

THE KAISER'S FUNERAL.

A TREMENDOUS OUTFITTING ON THE STREETS OF BERLIN.

Thousands Gaze on the Pageant—Representatives From Nearly All the Courts of Europe in Attendance—Emperor Frederick Not Present.

Berlin, Mar. 16.—The services in the cathedral began with a soft prelude on the organ, during which the mourners began to assemble. Dr. Koegel read passages from the 10th psalm and verses 53-59 of the 11th chapter of John. The choir sang "I Know that My Redeemer Liveth." Passages were then read from psalm 17 and Timothy, 4th chapter, verses 7-8; the chaplain concluding with the words, "Blessed are they who die in the Lord, nor shall they come to grief. The spirit responds with the words, "Yes, the Spirit shall rest from their labor; their work shall live after them." The prayer was then uttered, "What God doth is well done."

The cathedral presented a most impressive appearance. A solemn and grand procession began, the courtiers behind and the ministers took positions behind tabourets, bearing the emperor's insignia. The emperor's coffin was placed on a bier, and the emperor's body was placed on a bier. The emperor's body was placed on a bier, and the emperor's body was placed on a bier.

The emperor's body was placed on a bier, and the emperor's body was placed on a bier. The emperor's body was placed on a bier, and the emperor's body was placed on a bier. The emperor's body was placed on a bier, and the emperor's body was placed on a bier.

The emperor's body was placed on a bier, and the emperor's body was placed on a bier. The emperor's body was placed on a bier, and the emperor's body was placed on a bier. The emperor's body was placed on a bier, and the emperor's body was placed on a bier.

The emperor's body was placed on a bier, and the emperor's body was placed on a bier. The emperor's body was placed on a bier, and the emperor's body was placed on a bier. The emperor's body was placed on a bier, and the emperor's body was placed on a bier.

The emperor's body was placed on a bier, and the emperor's body was placed on a bier. The emperor's body was placed on a bier, and the emperor's body was placed on a bier. The emperor's body was placed on a bier, and the emperor's body was placed on a bier.

The emperor's body was placed on a bier, and the emperor's body was placed on a bier. The emperor's body was placed on a bier, and the emperor's body was placed on a bier. The emperor's body was placed on a bier, and the emperor's body was placed on a bier.

The emperor's body was placed on a bier, and the emperor's body was placed on a bier. The emperor's body was placed on a bier, and the emperor's body was placed on a bier. The emperor's body was placed on a bier, and the emperor's body was placed on a bier.

The emperor's body was placed on a bier, and the emperor's body was placed on a bier. The emperor's body was placed on a bier, and the emperor's body was placed on a bier. The emperor's body was placed on a bier, and the emperor's body was placed on a bier.

The emperor's body was placed on a bier, and the emperor's body was placed on a bier. The emperor's body was placed on a bier, and the emperor's body was placed on a bier. The emperor's body was placed on a bier, and the emperor's body was placed on a bier.

THE SANTA FE SURPRISE.

CHIEF ARTHUR ASTOUNDED AT THE ORDER TO STRIKE.

He Instructs Chairman Conroy to Retire, and Has the Grievances Settled by a Conference—The Railroad Tip Up May Become General.

Toronto, Kan., Mar. 16.—From division superintendents all along the line of the Santa Fe road comes information. Thus, the men have all struck, and passenger trains are being abandoned as fast as they reach stations. There are 700 engineers, and an equal number of firemen employed on the system, making 4,300 in all thrown out of employment.

There is a strike of car loads of fruit, stock, and other perishable freight on the road between California and Chicago. If it cannot be moved the company will be liable for the whole amount. There are over 1,100 car loads of merchandise tied up in the various divisions. The company will make every effort to get engineers and firemen to have the freight get to its destination.

A meeting of Brotherhood engineers and firemen was held last night. At its close they announced that the Santa Fe having refused to handle Burlington freight and passenger trains, they had decided to hold out until the company agreed to their terms.

A Sunday afternoon special from the City train through last evening, ran a passenger train by here at 6 o'clock this morning. The train left the city at 6 o'clock this morning. The train left the city at 6 o'clock this morning.

The side tracks are loaded with freight trains and traffic at a standstill, except for a few trains which were run yesterday. The engineers claim their contracts do not call for thirty days' notice before quitting, except in the event of a change in the conditions. The company hold differently, and says it is a position of positive evidence that the strike is not a strike at all.

At 11:30 when Wharton, who was expelled from the strike, was expelled from the strike. Wharton, who was expelled from the strike, was expelled from the strike.

Wharton, who was expelled from the strike, was expelled from the strike. Wharton, who was expelled from the strike, was expelled from the strike.

Wharton, who was expelled from the strike, was expelled from the strike. Wharton, who was expelled from the strike, was expelled from the strike.

Wharton, who was expelled from the strike, was expelled from the strike. Wharton, who was expelled from the strike, was expelled from the strike.

Wharton, who was expelled from the strike, was expelled from the strike. Wharton, who was expelled from the strike, was expelled from the strike.

SHUT OUT A SECOND TIME.

The Magic City Club Nearly Done Up by the Senators.

(Special to the National Republican.) BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Mar. 16.—The Senators repeated their great work of yesterday by again applying the white wash brush to the famous magic city of the South. It appears that the city hall here to-night on account of the double dose administered by the Statesmen.

The city hall here to-night on account of the double dose administered by the Statesmen. The city hall here to-night on account of the double dose administered by the Statesmen.

The city hall here to-night on account of the double dose administered by the Statesmen. The city hall here to-night on account of the double dose administered by the Statesmen.

The city hall here to-night on account of the double dose administered by the Statesmen. The city hall here to-night on account of the double dose administered by the Statesmen.

The city hall here to-night on account of the double dose administered by the Statesmen. The city hall here to-night on account of the double dose administered by the Statesmen.

The city hall here to-night on account of the double dose administered by the Statesmen. The city hall here to-night on account of the double dose administered by the Statesmen.

The city hall here to-night on account of the double dose administered by the Statesmen. The city hall here to-night on account of the double dose administered by the Statesmen.

The city hall here to-night on account of the double dose administered by the Statesmen. The city hall here to-night on account of the double dose administered by the Statesmen.

The city hall here to-night on account of the double dose administered by the Statesmen. The city hall here to-night on account of the double dose administered by the Statesmen.

The city hall here to-night on account of the double dose administered by the Statesmen. The city hall here to-night on account of the double dose administered by the Statesmen.

The city hall here to-night on account of the double dose administered by the Statesmen. The city hall here to-night on account of the double dose administered by the Statesmen.

DISASTERS DOWN THE BAY.

Many Vessels Driven Ashore and Wrecked in the Storm.

BALTIMORE, Mar. 16.—Sens of the danger down the bay by the storm is coming in slowly, but every day and river vessel arriving in the harbor is being driven ashore. From the various returns we summarize as follows:

The stormy night, many vessels were driven ashore in the harbor. The stormy night, many vessels were driven ashore in the harbor.

The stormy night, many vessels were driven ashore in the harbor. The stormy night, many vessels were driven ashore in the harbor.

The stormy night, many vessels were driven ashore in the harbor. The stormy night, many vessels were driven ashore in the harbor.

The stormy night, many vessels were driven ashore in the harbor. The stormy night, many vessels were driven ashore in the harbor.

The stormy night, many vessels were driven ashore in the harbor. The stormy night, many vessels were driven ashore in the harbor.

The stormy night, many vessels were driven ashore in the harbor. The stormy night, many vessels were driven ashore in the harbor.

The stormy night, many vessels were driven ashore in the harbor. The stormy night, many vessels were driven ashore in the harbor.

The stormy night, many vessels were driven ashore in the harbor. The stormy night, many vessels were driven ashore in the harbor.

The stormy night, many vessels were driven ashore in the harbor. The stormy night, many vessels were driven ashore in the harbor.

The stormy night, many vessels were driven ashore in the harbor. The stormy night, many vessels were driven ashore in the harbor.

PERISHED IN THE STORM.

NEW YORK'S DEATH ROLL FURNISHES THIRTY VICTIMS.

A Pretty General Resumption of Business in the Metropolis After the Unprecedented Blockade—How New England Fared.

New York, Mar. 16.—The city is rapidly getting into its normal condition. Since the snow ceased to fall every one seems to have turned his efforts to riding the streets of their heavy winter coats. Men are working and night shoveling the snow into carts, which are quickly driven to the nearest pier and the contents dumped overboard. The street sweepers on the side streets have started lumbering bonfires on the snow banks in front of their premises and in other means are doing yeoman work in reducing the snow embargo.

The street sweepers on the side streets have started lumbering bonfires on the snow banks in front of their premises and in other means are doing yeoman work in reducing the snow embargo.

The street sweepers on the side streets have started lumbering bonfires on the snow banks in front of their premises and in other means are doing yeoman work in reducing the snow embargo.

The street sweepers on the side streets have started lumbering bonfires on the snow banks in front of their premises and in other means are doing yeoman work in reducing the snow embargo.

The street sweepers on the side streets have started lumbering bonfires on the snow banks in front of their premises and in other means are doing yeoman work in reducing the snow embargo.

The street sweepers on the side streets have started lumbering bonfires on the snow banks in front of their premises and in other means are doing yeoman work in reducing the snow embargo.

The street sweepers on the side streets have started lumbering bonfires on the snow banks in front of their premises and in other means are doing yeoman work in reducing the snow embargo.

The street sweepers on the side streets have started lumbering bonfires on the snow banks in front of their premises and in other means are doing yeoman work in reducing the snow embargo.

The street sweepers on the side streets have started lumbering bonfires on the snow banks in front of their premises and in other means are doing yeoman work in reducing the snow embargo.

The street sweepers on the side streets have started lumbering bonfires on the snow banks in front of their premises and in other means are doing yeoman work in reducing the snow embargo.

THE PHOTOGRAPHER'S ELECTION.

The Heaviest Vote Ever Polling—The Successful Candidates.

The annual election of Columbia Typographical Union, No. 10, was held yesterday afternoon at the corner of Third street and Broadway. The polls were opened at 10 o'clock and closed at 6 o'clock. The officers of the election were: Receivers—J. J. Dutton and H. A. ...

The annual election of Columbia Typographical Union, No. 10, was held yesterday afternoon at the corner of Third street and Broadway. The polls were opened at 10 o'clock and closed at 6 o'clock.

The annual election of Columbia Typographical Union, No. 10, was held yesterday afternoon at the corner of Third street and Broadway. The polls were opened at 10 o'clock and closed at 6 o'clock.

The annual election of Columbia Typographical Union, No. 10, was held yesterday afternoon at the corner of Third street and Broadway. The polls were opened at 10 o'clock and closed at 6 o'clock.

The annual election of Columbia Typographical Union, No. 10, was held yesterday afternoon at the corner of Third street and Broadway. The polls were opened at 10 o'clock and closed at 6 o'clock.

The annual election of Columbia Typographical Union, No. 10, was held yesterday afternoon at the corner of Third street and Broadway. The polls were opened at 10 o'clock and closed at 6 o'clock.

The annual election of Columbia Typographical Union, No. 10, was held yesterday afternoon at the corner of Third street and Broadway. The polls were opened at 10 o'clock and closed at 6 o'clock.

The annual election of Columbia Typographical Union, No. 10, was held yesterday afternoon at the corner of Third street and Broadway. The polls were opened at 10 o'clock and closed at 6 o'clock.

The annual election of Columbia Typographical Union, No. 10, was held yesterday afternoon at the corner of Third street and Broadway. The polls were opened at 10 o'clock and closed at 6 o'clock.

The annual election of Columbia Typographical Union, No. 10, was held yesterday afternoon at the corner of Third street and Broadway. The polls were opened at 10 o'clock and closed at 6 o'clock.

The annual election of Columbia Typographical Union, No. 10, was held yesterday afternoon at the corner of Third street and Broadway. The polls were opened at 10 o'clock and closed at 6 o'clock.

WELCOMED HOME.

With Orators, Music, Flowers, Treatments, and Friendly Greetings.

The congregation of Metropolitan M. E. Church welcomed their pastor, Rev. Dr. John P. Newman, back to his charge last night in a most impressive manner.

The congregation of Metropolitan M. E. Church welcomed their pastor, Rev. Dr. John P. Newman, back to his charge last night in a most impressive manner.

The congregation of Metropolitan M. E. Church welcomed their pastor, Rev. Dr. John P. Newman, back to his charge last night in a most impressive manner.

The congregation of Metropolitan M. E. Church welcomed their pastor, Rev. Dr. John P. Newman, back to his charge last night in a most impressive manner.

The congregation of Metropolitan M. E. Church welcomed their pastor, Rev. Dr. John P. Newman, back to his charge last night in a most impressive manner.

The congregation of Metropolitan M. E. Church welcomed their pastor, Rev. Dr. John P. Newman, back to his charge last night in a most impressive manner.

The congregation of Metropolitan M. E. Church welcomed their pastor, Rev. Dr. John P. Newman, back to his charge last night in a most impressive manner.

The congregation of Metropolitan M. E. Church welcomed their pastor, Rev. Dr. John P. Newman, back to his charge last night in a most impressive manner.

The congregation of Metropolitan M. E. Church welcomed their pastor, Rev. Dr. John P. Newman, back to his charge last night in a most impressive manner.

The congregation of Metropolitan M. E. Church welcomed their pastor, Rev. Dr. John P. Newman, back to his charge last night in a most impressive manner.

The congregation of Metropolitan M. E. Church welcomed their pastor, Rev. Dr. John P. Newman, back to his charge last night in a most impressive manner.

FOUR BALLS PUT INTO HIM.

DISPERATE ATTEMPT TO TAKE THE LIFE OF A FRUIT VENDOR.

Stephen G. Cassasa Shot at Seven Times by David Leverone—Then Tried to Brain Him—The Would Be Assassin Considered Fatt.

The northwest corner of Sixth street and Pennsylvania avenue came near being the scene of another tragedy at 7:30 o'clock last night. At that time Stephen G. Cassasa, who keeps a fruit stand in the former railroad office, was standing in front of his store when he was suddenly confronted by David Leverone, his first cousin. The latter was seen to approach Cassasa in a menacing way, and before the eyes witnessed could realize it, he had shot at his cousin seven times. Three shots had been fired before Cassasa fully realized that he was the target, and then he made a jump for the would-be assassin, but the latter retreated. One remaining shot struck Cassasa in the chest, and the other four struck his arm, the second of the right hand, the third struck the fifth rib of the right breast and glancing down under the arm came out, the fourth struck the fourth and fifth ribs of the right hand. Cassasa, though wounded, did not flinch, but on the contrary, made a run for Leverone, seeing that he had failed to kill Cassasa outright, Leverone became enraged and fired a shot at Cassasa, the head of Cassasa and missed his mark. The men now closed and fell with Cassasa under man, and his arms firmly locked round the neck of the other. The latter, in his desperation was nearly choking the life out of the prostrate man. The fight was desperate, and the men were struggling for some time. The police were called, and the men were taken to the hospital.

The northwest corner of Sixth street and Pennsylvania avenue came near being the scene of another tragedy at 7:30 o'clock last night. At that time Stephen G. Cassasa, who keeps a fruit stand in the former railroad office, was standing in front of his store when he was suddenly confronted by David Leverone, his first cousin. The latter was seen to approach Cassasa in a menacing way, and before the eyes witnessed could realize it, he had shot at his cousin seven times. Three shots had been fired before Cassasa fully realized that he was the target, and then he made a jump for the would-be assassin, but the latter retreated. One remaining shot struck Cassasa in the chest, and the other four struck his arm, the second of the right hand, the third struck the fifth rib of the right breast and glancing down under the arm came out, the fourth struck the fourth and fifth ribs of the right hand. Cassasa, though wounded, did not flinch, but on the contrary, made a run for Leverone, seeing that he had failed to kill Cassasa outright, Leverone became enraged and fired a shot at Cassasa, the head of Cassasa and missed his mark. The men now closed and fell with Cassasa under man, and his arms firmly locked round the neck of the other. The latter, in his desperation was nearly choking the life out of the prostrate man. The fight was desperate, and the men were struggling for some time. The police were called, and the men were taken to the hospital.

The northwest corner of Sixth street and Pennsylvania avenue came near being the scene of another tragedy at 7:30 o'clock last night. At that time Stephen G. Cassasa, who keeps a fruit stand in the former railroad office, was standing in front of his store when he was suddenly confronted by David Leverone, his first cousin. The latter was seen to approach Cassasa in a menacing way, and before the eyes witnessed could realize it, he had shot at his cousin seven times. Three shots had been fired before Cassasa fully realized that he was the target, and then he made a jump for the would-be assassin, but the latter retreated. One remaining shot struck Cassasa in the chest, and the other four struck his arm, the second of the right hand, the third struck the fifth rib of the right breast and glancing down under the arm came out, the fourth struck the fourth and fifth ribs of the right hand. Cassasa, though wounded, did not flinch, but on the contrary, made a run for Leverone, seeing that he had failed to kill Cassasa outright, Leverone became enraged and fired a shot at Cassasa, the head of Cassasa and missed his mark. The men now closed and fell with Cassasa under man, and his arms firmly locked round the neck of the other. The latter, in his desperation was nearly choking the life out of the prostrate man. The fight was desperate, and the men were struggling for some time. The police were called, and the men were taken to the hospital.

The northwest corner of Sixth street and Pennsylvania avenue came near being the scene of another tragedy at 7:30 o'clock last night. At that time Stephen G. Cassasa, who keeps a fruit stand in the former railroad office, was standing in front of his store when he was suddenly confronted by David Leverone, his first cousin. The latter was seen to approach Cassasa in a menacing way, and before the eyes witnessed could realize it, he had shot at his cousin seven times. Three shots had been fired before Cassasa fully realized that he was the target, and then he made a jump for the would-be assassin, but the latter retreated. One remaining shot struck Cassasa in the chest, and the other four struck his arm, the second of the right hand, the third struck the fifth rib of the right breast and glancing down under the arm came out, the fourth struck the fourth and fifth ribs of the right hand. Cassasa, though wounded, did not flinch, but on the contrary, made a run for Leverone, seeing that he had failed to kill Cassasa outright, Leverone became enraged and fired a shot at Cassasa, the head of Cassasa and missed his mark. The men now closed and fell with Cassasa under man, and his arms firmly locked round the neck of the other. The latter, in his desperation was nearly choking the life out of the prostrate man. The fight was desperate, and the men were struggling for some time. The police were called, and the men were taken to the hospital.

The northwest corner of Sixth street and Pennsylvania avenue came near being the scene of another tragedy at 7:30 o'clock last night. At that time Stephen G. Cassasa, who keeps a fruit stand in the former railroad office, was standing in front of his store when he was suddenly confronted by David Leverone, his first cousin. The latter was seen to approach Cassasa in a menacing way, and before the eyes witnessed could realize it, he had shot at his cousin seven times. Three shots had been fired before Cassasa fully realized that he was the target, and then he made a jump for the would-be assassin, but the latter retreated. One remaining shot struck Cassasa in the chest, and the other four struck his arm, the second of the right hand, the third struck the fifth rib of the right breast and glancing down under the arm came out, the fourth struck the fourth and fifth ribs of the right hand. Cassasa, though wounded, did not flinch, but on the contrary, made a run for Leverone, seeing that he had failed to kill Cassasa outright, Leverone became enraged and fired a shot at Cassasa, the head of Cassasa and missed his mark. The men now closed and fell with Cassasa under man, and his arms firmly locked round the neck of the other. The latter, in his desperation was nearly choking the life out of the prostrate man. The fight was desperate, and the men were struggling for some time. The police were called, and the men were taken to the hospital.

The northwest corner of Sixth street and Pennsylvania avenue came near being the scene of another tragedy at 7:30 o'clock last night. At that time Stephen G. Cassasa, who keeps a fruit stand in the former railroad office, was standing in front of his store when he was suddenly confronted by David Leverone, his first cousin. The latter was seen to approach Cassasa in a menacing way, and before the eyes witnessed could realize it, he had shot at his cousin seven times. Three shots had been fired before Cassasa fully realized that he was the target, and then he made a jump for the would-be assassin, but the latter retreated. One remaining shot struck Cassasa in the chest, and the other four struck his arm, the second of the right hand, the third struck the fifth rib of the right breast and glancing down under the arm came out, the fourth struck the fourth and fifth ribs of the right hand. Cassasa, though wounded, did not flinch, but on the contrary, made a run for Leverone, seeing that he had failed to kill Cassasa outright, Leverone became enraged and fired a shot at Cassasa, the head of Cassasa and missed his mark. The men now closed and fell with Cassasa under man, and his arms firmly locked round the neck of the other. The latter, in his desperation was nearly choking the life out of the prostrate man. The fight was desperate, and the men were struggling for some time. The police were called, and the men were taken to the hospital.

The northwest corner of Sixth street and Pennsylvania avenue came near being the scene of another tragedy at 7:30 o'clock last night. At that time Stephen G. Cassasa, who keeps a fruit stand in the former railroad office, was standing in front of his store when he was suddenly confronted by David Leverone, his first cousin. The latter was seen to approach Cassasa in a menacing way, and before the eyes witnessed could realize it, he had shot at his cousin seven times. Three shots had been fired before Cassasa fully realized that he was the target, and then he made a jump for the would-be assassin, but the latter retreated. One remaining shot struck Cassasa in the chest, and the other four struck his arm, the second of the right hand, the third struck the fifth rib of the right breast and glancing down under the arm came out, the fourth struck the fourth and fifth ribs of the right hand. Cassasa, though wounded, did not flinch, but on the contrary, made a run for Leverone, seeing that he had failed to kill Cassasa outright, Leverone became enraged and fired a shot at Cassasa, the head of Cassasa and missed his mark. The men now closed and fell with Cassasa under man, and his arms firmly locked round the neck of the other. The latter, in his desperation was nearly choking the life out of the prostrate man. The fight was desperate, and the men were struggling for some time. The police were called, and the men were taken to the hospital.

The northwest corner of Sixth street and Pennsylvania avenue came near being the scene of another tragedy at 7:30 o'clock last night. At that time Stephen G. Cassasa, who keeps a fruit stand in the former railroad office, was standing in front of his store when he was suddenly confronted by David Leverone, his first cousin. The latter was seen to approach Cassasa in a menacing way, and before the eyes witnessed could realize it, he had shot at his cousin seven times. Three shots had been fired before Cassasa fully realized that he was the target, and then he made a jump for the would-be assassin, but the latter retreated. One remaining shot struck Cassasa in the chest, and the other four struck his arm, the second of the right hand, the third struck the fifth rib of the right breast and glancing down under the arm came out, the fourth struck the fourth and fifth ribs of the right hand. Cassasa, though wounded, did not flinch, but on the contrary, made a run for Leverone, seeing that he had failed to kill Cassasa outright, Leverone became enraged and fired a shot at Cassasa, the head of Cassasa and missed his mark. The men now closed and fell with Cassasa under man, and his arms firmly locked round the neck of the other. The latter, in his desperation was nearly choking the life out of the prostrate man. The fight was desperate, and the men were struggling for some time. The police were called, and the men were taken to the hospital.

The northwest corner of Sixth street and Pennsylvania avenue came near being the scene of another tragedy at 7:30 o'clock last night. At that time Stephen G. Cassasa, who keeps a fruit stand in the former railroad office, was standing in front of his store when he was suddenly confronted by David Leverone, his first cousin. The latter was seen to approach Cassasa in a menacing way, and before the eyes witnessed could realize it, he had shot at his cousin seven times. Three shots had been fired before Cassasa fully realized that he was the target, and then he made a jump for the would-be assassin, but the latter retreated. One remaining shot struck Cassasa in the chest, and the other four struck his arm, the second of the right hand, the third struck the fifth rib of the right breast and glancing down under the arm came out, the fourth struck the fourth and fifth ribs of the right hand. Cassasa, though wounded, did not flinch, but on the contrary, made a run for Leverone, seeing that he had failed to kill Cassasa outright, Leverone became enraged and fired a shot at Cassasa, the head of Cassasa and missed his mark. The men now closed and fell with Cassasa under man, and his arms firmly locked round the neck of the other. The latter, in his desperation was nearly choking the life out of the prostrate man. The fight was desperate, and the men were struggling for some time. The police were called, and the men were taken to the hospital.

The northwest corner of Sixth street and Pennsylvania avenue came near being the scene of another tragedy at 7:30 o'clock last night. At that time Stephen G. Cassasa, who keeps a fruit stand in the former railroad office, was standing in front of his store when he was suddenly confronted by David Leverone, his first cousin. The latter was seen to approach Cassasa in a menacing way, and before the eyes witnessed could realize it, he had shot at his cousin seven times. Three shots had been fired before Cassasa fully realized that he was the target, and then he made a jump for the would-be assassin, but the latter retreated. One remaining shot struck Cassasa in the chest, and the other four struck his arm, the second of the right hand, the third struck the fifth rib of the right breast and glancing down under the arm came out, the fourth struck the fourth and fifth ribs of the right hand. Cassasa, though wounded, did not flinch, but on the contrary, made a run for Leverone, seeing that he had failed to kill Cassasa outright, Leverone became enraged and fired a shot at Cassasa, the head of Cassasa and missed his mark. The men now closed and fell with Cassasa under man, and his arms firmly locked round the neck of the other. The latter, in his desperation was nearly choking the life out of the prostrate man. The fight was desperate, and the men were struggling for some time. The police were called, and the men were taken to the hospital.

GETTING INTO WORKING ORDER.

The Railroad, Telegraph, and Telephone Lines Recovering from Storm Prostration.

The Baltimore and Ohio and Baltimore and Potomac roads are now running trains regularly and doing very well despite the fact that they are lacking full telegraph facilities.

The Baltimore and Ohio and Baltimore and Potomac roads are now running trains regularly and doing very well despite the fact that they are lacking full telegraph facilities.

The Baltimore and Ohio and Baltimore and Potomac roads are now running trains regularly and doing very well despite the fact that they are lacking full telegraph facilities.

The Baltimore and Ohio and Baltimore and Potomac roads are now running trains regularly and doing very well despite the fact that they are lacking full telegraph facilities.

The Baltimore and Ohio and Baltimore and Potomac roads are now running trains regularly and doing very well despite the fact that they are lacking full telegraph facilities.

The Baltimore and Ohio and Baltimore and Potomac roads are now running trains regularly and doing very well despite the fact that they are lacking full telegraph facilities.

The Baltimore and Ohio and Baltimore and Potomac roads are now running trains regularly and doing very well despite the fact that they are lacking full telegraph facilities.

The Baltimore and Ohio and Baltimore and Potomac roads are now running trains regularly and doing very well despite the fact that they are lacking full telegraph facilities.

The Baltimore and Ohio and Baltimore and Potomac roads are now running trains regularly and doing very well despite the fact that they are lacking full telegraph facilities.

The Baltimore and Ohio and Baltimore and Potomac roads are now running trains regularly and doing very well despite the fact that they are lacking full telegraph facilities.

The Baltimore and Ohio and Baltimore and Potomac roads are now running trains regularly and doing very well despite the fact that they are lacking full telegraph facilities.