The N. O. Picayune pulls off

its glasses and spits in the face of the Cincinnati Commercial in the following spiteful and logical style:

"The Cincinnati Commercial gravely asserts that the news of the chimerical outrages in Madison parish, circulated by the reliable Murrell, and propagated through the country by Republican telegraphers and Mr. Howard Carroll, caused a fall in State consols to 36½. This is about equal to the Commercial's average capacity for judging the relation between cause and effect. That paper evidently thinks that all post hoc must necessarily be propter hoc; as for instance, that the publication of Tuesday morning's Commercial is the direct consequence of Monday's rise in cotton futures, or that the failure of Prof. Proctor's meteor shower was caused by the Ute war. However, admitting that Louisiana consols declined to 36½ in consequence of Murrill's Madison parish outrages, how is it that they are now quoted at 48½? On the same principle they must have gone up because Murrill's Madison parish outrages turned out to be a pure chimera, originating either in Murrill's fertile fancy, or in the invention of Mr. Woodford and of Mr. Howard Carroll."
