQUOR, and Beer Dealers' convention, held at Syracuse, N. Y., adopted the following preamble and resolution, which is respectfully referred to that late convert to democracy, St. John, for his perusal:

Whereas the law regulating the sale of malt and spirituous liquors is governed by the laws of each state of the Union, and by the constitution of the United States is left to the several states; therefore:

Resolved, That all questions relating to national politics be excluded from the consideration of this convention.

THE NATIONAL REPUBLICAN, in common with all true friends of temperance, and in common with sensible men of all parties and of all classes, holds to the belief that the liquor question has been placed in national politics.

OF Interest to Clerks. Employees of the government in this city who are desirous of exercising the elective franchise at the approaching election, but who are in doubt as to their right to vote, are informed that they have not lost their domicile in the states unless they have formally taken up permanent residence in the District of Columbia.

A petition signed by a large number of government employes asking for the passage of a law to protect them and others of their class in their right of franchise in their several states, notwithstanding their temporary absence in the discharge of their duties, was presented to the forty-third congress, and referred to the judiciary committee of the house for consideration.

A Word to "Fresh" Politicians. Judge Wylie delivered a lecture yesterday that "fresh" politicians will do well to read carefully.

Costly Stairways. The second of the series of grand hanging staircases in the new city hall in Philadelphia is now nearing completion.

It is not yet too late to render assistance, and the proper parties should take immediate steps to aid the brave men who are fighting for the establishment of a new south.

Killed Her Boy and Then Herself. PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 24.—Mrs. Annie Logan, aged 28 years, killed her 3-year-old boy and herself. She gave the little fellow laudanum, took a quantity herself, and turning on the gas so that the escape valve should be closed, she lay down to die.

THE MORAL VIEW OF IT. A New York Preacher on the Personal Purity Issue.—The Election of Cleveland a National Shame and Disgrace.

of Washington policemen are men of intelligence and good judgment, but now and then a brutal fellow gets on the force and stays there. It is to the representatives of this class that Judge Wylie's powerful observations apply and they should be taught that citizens have rights which they must respect.

There are politically two souths—the new and the old. The new south represents that weakened, liberal sentiment which is striking for the industrial support of that naturally rich section of the union which recognizes the necessity of protection, which casts the latter memories of the civil conflict behind.

Among the best of the old south would follow the reinstatement of the old south in power would be the crushing out of all liberal progress in the south and the practical abolition of all that has been gained by the reconstruction of the laws which followed the rebellion.

Thus spake Mr. Blaine in his address to the people of Indiana Thursday last, and truer words never fell from mortal lips.

DURING the last census year there were raised in the state of North Carolina 5,000,000 pounds of cotton which production was afforded the growers to the extent of 23 cents per pound, amounting in the aggregate to $130,000,000.

The liberal men of Virginia, under the bold and determined leadership of Sona or Mahone, broke away from the party of bourbon tyranny. Their party has gained in strength and in respectability from the first, and, as Mr. Blaine has said, it now includes many thousands of men who fought in the confederate armies.

In Virginia the representatives of the party of the new south continue to look to the name of Mahone as their leader. With him they are making a gallant fight. Abused and slandered in his own state, a misrepresented and not properly appreciated in the north, Senator Mahone looms up as a hero in his splendid courage and magnificent independence.

It is now definitely decided that John McCreary will bring up a grand and spectacular revival of "The Comedy of Errors" during the season of 1884-5.

REAR ADMIRAL BARNES, of the British navy, was in St. Paul this week en route across the continent by the Northern Pacific to San Francisco to assume command of the fleet.

A HIDEOUS CHARACTER. Graphic Sketch of Michael Bakurien, the Father of Nihilism. By Marco Dillon.

Michael Bakurien, the father and instigator of nihilism, died at an advanced age in Switzerland early in the autumn of 1878. Although he was the recognized leader and supporter of all the elements of nihilism, communism, socialism, and radicalism, he had during his lifetime accomplished little or no celebrity.

St. Nicholas for November contains, among other articles, "His One Fault," by J. T. Crowlidge; "The Youngest Guest at the Thanksgiving Dinner," by Louisa M. Alcott; "Work and Play for Young Folk," by Charles G. Leland; "The Isle of Content," poem, by S. Conant Foster; "The Youngest Guest," by H. H. Boyesen; "The House that Jack Built," by Eva L. Ogden; and "Among the Law Makers," by Edmund Alton.
