

DON'T TINKER WITH YOUR STORAGE BATTERY

Yesterday morning an automobile limped up to a local Prest-O-Lite Service Station and the man at the wheel asked for Charlie Lauer, "I have a battery that's a weak sister," he said.

"How long since you've had it tested," Mr. Lauer asked.

"I tested it myself yesterday morning," the man replied.

"What else did you do?"

"Well, it wasn't giving me any power to speak of so I put in a little sulphuric acid and water, and—"

"Stop!" Lauer almost lost his composure. "Do you remember that song, 'You Made Me What I Am Today, I Hope Your Satisfied?' That is what your battery would sing now if it had any voice left. I only hope you haven't ruined it entirely. You'd better leave it with us for a few days and take a service battery to use in its place, but please don't take any liberties with the battery we lend you.

"Before you go," continued Lauer, "let me give you some advice. You have heard it all before, but evidently you had an idea that it wasn't meant seriously. In the first place, let the Prest-O-Lite Service Station test your battery every two weeks and add distilled water if necessary. This doesn't cost you a nickel—it's part of our job. If there is anything wrong with it, or if it needs charging, one of our experts will give it the right attention. No acid should ever be added by the user, as this is an expert's job. Don't lay tools, or anything else for that matter, across the top of your battery. The chances are about a hundred to one you will short-circuit it if you do. Remember at all times that there are good reasons why the makers of the battery ask you to take their word for the soundness of their advice, and you'll save money, time and annoyance.

"The storage battery is one of the most sensitive articles on your car. Properly cared for, it will serve you tinkered with. It will—oh, you know what it will do."

"Yes, I know," said the motorist as he stepped on the starter and the Prest-O-Lite service battery vigorously began turning over the engine.

THE FEAST OF TABERNACLES

During a period of eight days, beginning on the eve of the twenty-sixth day of September and ending on October the fifth, the Jews will celebrate the Feast of Tabernacles.

Once a year Israel revives its love of the soil, and makes public avowal of the fact that even an industrial civilization such as ours, depends primarily upon the elements of nature. This re-statement of love for and confidence in Mother Earth is in fact of Jewish religiousness. We know and we re-assure ourselves that God is at the center of life through all the seasons that the prosperity and the satisfaction we seek come or do not come according to His Law.

Judaism is a religion in the very midst of the passions, aspirations and complications of life. Nowhere are there more insistent than in the economic interests of men. Here religion has a duty as well as an opportunity. Judaism endeavors not merely to fortify men in their difficulties as to their daily bread, but also to keep them moral, large-hearted and just.

The Sukkoth Festival is meant not as a season of self-congratulation on having garnered in the product of the farm or the gains of business, but as time for thought on the larger-scope social interests of men in the national and international life. The Jews are the first to have recognized political economy as the field where religion and morality must operate for the good of men.

In its modern form the suggestiveness of this truth of the Sukkoth Festival is made more effective by the fact that it occurs at the beginning of the Autumn, coincident with the increased activities of the economic agencies. It is, as it were, a timely lesson for each one to interpret his life as of larger scope, related to the national life and made possible in fullness only within it.

The "dwelling in booths" as characteristic of the Biblical phase of the Festival and observed as an archaic symbolism nowadays is a suggestive domestic ritual which re-affirms the lessons of "the simple life" and the democracy of the Jewish household. The five symbolic plants hint that, as the gifts of God in nature vary and in their totality make human life sweet and satisfactory, so the difference among men, as to service and character, may serve to make "society" an organization in which each one of us has a place and can make a helpful contribution. Some more effective, some less; some noble, and some commonplace; some for the day and some for all time, according to what they do and what they are.

The Sukkoth Festival is the culminating lesson of the series of holidays of the month. It addresses itself to the facts of life which we might, otherwise, leave soiled. It widens the horizon of our individual interests. It improves our vocations and labors not when they bring private satisfactions but when they vitalize our common humanity and make us more efficient in the work upon which depend the weal, the peace and the joy of the community.

Eliminate the Poisons

The chief indications in the treatment of RHEUMATISM etc. are to neutralize the toxins and destroy the specific poisons circulating in the body.

ALBERT'S RHEUMATIC REMEDY

rapidly eliminates the poisons, thereby relieving all symptoms and preventing their return. No overloading your system with drugs. Half a teaspoonful of Albert's Rheumatic Remedy once or twice a day is sufficient. Price $1.00.
