

P. A. ROY, Editor.

Messrs. A. B. STAWBRIDGE & CO. are our authorized agents in New Orleans, to receive and receipt for subscription and advertising.

SATURDAY MORNING, MARCH 17, 1860.

We learn with pleasure, that the bill which passed the House, restricting the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court of Louisiana to questions of law, has been killed in the Senate. Our readers will recollect that as soon as this bill was presented, we strongly combated its provisions as inexpedient and dangerous. We are now glad to hear that our distinguished Senator, Mr. Phillips, contributed greatly to its defeat in that body where he represents us with marked ability and diligence.

The law redistricting the State into judicial districts, has passed both Houses, and by this time has without doubt become law. The Judges' salary is increased from two thousand five hundred dollars, to four thousand dollars. This is but just, as his duties, at least in the district to which we belong, are more than doubled, he having, under the new law, four parishes to preside in, instead of two. How it has happened, only the reduction of the districts is white from eighteen to thirteen, this district should be made to consist of four parishes instead of two, we must confess we cannot apprehend.

Governor Moore, by his veto, which we elsewhere publish, has read the two Houses of the Legislature a lesson on the impropriety of sacrilegiously touching property which has been set aside for school purposes.

The Commissioner at Washington having, as we understand the question, decided that the fragmentary lots, set aside in the surveys as equivalent to the sixteenth sections in townships of irregular survey, were subject to entry, some of our wide-awake speculators were anxious to have the same doctrine applied to the reserved lots, ceded to Louisiana under the swamp land donation bill. Their object has been frustrated by the honest vigilance of our Governor, who seems determined that the rights of the youth of Louisiana to an ample education, should not be divested by a quibble.

We feel proud of this veto, but would have preferred that the bill should have been killed on its way through either House.

A bill to regulate the practice of medicine in the State of Louisiana, was passed by the Legislature on the 13th. The provisions of this bill are as follows: That no person shall be permitted to practice medicine in the State of Louisiana without having a diploma from some regularly organized medical school; that each person wishing to practice medicine shall go before the recorder of a parish, or a District Recorder of the city of New Orleans, for the purpose of having their diplomas examined, and give a certificate of record. Any person refusing to comply with the above rules shall be fined twenty dollars on every attempt to practice medicine.

Amongst the improvements going on in this parish, we notice that Mr. Sanford Thompson has built a fine stable near the Bayou Sara Ferry Landing, where he has constantly on hand mules, horses, and blooded stock for sale. At the present moment he offers at the lowest price, a lot of large Kentucky mules, a few carriage and saddle horses, and also three fine blooded Durham cows. He will sell the above at almost any price, as he is about leaving for above.

We call the attention of the public to the Presidents proclamation, offering for sale large quantities of public land. Persons entitled to pre-emptions located in those various townships, are notified that they must come forward and enter their pre-emption claims before the sale, otherwise their rights will be forfeited.

Court, Jury term, will be held on Monday, the 19th inst., his Honor Judge Haralson, presiding.

The Fair at Baton Rouge.

The fair opened yesterday, say the Baton Rouge Advocate, of Tuesday last, under the most flattering auspices, notwithstanding the effort made in New Orleans to frustrate the plans inaugurated by the Baton Rouge pioneers in behalf of this State enterprise. The attendance was unexpectedly large, considering the season of the year, and the many drawbacks against which the directors had to contend. The Legislature is drawing to a close, and the business accumulating on the last days of the session necessarily kept the members away from the Fair grounds, but the large concourse from the surrounding parishes in some measure compensated for the absence of the people's representatives. The ladies were there on the opening day in respectable numbers, and not the least charm to the occasion were the benignant smiles and approving looks they bestowed upon the efforts of the sterner sex to place our State on an equality with her sisters in encouraging the industry and ingenuity of her citizens.

The exhibition yesterday in the stock department was an auspicious beginning for the popularity and success of the future displays at Baton Rouge. The list of premiums awarded will be found below, and we here take occasion to say that none were given by the judges which did not exactly accord with the opinion of the large outside audience. Each day will increase the interest and the attendance at the Fair grounds. We may already congratulate ourselves on the success which has attended the Association. Mechanical inventions from distant States, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania and others, not excepting the splendid specimens of Gilman & Co., of New Orleans, will come up for exhibition on the days set apart by the direction, when cotton and sugar planters, lumber dealers and millers, will have an opportunity of judging of the merits of the various machinery, and likewise of introducing the most modern and rigid economy into the working of their establishments.

The following awards among others, were made on the first day's exhibition:

- Best Durham Bull—1st premium, J. A. Dougherty.
- Best Durham cow—J. A. Dougherty.
- Best Devon Cow and Calf—J. A. McHattton.
- Best long wool buck, over two years—1st premium, J. A. Dougherty.
- Best long wool buck, under two years—1st premium, C. G. McHattton.
- Best trio of Merino Sheep—1st premium to Mrs. Mary Jane Watson, for a buck and two ewes, imported by her from Spain.
- Best display of Creole sheep—1st premium, J. C. Burden.
- Best Boar—1st premium, J. A. McHattton.
- Best Sow—1st premium, Wm. Markham.
- Best pair Match Horses for carriage—1st premium to Mr. Bowman.

The attendance on the second day was much larger than on the preceding one. The spacious grounds were literally filled with interested spectators from all parts of the State—Legislators, planters, mechanics and ladies, all crowded the arena to admire and criticize the exhibitions submitted to their tastes.

THE GOVERNOR'S VETO MESSAGE.—The veto of the Governor, which returned to the House without his signature, on the bill providing for the sale of certain lands recognized as school lands in the townships of this State, was accompanied with the following message:

If the lands to which this bill has reference are already school lands, then it requires no legislation; but if they are not school lands, but enure to the State under the provisions of the laws of the United States, by which the swamp lands are donated to the State, then the proceeds of these lands, after their sale, cannot be diverted from the purposes specified in the acts of donation.

Article one hundred and twenty-eight of the Constitution declares that none of the lands granted by Congress to a State for aiding it in constructing necessary levees and drains shall be diverted from the purposes for which they were granted.

The Legislature has the power of directing the manner in which the swamp lands may be sold, but this bill recognizes the lands in effect, and appropriates the money derived from their sales to school purposes.

The weather has been during the past week very disagreeable—cold, foggy, and unpropitious to vegetation.

After a careful examination of the stubble canes, they prove to be worthless, save those of the last year's plants, and that much depends upon the propitious weather of the spring. They have been destroyed very deep in the ground, and nothing but careful cultivation and fair weather can bring them out.

Much of the corn is up, and many cotton planters, especially on new ground, have planted their cotton seed.

"Hampden," (Hon. J. F. H. Claiborne, we presume,) a correspondent of the Mississippian, thinks that Hon. John C. Breckinridge is the only man from the South who has the ghost of a chance for the Presidency, and that it is the duty of the Charleston Convention to confer upon him the nomination.

RAREY, THE HORSE TAMER.—Rarey, the American horse tamer, was coming money at last accounts in Paris. He gave his exhibition in the Cirque Napoleon, and the receipts one night left him $3000 clear profit. A Paris letter states that an incompetent interpreter had been engaged, who made dreadful havoc with French nouns, articles and verbs, to the uproarious amusement of everybody. The people on the upper benches could hear nothing, and yelled "plus haut! plus haut!" (louder! louder!) in a way which forcibly reminded the writer of the Bowery pit. To this hint the interpreter, an Englishman, impudently replied, in indescribable French, "You cannot hear me because you are too far off; why didn't you take first class seats, lower down?" This speech was sufficiently understood to raise such a storm of indignation that the gentleman from England hastily beat a retreat from the ring, and was glad enough to get off with whole bones. After the retirement of the Briton, Mr. Rarey dispensed with explanations, and went through his experiments in a manner to prove the simplicity and excellence of his system. From Paris he was going to Egypt.

THE CAMEL ON THE PLAINS.—In a recent letter to the War Department, Lieut. Beale writes:

I have lately tried, effectually, the comparative value of mules and camels, as pack animals. The experiment leaves the palm with camels. Both trains receiving orders to start at the same time, in the morning, the camels invariably arrive at camp (in a distance of twenty-five miles) an hour, and sometimes an hour and twenty minutes, ahead of the mule train; the mules carrying a burden of two hundred pounds, the camels packed with four hundred, besides a rider, armed with rifle, revolver and ammunition, and his bedding laid over the pack to sit on. The young are great pets in camp, but very mischievous—poking their noses into every bag, pot and pan about the camp fires. Their great aim in life at present seems to be to ape the manners and habits of their sires—kneeling down and growling and complaining, precisely as the old ones do whenever the train is packed. We have entirely discontinued the cumbersome Oriental apparatus used as a saddle, and have in its place one of light, useful and simple construction.

WHY PEOPLE DRINK.—Mr. A. drinks because his doctor has recommended him to drink.

Mr. B. because his doctor has ordered him not, and he hates quackery.

Mr. C. takes it because he's wet.

Mr. D. because he's dry.

Mr. E. because he feels something rising in his stomach.

Mr. F. because he feels a kind of sinking in his stomach.

Mr. G. because he's going to see a friend off to California.

Mr. H. because he's got a friend come from Australia.

Mr. I. because he's so hot.

Mr. K. because he's so cold.

Mr. L. because he's got a pain in his back.

Mr. M. because he's got a pain in his side.

Mr. N. because he's got a pain in his head.

Mr. O. because he's got a pain in his breast.

Mr. P. because he's got a pain all over him.

Mr. Q. because he feels light and happy.

Mr. R. because he feels heavy and miserable.

Mr. S. because he's married.

Mr. T. because he isn't.

Mr. U. because no one will have him.

Mr. V. because he likes to see his friends around him.

Mr. W. because he's got no friends, and enjoys a glass by himself.

Mr. X. because his uncle left him a legacy.

Mr. Y. because his aunt cut him off with a shilling.

Mr. Z.—We should be happy to inform our readers what Mr. Z.'s reasons are for drinking, but on putting the question to him, he was found to be too drunk to answer.

DIED.—On the 13th instant, at the advanced age of 104 years, MARIE THERESE OLINDE, widow Louis David.

She was a native of this parish, and at the time of her birth, 1756, this country was but a wilderness. She had never been sick an hour during all her life, which was one of continual labor and industry. To the date of her death she retained full command of her intellect, and could travel on foot to distant parts of the parish to visit her friends. Such is the result of temperance and industry.
