and the other for protection. These "leaders of ten" also bought votes and traded for them—resorted to every device to crush the Republican rising in Virginia—until, finally, their work culminated in the well-planned massacre of Danville.

Horrible. Ever since the return of the Greeley expedition from the Arctic region a report has been afloat that there had been brought home alive, kept themselves from starving by eating the remains of their comrades that died.

A number of the men that died last June, or rather their remains were brought home in metallic caskets, and interred in grave yards among their friends.

The unpleasant rumors about their flesh having been eaten by living comrades caused living relatives to bury the body of Lieutenant Kinsley, of Rochester, N. Y., last Thursday, and learn the truth. The heavy iron casket was taken out of the earth, and in the presence of two brothers of the deceased, two doctors examined the body of the dead man who had been brought from the ice region of the north. The head, face and feet were perfect, but the flesh from the ribs, thighs and back had been nicely removed by some sharp instrument.

Ship wrecked people have feeling instances of civilized people related on the bodies of people to save themselves from starvation.

History relates instances of the same kind. Josephus, in the 6th book of his wars of the Jews, tells a tale of cannibalistic horror, of how a Jewess of good family was so hard pressed by the famine that prevailed in Jerusalem during the time that Titus besieged it, that she snatched up her son which was sucking at her breast, and said, "Oh thou miserable infant! for whom shall I preserve thee in this war, this famine and this sedition?" She slew her son, and roasted him, and ate the one half of him, and kept the other half concealed. Presently a starving lot of seditionaries came in her house and demanded something to eat. She presented what remained of her own son, and told them what it was, the men went out of the house trembling being very much frightened. Horrible! Horrible!

Mr. Blaine's Libel Suit. INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., August 14. On the 8th inst. the Sentinel of this city contained an editorial charging that Blaine had seduced his present wife in Kentucky and then fled to Maine; that the young woman and her father followed him, and that he married her at the point of a shotgun. This having reached Mr. Blaine he today sent the following dispatch from Bar Harbor to Colonel W. R. Holloway of this city:

I have this moment received the atrocious libel of the Indianapolis Sentinel. It is utterly and abominably false in every application. Political standards I do not stop to notice, but this editor assails the honor of my wife and my children. I desire you, without an hour's delay, to employ the proper attorney and have the responsible publisher of the Sentinel sued for libel in the United States District Court of Indiana. It is my only remedy. I am sure that honorable Democrats like with honorable Republicans will justify me in defending the honor of my family, if need be with my life.

Colonel Holloway placed the matter in the hands of Senator Harrison's law firm who this evening filed the complaint in the case.

The Cleveland Scandal. Grover Cleveland the Democratic candidate for President is a bachelor and makes Buffalo, N. Y., his home. He has been charged with being the father of a child to a widow named Maria P. Halpin. The charge has been the subject of a great deal of attention and thousands of inquiries have been sent to reputable people of the city of Buffalo, to learn the truth of the matter. By a personal investigation of the charge, by Kinsley Twining, D. D., in which he spent two full days in Buffalo among journalists, clergymen and others, he says in the New York Independent of August 14, 1884. I am satisfied that I know the case from fuller information than do any of those who have given it private or public currency.

Repeat it is not my purpose here to repeat the particulars of the reported scandal in its grosser or its corrected version. Those who want it can get it from the publisher of the Buffalo Telegraph, who will be glad to sell copies. If necessary, I am ready with the full facts; but it is not necessary here.

The kernel of truth in the various charges against Mr. Cleveland is this, that when he was younger than he is now he was guilty of an illicit connection; but the charge, as brought against him, lacks the elements of truth in these substantial points. There was no seduction, no adultery, no breach of promise, no obligation of marriage; but there was at that time a culpable irregularity of life, living as he was as a bachelor, for which it was proper and is proper that he should suffer. After the primary offense, which is not to be palliated in the circle for which I write, his conduct showing no attempt to evade responsibility, and doing all that could be met the duties involved, of which marriage was certainly not one. There was no abduction, only proper legal action under circumstances which demanded it.

The facts which have been blown up into a case of kidnapping, are that the child being neglected and in danger of death, Mr. Cleveland took to his confidence Judge Burrows, a citizen whose high character is clearly enough proved by the fact that he was then Trustee of the Protestant Orphan Asylum. Under his persuasion the child was surrendered by the mother to the orphan asylum.

and regular papers resigning her parental rights made out. The entry in the books is that March 9th, 1876, Oscar Halpin, born September 14th, 1874, was received from his mother, Maria P. Halpin, at the board rate of $5.00 per week, which presumably, Mr. Cleveland was to pay through Judge Burrows. Finding that in the surrender of the child, she had lost her claim against Mr. Cleveland, Mrs. Halpin endeavored to recover him, and finally, as the asylum record gives it, April 28th, 1876, he was "stolen" by her. In the mother's hands his situation grew more alarming than ever. The ex-chiefs and the officers in charge agreed in representing to me that something had to be done. Judge Burrows then directed the child to be returned to the asylum, where he is again recorded July 10th, 1876, as received from Oscar Halpin, who was then out of her head in alcoholic frenzy, the officer Watts says that he acted on the right of personal judgment, usually assumed by officers in such cases, and took her not to the common lock up but to a more private and less rigorous Roman Catholic Providence Asylum, for both lunatics and inebriates, where she was placed to recover. She was not incarcerated. She was not entered for permanence. The motive was not to hide a troublesome woman nor to suppress a scandal, but to provide for a child abandoned and in danger of death and for a woman out of her head by drink and threatening to throw her child out of the window.

How He Got a Position. "I applied for a position in a banking house in Wall street six months ago, and although I proved my competency, they would not take me. I had been down on my luck and looked old and shabby. An idea struck me, I got up a new growth of hair with Parker's Hair Balsam, raised a decent suit of clothes, applied again, and they took me in a minute." So writes a clerk with $2,000 salary. The moral is plain. Parker's Hair Balsam gives a person a new face.
