

FORMER HUSBAND OF ALICE THAW "BROKE"

Lord Yarmouth Seeks the Protection of the Courts A Second Time

LONDON, Dec. 14.—At the public examination at the London bankruptcy court of Lord Yarmouth, who failed in July, his statement of affairs showed ranking liabilities of £18,536 and assets of £57, absorbed, however, in the payment of preferential claims.

Lord Yarmouth admitted a previous failure in February 1909. With liabilities £5,111, a composition of 10 shillings in the pound was then paid and the proceedings were annulled. The money was provided by his father, who had previously paid his debt in 1894, and in return the debtor assigned to his father certain of his interests in the family estates.

After 1909 Lord Yarmouth went to New York, where he was engaged as an actor and received an allowance of £300 a year from his father. In 1908 he married Miss Alice Thaw, and under the marriage settlement received an annuity of £1,100, but that ceased upon the annulment of the marriage in 1908. The allowance from his father was insufficient to cover his expenses.

In 1907 he fell into the hands of money lenders. In 1910 he wrote and produced a musical comedy called "The Pigeon House," which was not a success, and he lost between £1,200 and £1,500. The present failure was largely due to extravagance. Lord Yarmouth, when asked how he expected to meet the liabilities created on the promissory notes, replied that he hoped to pay them when he came into the family estate. The examination was concluded.

Bill To Gil

Wilbur D. Nesbit, one famous Indian, contributes the following clever poem about "Gillilan," another Indian celebrity, to the Chicago Tribune incident to the latter's appearance at the annual dinner of the Indiana Society, account of which appeared here.

This is the more interesting since, at one time, these famous humorists and writers of verse were not on the best terms. That all differences are now forgotten is evidenced by this tribute in print from the one to the other.

While in Chicago, Mr. Gillilan was entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Guy McCabe, formerly of this city, who are conspicuously identified with the Indiana Society and with the social life of Evanston, in which suburb they have their home.

Nesbit's poem is entitled "Gillilan," and follows:

GILLILAN.

Once a reporter was Gillilan,
Down on the Richmond Palladium—
Whenever the city was scanty of news
He'd chew on his pencil and study his shoes.

Then write in a lovely hexameter
A poem two-feet in diameter—
That is, this Gillilan
Wrote it for fillin' in.

When Gillilan quaffed the Perian
He wrote stuff in ancient Assyrian.
He also wrote yards on the subject of love

And twittering birds and the blue sky above,
And the editor wrinkled his forehead then—

And said many things that were torrid then—
That is to Gillilan
He talked of killin' 'im

One day on the section one Finnigan
Who ran a handcar out and in again
Sent in a report of a wreck that occurred—
Sent in a report that, in fact, was a bird.

Now, Finnigan sent it to Flannigan,
And Flannigan showed it to Gillilan.
That's the way Gillilan
Came to write "Finnigan."

Then fame came and boarded with Gillilan—
He'd proved to be true Indianian—
And Richmond grew famous in less than a night

Through owning the poet who sat down to write

The mythical story of Finnigan,
Who penciled the message to Flannigan:

"Off ag'in, on ag'in,
Gone ag'in—Finnigan."

Since then it's been splendid for Gillilan,
Though no one knows what came of Finnigan.

But Gillilan's dealing in meters and feet
On the easiest corner of broad Easy street.

And Fortune has chuckled and smiled on him
And honors and comforts have piled on him.

Not every Gillilan
Haps on a Finnigan!

HELD UP COP AND IS FATALLY SHOT

(National News Association)

CHICAGO, Dec. 14.—One of two robbers, identified as George W. Gabriel, a steamfitter, was shot in the abdomen and probably fatally wounded early today by Policeman Max Schmidt of the Central station while the latter was on his way to report for duty. The robbers, who had held up eight men during the night, attempted to rob Schmidt, who was in his uniform at the time, when they saw him at Belmont and Lincoln avenues.

CHICAGO'S COOKS ASK TEN HOUR WORK DAY

(National News Association)

CHICAGO, Dec. 14.—New Year's eve has been decided upon as the hour of a strike for shorter work-days and more varied diet by all the cooks' unions represented in downtown hotels. If the hotels and restaurant managers refuse to listen to their complaints.

French chefs, German kochens, Spanish cafeteras and plain American cooks have united to demand a ten-hour day and a six-day week, or let downtown Chicago resort to home cooking on New Year's eve.

The men assert that cooking, instead of being a fine art, has been reduced to the worst form of drudgery. They have to work from 12 to 15 hours a day and seven days a week, and in some instances are compelled to eat what they cook.

SUICIDE IN NOTE ADMITS COWARDICE

(National News Association)

CINCINNATI, Dec. 14.—Clarence Binkley, a 19-year-old church worker and Sunday School teacher, committed suicide by shooting. In a note he wrote: "As a member of a church I confidently expect damnation for all these sins. I have tried to stand the storms of life, but I have not the backbone. I am as a coward removing myself from the trials of this life. I have no longer a right to call upon God."

DEFENSE IN PRICE TRIAL GIVEN BLOW

Man Who Saw Avery Murdered Said Victim Didn't Speak to Price.

(Palladium Special)

EATON, O., Dec. 14.—Leslie Samuels, considered the most important witness in the case of the state against Charles E. Price, charged with second degree murder for the death of Andrew F. Avery, was called to the stand Wednesday afternoon. Samuels and a brother, William Samuels, were in company with Avery on the night of the tragedy and had planned to return home with him. On the stand he testified that he had seen Price coming east on Main street and heard him say something to Avery, but that it was not sufficiently audible as to be understood. He also testified that he saw Price strike Avery with the axe handle and saw him fall to the ground. According to John Risinger, one of Price's attorneys, Samuels testified at Coroner Quinn's investigation that both Avery and Price said something to each other. His statements Wednesday were a denial of this, he having stated that Avery said nothing to Price. He swore that Avery had been drinking a little, but was not intoxicated.

With the conclusion of the testimony of Samuels, the state announced that its side of the case would be rested. The defense immediately made motion that the prosecution be compelled to call to the stand Wm. Samuels, who had been subpoenaed to testify for the state. Not being convinced of the legality in sustaining the motion, this being the first time in the history of the state's courts that such a question has arisen, Judge A. C. Risinger took the matter under advisement and will decide at Thursday morning's session.

Price's wife and little daughter are in attendance daily and are seated near him.

ASK UNCLE SAM TO HUNT MISSIONARIES

(National News Association)

LEXINGTON, Ky., Dec. 14.—Rev. J. W. Hardy of this city has received word of F. M. Rains of Cincinnati, secretary of the foreign Christian Missionary society that he has appealed to Secretary of State Knox to institute inquiry in an effort to discover the fate or whereabouts of Rev. W. M. Hardy of this city and Rev. J. G. Ogden of Carlisle, together with three other missionaries who have been missing in Northern China for three months, and who it is feared, have been murdered by revolutionists. The last letter was written by them the last part of September when all were preparing to flee their stations because of the pillaging and murder.
