

REMINISCENT OVER HIS INDIANA CAREER

W. W. Curry, Formerly of Dublin, Celebrated His 87th Birthday.

Washington, Feb. 16.—Eighty-seven years ago William W. Curry, soldier, minister and politician, for many years a prominent resident of Indiana, was born. In commemoration of that event he and his three daughters received their friends at their home in Washington. Many Indianians resident called to pay their respects to the aged man, and a number of congratulatory messages were received from friends back in Indiana.

Despite his advanced age Mr. Curry enjoys unusually good health. He may be found any day at his desk in the office of the board of review of the pension bureau.

Becomes Indianapolis Pastor.

He had preached before this at Clay City, Ky., and in Louisville, and became more and more enthusiastic in his work. Following his pastorate in Dublin, Mr. Curry became the pastor of the Universalist churches in New Albany, Logansport, Terre Haute and Indianapolis. The church in Indianapolis at that time was in Michigan street, west of Illinois street. Mr. Curry gave up active work in the ministry thirty years ago.

He married Miss Hannah Singer, of Cincinnati, in 1851, at Danville, Ind., and when the civil war began he recruited twelve men as privates in Hendricks county, each of whom, including Warner Vestal, Henry Perkins and Dr. Matthew Rose, won his way from the ranks to become a commissioned officer. Mr. Curry served in the Fifty-third Indiana regiment under General Walter Q. Gresham, of Corydon. He was appointed chaplain in May 1863, and joined his regiment during the siege of Vicksburg.

He took part in the battles of Hatchie river and Kennesaw mountain, and was near General McPherson when he was killed during the battle of Peachtree Creek. Mr. Curry resigned his office in the army in December, 1864, when his regiment joined Gen. Sherman's forces in the famous march to the sea. He returned to Indiana and became a member of the staff of Governor Oliver P. Morton.

First Speech in Public.

He made his first appearance as a public speaker in Indiana in 1852 when he spoke in behalf of prohibition. He afterwards stumped southern and middle Indiana in the cause of temperance and often engaged in debates on the subject. He took an active part in the campaign preceding the second election of Lincoln, and he took a keen interest in the political questions during those stormy days. Slavery was then the principal issue and time and again Mr. Curry engaged in warm debates with prominent platform speakers. He was recognized as an orator of so much force and ability that his services were in constant demand.

His friends urged him to become a candidate for congress while he was a resident of New Albany, and he made the race against Kerr, the Democratic candidate, afterward speaker of the house. Michael C. Kerr carried the election by only 1,800 votes despite the fact that Judge Davis, the Democratic candidate in the previous election, had carried the district by three thousand votes.

Narrowly Escapes Death.

While Mr. Curry was making political speeches in Indiana, the Knights of the Golden Circle made two unsuccessful attempts to lynch him. It was only by the intervention of a Democratic hotel keeper in Orange county, near West Baden, that a dozen masked men were put to flight. Another time Mr. Curry was delivering a political speech at Leopold, near Evansville, when the Knights of the Golden Circle threatened to kill him. Federal officers came to his rescue at that time and he narrowly escaped being captured.

Becomes Secretary of State.

Two years later he was elected secretary of state. It was Mr. Curry who made the first public report for a Governor of Indiana. The state officers were divided in politics when Mr. Curry took office in 1872 and the work accomplished during that administration was significant.

The legislature in January, 1873, passed the first Indiana law for estimating the valuation and taxing of corporations. The state officers made up a commission to assess the value of railroads and other companies operating in the state and their work was successful from every point of view. It was during the year that Governor Hendricks and his staff paid official visits to the Governor of Illinois and the legislature then in session. They afterwards called on President Ulysses S. Grant in Washington.

During subsequent campaigns the Republican chairman of a number of a number of states solicited the services of Mr. Curry as a platform speaker and he delivered tariff speeches in Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, Ohio, South Dakota and other states. If a particular district was in doubt and the Republicans needed its vote they would send Mr. Curry to line up the voters. And he seldom failed. He appealed to the masses.

Was an "Offensive Partisan."

"My ambition was never to hold office," explained Mr. Curry, in speaking of the days when he took an active part in state and national politics, "but it was to save my language in such a way that every man could understand clearly what I was saying. I wanted to instruct and educate people. That is all."

Mr. Curry came to Washington in April, 1881, when he was appointed to fill a position in the pension bureau. Four years later, when President Cleveland took office he was let out for "offensive partisanship." When he was told why he would lose his position, Mr. Curry said: "Mr. Cleveland is right. My partisanship is always offensive. Never defensive."

In 1907 Mr. Curry was returned to the pension bureau and he has since held one of the most responsible places in that department.

"I was always too much of a politician to be a preacher, and too much of a preacher to be a politician," said Mr. Curry.

On next Sunday morning, Mr. Curry will deliver a sermon at the Universalist church in Washington, of which he is a member. His text will be "The Whole duty of Man to God."

WOMAN VICTIM OF BLACK HAND GANG

Fatally Injured by a Bomb Explosion—Muncie Girl Burned.

Rockford, Ills., Feb. 16.—Mrs. Rena Vitoli was fatally injured and her husband and baby slightly injured by a black hand bomb which was exploded under the window of her bedroom.

The baby was sleeping under her arm. The bomb was torn away by the force of the explosion but aside from a few scratches the infant was uninjured.

Joseph Vitoli, the husband, has been an active enemy of the black hand for several years and has been threatened with death on a score of occasions. The bomb was meant for him, but because he was sleeping on the inside of the bed, failed to reach its mark.

Mrs. Vitoli expected to become a mother again in a few weeks.

Several Italians have been arrested in an effort to trace the perpetrator.

BURNED TO CRISP.

Muncie, Ind., Feb. 16.—Miss Bertha Botts, aged twenty-five, was burned to death in her home Wednesday when a five gallon can of kerosene exploded while she was pouring it on a kitchen fire to expedite breakfast. She was burned to a crisp. The family formerly lived in Logansport.

At Local Theaters

Spendthrift Here March 1.

"The Spendthrift" which comes to the Gennett, Wednesday, March 1st, is a pulsating vital drama of American life today. Its theme is extravagance. It is written by Porter Browne, an observing, skillful playwright who has just arrived at the height of his power, it emphasizes the almost criminal wastefulness which is characteristic of the daily lives of many persons—men as well as women—of a certain stratum of contemporary society. But the play is not a peachment. It teaches its lesson in an attractive fashion. The strongest situations—those which impress an audience immediately with their purpose and truth—are developed in an atmosphere of high comedy. While "The Spendthrift" has aroused more serious discussion than any other play produced in several years, there are 100 "laughs" in the first act.

Frederic Thompson, the producer, has assembled an excellent cast to interpret the various roles, headed by Doris Mitchell, and includes such artists as Lionel Adams, Gwendolyn Piers, Albert Sackett, Lizzie McCall Forrest Orr, Alice Kelly and William H. Sullivan. The scenic investiture is up to the usual Thompsonian standard.

Pollock Players.

On Monday evening, February 20th, the Pollock Players, an organization of unquestionable merit, will open a week's engagement at the Gennett theater, in a new repertoire of up-to-date comedies and dramas. The company consists of fourteen people, all recognized artists in their respective lines. An entire change of play and specialties will be given at every performance. Among the attractions to be presented are "A Kentucky Sheriff," "The Peace-Maker," "The Klu
