

SAY THAT WOMEN VAMP JUDGES

BY MILDRED MORRIS
STAFF CORRESPONDENT I. N. SERVICE
WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—Mrs. Clara Smith Hamon, accused of slaying Jake L. Hamon, Oklahoma politician and oil king, is fortunate in that the laws of her state prohibits her being tried by a jury of women, as she desired, according to a number of women lawyers in Washington.

Women, commonly regarded as the more emotional and sentimental of the species, is without the quality of mercy when judging members of her own sex, according to these modern feminists. They predicted Mrs. Hamon would receive the highest penalty if tried by women.

"If I were facing trial I would not take chances with a jury of women," said Rosalie Jones, who led the famous suffrage hike from Albany, N. Y., to Washington in the days when Alice Paul was rallying the militant sisterhood to battle. Still a militant at heart, she is now practicing law in Washington.

"Mrs. Hamon will be acquitted if tried by a jury of men," she continued. "Men are swayed entirely by sentiment in judging women. When women are called to pass judgment on one of their own sex who sins in the eyes of society, they are cold to sentiment and are perfectly relentless."

"If I were a male culprit I should prefer trial before a jury of women. A man would be able to make the same sentimental appeal to a jury of women as a woman does facing a jury of men."

There are psychological and other reasons for "women's inhumanity to women," according to Helen Hoy Greeley of New York, who appeared for the army nurses when they conducted their fight in congress for military work.

"When women were in a subjugated state," said Mrs. Greeley, "the only competition they were permitted to engage in was for the favors of the male. They still regard one another as sex competitors and will continue to do so until they are fully freed and fully conscious of their status of equality. To this sex competition I chiefly attribute their merciless attitude when judging members of their own sex who transgress the moral laws."

Mrs. Nina Van Winkle, head of the police women of Washington, would have all the men judges replaced by women.

"Attractive women offenders vamp the men judges," she said today.

She refused to admit the danger of attractive male offenders "vamping" the lady judges.
