A National Highway

The Kansas City Star has for years pushed the good roads movement.

The Star announces that twenty-one districts will commence work on the Old Trails highway across Missouri by the first of May. It quotes the chief engineer as follows:

"Between Kansas City and St. Louis, along the line of the proposed national highway, at least 130 miles of rock roads will be built by fall," Mr. Hill said.

"The rock road in Jackson County and the road already built between St. Charles and St. Louis are included in this. The remainder of the cross-state highway will be graded and ditched and dragged before fall, giving us a road, part rock and part earth, from St. Louis to Kansas City, which will make Missouri a highway of travel for traffic east and west."

We should like to see the National Road be developed into its full possibilities by the time that it is a century old. The road bed is in excellent shape and only a little work would make a great highway all the way from Washington to the commencement of the Missouri Trail.

Richmond could add to its name for progressiveness if this movement in the east should commence here.

We wonder why it is that those Democratic papers that are interested in partisan politics only and which do not care anything about the progressive fight in either party are particular to urge the Republicans to nominate Taft?

Isn't it rather queer that those papers who want Mr. Harmon for president insist that it would be unwise for the Republicans to run anybody but Taft?

This Is My 58th Birthday

EMERSON COATSWORTH.

Emerson Coatsworth, a leading citizen of Toronto, and former member of the Dominion parliament, was born in Toronto, March 9, 1854. His father was for thirty years city commissioner of Toronto. The son received his education principally at Toronto university and was called to the bar in 1879. He served in parliament from 1891 to 1896 as Conservative member for East Toronto. In 1906-7 Mr. Coatsworth filled the office of mayor of Toronto.

Congratulations to:—

John C. Foster, consul-general for the United States at Ottawa, 53 years old today.

Edward G. Acheson, the discoverer of carborundum, 55 years old today.

You judge a man not by what he promises to do, but by what he has done. That is the only true test. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy judged by this standard has no superior. People everywhere speak of it in the highest terms of praise. For sale by all dealers.

DIET AND HEALTH HINTS

By DR. T. J. ALLEN
Food Specialist

DIET FOR CONSTIPATION.

A practitioner reports to "Physiologic Therapeutics" that he has found that a goblet of oatmeal water taken two hours before eating breakfast will often cure constipation. An exclusive meal of rolled oats, sweetened with honey, and scoured dry bread, chewing every mouthful not less than twenty times, will go far toward overcoming constipation. If the other meal is not unduly mixed and if proper exercise be taken to maintain peristaltic action. The cereal should be well mixed with sufficient honey to sweeten and sufficient water to reduce to a stiff dough and allowed to stand 12 hours. In severe cases this should be eaten twice daily, until the trouble is overcome. Two quarts of water daily should be drunk, but none within two hours of the meal, and a tablespoonful of olive oil should be taken morning and evening, with a glass of milk.

I Walk.

If the T. H. I. & E. wants to make a hit and at the same time strengthen its fast waning credit in Richmond it can do so at this time by making a plain statement of what it intends to do in the rehabilitation of the Richmond street railway system.

The people are disgusted with the service—or rather—the lack of service.

Yesterday a man came into the Palladium office and suggested that all the straphanging population of Richmond take a leaf out of the book of experience of the Cleveland citizens. When the public service corporation in control of the meat and egg situation commenced to gouge the citizens—some inventive genius among the consumers conceived the happy idea of forming a boycott. He ordered several thousand buttons protesting against the cost of meat.

Immediately the price of meat went down.

The citizens of Cleveland are not to be trifled with. They have also fought their street car battles until they rule—and get good service.

So the suggestion of the man who came in yesterday was to print a tag like this.

I
Walk

Isn't it just possible that if the people of Richmond commenced wearing those tags that they would induce the T. H. I. & E. to give better service in Richmond?

The company does not seem to care much about the legal and moral obligations of the company to the citizens when these things are brought up in the usual way. Why not use the method—the only method that the company understands—to interfere with its revenue?

The truth of the matter is that people in Richmond are already many of them walking when they can rather than use the street cars. This is the fault of the company. The cars are uncomfortable, insanitary, and absolutely useless to the most of the citizens because of the schedules and routing.

If the company would attend to these things the citizens would not be so hesitant about using the street cars.

When the street car company neglects to pay any attention to the legal and moral aspects of their obligation—isn't it likely that this is about all there is left for the citizens of Richmond to do in order to get the service that a growing thriving town should have?

The Other Pole.

"Get your tickets now,—the celebrated explorer will lecture on the South Pole."

Are we to have this all over again? Already the explorers are beginning to contradict each other and generally unsettle the public mind. If we thought for a minute that the operations of these gentlemen were responsible for keeping up this weather we would put the explorers in the same class with the man who declared two months ago that the "backbone of winter is broken."

Why Not Sooner?

The action of the authorities in chasing the slot machines out of Richmond would call for a greater amount of commendation if it had been done sooner. Everyone knows that the slot machines are nothing but gambling devices with a veneer of pretense at selling chewing gum.

It ought not to be hard to detect the presence of these machines and to keep them cleared out.

It has been the custom of the promoters of these machines to approach the authorities and ask permission to allow them to be installed. One of the offenders alleged that he had been assured that the authorities would not interfere.

It seems to us that this is all the more reason why the police and the prosecutor should make their present activities all the more effective.

A TAX QUESTION

The action of the health officer of the city and county in ordering all unmuzzled dogs killed has raised the question as to whether dog tax must be paid upon a dog killed after the first of March. In an opinion to the Wayne county assessors State Tax Commissioner Link declares that if a dog was in a person's possession March 1 and killed the next day that the dog should be scheduled and if it is ascertained that the person has not paid the tax that he is liable to arrest and prosecution.

"How large is your house, madam?" inquired the fresh clerk.—Atlanta Constitution.

The Rhymester's Dilemma

I've hit on a thought for some verses,
And here are my pen and my ink—
But verging on sighing and curses
I think and I think and I think.
The thing when complete will mean money—
And that's what I wish that I had—
But, then, I can make the thing funny
Or else I can make the thing sad.

It yields to two interpretations.
This thought that to me has occurred;
It could inspire great exclamations
By simply the twist of a word.
And yet, here's the chance to be gloomy—
As fine as I ever have had;
This thought that comes suddenly to me
May either be funny or sad.

One manner of writing the jingle
Would fill you with laughs for a week;
The other you'd read in your ingle
With tears coursing down either cheek.
O, shall it be grief, or be giggle?
O, shall it be gloom or be glad?
Would that from this point I might wriggle!
It may be made funny or sad.

I sit and I gaze at the paper
Unmuzzled, unmuzzled and blank—
And rhymes of the liveliest caper
Dance up in a metrical rank.
But after them solemnly stalking
Come pathos its pleadings to add,
My chuckling and snickering balking
O, shall it be funny or sad?

A twist of the pen makes it merry;
A twist of the pen makes it sad;
"This best with this thing to be wary
Since either arrangement I fear.
So I'll not sing sadly nor gayly—
Though I would do one, if I might;
I'll cover the space I fill daily
By writing of what I could write!

IT SEEMED EASIER.

"It is a great deal easier to end trouble than to start it," wisely observed the boarder with the eye-glasses.

"Huh!" snorted Mr. Sourpuss, "is that so? Seems to me it's easier to buy a marriage license than to get a divorce."

Love's Young Dream.

Full on a gem of purest ray serene
Is on the truthful maiden's finger placed.
And she admires its glitter and its sheen,
Though all the while she wonders if it's paste.

The Woman of It.

Fifty slaves bearing huge loads of bricks, inscribed with cuneiform characters, tolled up the steps of the throne room of the Babylonian king and deposited their burdens on the floor of the royal apartment.

"A letter from your most gracious spouse, O mighty king," explained the officer in charge of the slaves.

Two hundred slaves bearing similar burdens followed, and they too deposited their bricks on the floor.

"What have we here?" asked the king.

"This," replied the officer, "is the postscript."

More Odd Ladies.

From one of the exchanges we clip a want advertisement which offers for sale a "black broadcloth lady's coat."

A black broadcloth lady must be an interesting sight, and would be a charming companion for the one mentioned in another advertisement which speaks of "red leather ladies' shopping bags."

Quick-Witted Youth.

"Am I the first girl you ever kissed," she asked, just after he had given her the excuse for so asking.

"Yes," indeed, was the diplomatic reply. "All the others were young women."

The obvious recognition of her youthful appearance banished all possible jealousy, of course.

Two English women who have died recently left provisions in their wills for the care of their pet dogs. Mrs. Douglas, of Uxbridge, left $20 a week to her coachman to be expended on her dogs during their lives, and Mrs. Trotter, of Blackheath, left $250 to her maid for the maintenance of her pet dog.

No Cascaret User Ever Has Headache

A 10 cent box will keep your liver, stomach and bowels clean, pure and fresh for months.

Sick headache, biliousness, dizziness, coated tongue, foul taste and foul breath—always trace them to torpid liver, delayed fermenting food in the bowels or sour, gassy stomach.

Poisonous matter clogged in the intestines, instead of being cast out of the system is re-absorbed into the blood. When this poison reaches the delicate brain tissue it causes congestion and that dull, throbbing, sickening headache.

Salts, cathartic pills, oil and purgative water, force a passageway for a day or two—yes—but they don't take the poisons out and have no effect upon the liver or stomach.

Cascarets immediately cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and fumes, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the decomposed waste matter and poisons in the intestines and bowels.

A Cascaret tonight will surely straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist means inside cleanliness and a clear head for months.

Ask any of the millions of Cascaret users if they ever have headache.

A DEAL IN STOCKS.

Comment of the Man Who Witnessed the Quick Transaction.

Sitting at his desk on the tenth floor of a Wall street building the man in charge of the investment department of a Stock Exchange house was discussing the bond market with a visitor.

A message from the telephone room was laid upon his desk. "Pardon me," he said to his visitor as he picked up his telephone instrument and asked for a Philadelphia connection. He immediately replaced the receiver, and the discussion of the bond market was resumed. The telephone bell rang. "Pardon me," said the investment expert again as he lifted the telephone instrument. "I'll take those fifty shares," he said into the telephone.

Evidently he got them. He broke off the connection, wrote a message for the wire and sent it off to the telegraph room by a boy. The discussion of the bond market was resumed once more and continued until another message came from the wire room. The investment expert merely glanced at it and went on with the conversation.

"Do you mind telling me the nature of this transaction you have just concluded?" "Just then?" said the investment expert. "Why, I bought fifty shares of an investment stock in Philadelphia by telephone and sold them in Columbus, O., by our private telegraph wire. What about it?" "Oh, nothing," said the visitor, "only it occurred to me that a few years ago it might have taken four weeks instead of four minutes to do it." Then they went on with their talk about the bond market.—New York Post.

His Preference.

A distinguished eye surgeon tells a good story of his hospital days. Three other young, newly fledged oculists, and himself were chatting in their quarters in the hospital when the conversation turned, as was natural, in young men, upon the beauty of different colors of eyes. One championed the superior brilliancy and sparkle of the blue eye, another the depth and fire of the brown, while the third was all for the clear, cool light of the hazel. After they had exhausted their eloquence, with the usual effect of confirming themselves in their original opinions, the fourth young sawbones suddenly broke in: "I don't care a hang about your blue eyes or your brown eyes or your gray eyes! Just give me some eyes and plenty of 'em, and I'll be happy."—Saturday Evening Post.

William Jennings Bryan, March 14th at the Gennett Theater.

His Nose.

There was once a gentleman who had had the misfortune to lose his nose. "My dear," said the lady of the house which he was about to visit to her little daughter, "I want you to be very particular and make no remarks about Mr. Jenkins' nose." The young lady promised. Later in full drawing room it was noticed that she looked surprised and even bewildered, and those who knew her best waited hopefully for some remark which would, so to speak, make the home bright and lively. At last it came. "Mamma," she said in a clear, resonant voice, "why did you tell me to say nothing about Mr. Jenkins' nose? He hasn't got any."

Tonsilline Prevents Diphtheria

Sore Throat—nature's danger signal. At the appearance of Sore Throat the first thought should be its quick cure. Don't regard it lightly—don't think it may be gone tomorrow. An hour's delay may bring fatal results.

What good doctor in his practice now advises delay or thinks lightly of any Sore Throat, especially in children?

Modern medication wisely endeavors to quickly control and cure the simpler forms of disease—it's so much easier and so much safer than waiting for the grave diseases to follow.

It is right here and in this way that Tonsilline has its greatest value.

Tonsilline will positively cure the Sore Throat and thereby prevent the dread disease—Diphtheria.

Tonsilline is the one remedy, sold largely throughout the United States, exclusively for the cure of Sore Throats. Its field is limited but it does its whole duty every time. Tonsilline has justly earned the success it has achieved as a Sore Throat Cure.

Buy a bottle today and have it ready for instant use. Tonsilline is the stuff in time. 25 cents and 50 cents. Hospital Size $1.00. All Druggists.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

POWER.

Be patient.

If you are patient you will have but little competition, because so few persons practice that virtue. You almost may have a monopoly.

Be self-poised.

You will have but little rivalry here also, because so many persons get off their balance. You almost could form a trust of the well balanced, rightly poised. And—

If you have both poise and patience you will have what every one is looking for—Power.

If you are patient and poised you will be generous and kind to all, to the deserving and wise as well as to the undeserving and foolish.

You cannot be kind and patient to all men unless you are self forgetful, unselfish. If you are self forgetful and generous you will be both patient and kind.

See how the circle goes? Now, there is this about power—it goes to him who can properly use it. And the greatest power in all the universe is love, and he who is poised and patient and kind will have that tremendous power.

How to get it? Are you to struggle and strain after it, grasp for it? If you do that you will be doing what so many are doing, and you will have competition. And if you strain and strive you are likely to lose both poise and patience.

Again it is the circle. How then? Think only goodness and all good things will come to you and radiate from you. You will be a center of love and kindness. You will be the natural expression of kindness and goodness.

And— If that be true you will not need to rush hither and you in order to find a chance to do good. It will be all about you. Think goodness and you will practice it. Think goodness—kindness and helpfulness will finally become the fixed habits of your life.

And evil? You will have no use for it. So far as you are concerned evil will not exist. Evil is negation. It will be merged into the affirmative, powerful good.

Fret not yourself. Think only good thoughts. Think good thoughts and you will have power in your life. Power is abundant life. And patience and poise are its ministers.

Not Her Job.

Mr. Exe—What! Another new dress! Perhaps you will tell me, madam, how I shall get the money to pay for it.

Mrs. Exe—You must excuse me. I am your wife, not your financial adviser.—Boston Transcript.

There was loud applause at its finish and then, "Author! Author!" cried Augustus Thomas, standing up on his chair.
