FATE.

Two shall be born the whole wide world apart.
And speak in different tongues and have no thought
Each of the other's being, and no heed:
And these o'er unknown seas to unknown lands,
Shall cross, escaping wreck, defying death;
And all unconsciously shape every act
And bend each wondering step to this one end—
That one day out of darkness they shall meet
And read life's meaning in each other's eyes.

And two shall walk some narrow way of life,
So nearly side by side that should one turn
Ever so little space to left or right,
They needs must stand acknowledged face to face;

And yet with wistful eyes they never meet,
With groping hands they never clasp, and lips
Calling in vain to ears that never hear,
They seek each other all their weary days,
And die unsatisfied. And this is Fate.

LUNCHEON-BRIDGE

With Mrs. John Frances of Cincinnati, Ohio, as the guest of honor Mrs. Omar G. Murray, a most charming hostess, entertained with one of the most elaborate and elegant social affairs of its kind ever given in this city today at her hospitable home in East Main street. The affair was a luncheon-bridge. The spacious rooms presented a most attractive appearance with their pretty decorations. In the drawing room Richmond roses were used profusely in decorating. Hand-some vases filled with the flowers were placed at intervals about the room. In the living room spring flowers were used copiously in embellishing the apartment. In the den an attractive decorative motif was had by the means of pretty jonquils and other spring flowers. The room was transformed into a veritable bower of beauty and presented a most attractive picture, the idea of decorating being a most effective one.

The luncheon tables in the dining room were also prettily arranged with sweet violets and sweet peas. Covers were laid for forty-eight persons. After dinner the guests enjoyed an afternoon at bridge. The afternoon was thoroughly enjoyed, by all, it being spent socially and with needlework. The glow from the huge fireplace in the living room adding much to the beauty of the scene presented by the decorations which included Madam Ward roses and red carnations. Climate Hurts Weak Lungs

In this climate there are always numbers of people whose lungs are weak and who either have a chronic cough or else catch cold easily and are very likely to take pneumonia.

A New York girl, Miss Louise Jessel, has written a letter on this subject, saying "In the past year I have been troubled with weak lungs and palpitation of the heart. Having heard that Vinol was a great strengthener I began taking it and it has done me a world of good."

"I have no cough now, my heart is all right and I have gained greatly in strength and energy."

Naturally, as soon as her strength had been built up to the right point by Vinol, all symptoms of her former trouble vanished.

This delicious cod liver and iron remedy, without oil, not only creates strength and enriches the blood but always agrees with the stomach.

Get a bottle of Vinol today and begin receiving its curative power. We guarantee it to please you. Leo H. Fihe, druggist, Richmond, Ind.

color scheme to be used in the decorations and programs will be in keeping with the season. Piano and drums will furnish the dance music, Irish pieces being a feature of the evening. A few invitations will be issued to friends of the club members. This is the second feature dance given by the club. The committee will arrange for others to be given during the spring season.

This morning's Indianapolis Star says: Mr. and Mrs. John H. Aufderheide and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Treat returned Wednesday from an extended visit in Panama, Arizona and California. While in Arizona they visited Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Aufderheide, at Phenix.

MARRIES RICHMOND GIRL.

Lister Baldwin, popular man about town, is the latest victim to join the ranks of the benedictines. Mr. Baldwin is the son of Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Baldwin and the announcement of his marriage Monday morning to Mrs. Leota Gray, a popular young woman of Wayne county and Richmond, comes as a pleasant surprise to the young man's many friends in Muncie. The newlyweds will make their future home here, Mr. Baldwin being identified with the grocery business.—Muncie Press.

PRESS CLUB BANQUET.

Logansport Press club members yesterday issued invitations for their annual ball which will be held at the Elks' hall on the evening of Monday, March 18. The club issued more than eight hundred invitations for the big event which will be the crowning social decoration of the year. A large proportion of additional invitations to be issued will go out of the city. The Saxophone orchestra, which will furnish the music for the ball, announced to the club yesterday that special numbers that will not be used until the time of the club function, are being arranged as an additional touch to the completeness of the evening. The Press club in enlarging its function will, as last year give special attention to the older guests who will better enjoy the evening from their seats in the galleries than with the throng of dancers upon the floor. Last year several hundred viewed the brilliant spectacle where the Press club saw to it that favors were distributed and copies of the Evening Press Club News, published during the function, circulated. Tickets for the ball are now in the hands of Press club members.—Logansport Tribune.

GIVEN A SURPRISE.

Those present were: Little Miss Ruby Thomas, Mary Hodapp, Ethel Everett, Margaret Getz, Marjorie Lancaster, Gertrude Matthews, Madge Whitesell, Gennette Dalbey, Cathleen Bishop, Vivian Bishop, Hilda Harper, Verna Rummel, Mildred Moser, Mildred Burns, Audrey Monroe, Anna May Howe, Eusie Vossler, Pauline Patti, Gladys Anderson and Lillian Hodapp.

MEETS SATURDAY.

The Degree Staff of the Eden Rebecca Lodge will meet Saturday evening, March ninth, at seven thirty o'clock in the hall. All members are urged to be present as business of importance will be considered at this time.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY.

An anniversary of some sort is usually welcomed by the woman who wishes to give an entertainment, for it at once solves the decoration problem and often helps solve the question of refreshments and amusements. And so many entertain on St. Patrick's day who are not by birth Irish.

Green, of course, is the scheme of decoration; and whether the affair be a luncheon, a dinner or an evening gathering, very pretty table decorations can be achieved in this color.

Masses of soft feathery fern, little pots of shamrocks, white tulips or other white flowers with their green foliage smilar, a white lace centerpiece over green, green candle shades—all help make the table look lovely. Green bonbons, green icing for cakes, green ice cream will carry out the color note in the refreshments.

If a dinner or luncheon is given, green spinach or pea soup, Irish stew—and though this sounds plebian, it can be made to be very delicious, and can be served daintily—sucking pig, potatoes, lettuce, cucumbers, asparagus, all help carry out the thought, in the eatables, of the Emerald Isle.

To help along the entertaining, each guest may be asked, in advance preferably, so they will be prepared to contribute some joke, anecdote, story, bit of history, or song, pertaining to Ireland.

The hostess may also ask her guests to take a trip with her through Ireland. For this purpose she provides them with paper and pencils, and announces that the places to be visited are the answers to the following questions.

A sovereign and a city.
A stopper.
Adam's ale and a crossing
To slay and to brave.
The capital of Ireland.
A popular girl and to be speedy.
Part of a lamp and an adjective.
To be cunning and to depart.
A winter garment.
A pathway for one of huge stature.

The answers are: Queenstown, Cork, Waterford, Kildare, Dublin, Belfast, Wicklow, Sligo, Ulster, The Giant's Causeway.

Prizes can be given if desired, a pretty bunch of spring flowers, a pot of ferns, a book of Moore's poems, or a volume of G. B. Shaw's plays, anything of the kind being appropriate.

If any one can play some of the Irish jig music, and any of the party dance some of the real Irish jigs, it adds to the pleasure of the evening. Also, now that so much interest is being felt in the renaissance of Irish poetry and folk lore, if any one would tell or read some of the Irish folk-lore stories of the modern Irish writers it would prove decidedly interesting.

Much fun is afforded, too, by pinning on the back of each guest the name of some noted Irish character, either real or fictional. Each one must try to find out who he is by the questions he asks about himself. The one who first succeeds in discovering his identity can be awarded a prize.
