censured for alleged use of his official prestige to his own advantage in grain deals in a report by a chamber of deputies commission. The commission advises the government to demand that M. Vilgrain pay into the public treasury 1,200,000 francs, which it declares was his share of the commission paid to the firm of Samuel Sanday and company of London for the purchase of Australian wheat for the French government after he left The commission's report asserts that M. Vilgrain was allied with the British firm while still in his official position as under-secretary of the ministry of provisions.

A Paris dispatch on June 4, last said that charges of malfeasance in of-fice had been preferred by the French government against M. Vilgrain, together with charges of illicit speculation against his father, Louis and his brother, Marcell. He had been accused during debate in the chamber of deputies of attempting to corner the French wheat market.
