

FOR PRESIDENT IN 1868. GEORGE H. THOMAS. Major General U. S. Army.

FOR PRESIDENT IN 1868.

We this week hoist the name of Major General GEORGE H. THOMAS for President of the United States in 1868. We do not know whether any one else has even thought about General THOMAS in connection with the Presidency or not; indeed, it is not known by us whether the General has even thought about himself. It is all so manifestly better for him not, for it enables the people to understand his character better.

General THOMAS entered West Point when twenty years of age, and graduated in 1815 as the twelfth of a class of forty-two, and at the commencement of the war was junior Major of the Second United States Cavalry; and, notwithstanding he was a Virginian by birth, he could not be drawn into treason and rebellion by the South or his own native State. And our success is due as much to him if not more than to any other General in the Union Army.

We can say for General THOMAS what can be said for few Generals: "He never lost a battle," he was never relieved of his command and sent to another department because of mistakes or bad government, or dissatisfaction on the part of loyal men.

It was through the foresight and bravery of General THOMAS that the Army of the Cumberland was saved at Murfreesboro and Chickamauga; and his army and his army is due the honor of breaking the backbone of the rebellion in the defeat of Hood and his army at Nashville, and hurled him back across the Tennessee; and his threatening attitude on Richmond from East Tennessee.

Politically General THOMAS has always sympathized with the Radical Union men of Tennessee, as also with the policy of our Radical Congress. We believe our next President must come from one of our military chieftains; and with General THOMAS' ability, and his record for bravery, loyalty and devotion to principle before us, we have no hesitation in declaring our preference for him.

The ten Union men of Kentucky and Tennessee who have come in contact with General THOMAS, fully endorse him, and the Radical Legislature of the latter State voted and presented him a medal of honor for his gallant and brave defense of the loyal people of that State, and for the great victory won over Hood at Nashville. We need not the testimony of the Legislature of Tennessee, for we served with and under the General for nearly two years in the Army of the Cumberland, and know of his devotion to the country from personal experience.

We therefore present his name, believing that he will be the next choice of the American people for the Chief Magistracy of the nation; and we shall advocate his interests because we believe him to be a pure patriot, and one of nature's noblest work, "an honest man," besides, he is a man of ability.

A BIG JOB.

Four or five papers of the State have taken a contract from the Democrats to write down Governor Morton. The Richmond Telegram was concerned in the contract, but the Republican accused it of backing out. We would like to know if these papers are playing Sol Meredith with the copperheads. If it is right to stand up for the nominations for Congress, it will be for the Senate.

The Republican that bolts the nomination for the Senate when made, or that refuses to go into the convention to nominate, will have a good time ever getting a position from the Republican party in this State.

We shall fight Bundy, Meredith & Co., and all who attempt to play into the hands of the buttneuts, and we care not from which side they come, whether they are the followers of Andy Johnson or Wendell Phillips. We have no respect for any man who goes outside of his party for support.

SELPHISHNESS.

Men are selfish animals, and, withal, many are dishonest. It is legitimate for every man to make an honest living. This should not be done at the expense of ruining the business of other men. The dry goods man has his legitimate business, and he should not interfere with the grocery trade, and hog and shoe trade, or the hardware men. Neither should the last named men interfere with the dry goods trade. The trade should be properly divided, and then there could be no cause for jealousy between business men. Some men are so much like swine that they can not see their neighbor make a dollar in any branch of business without running a little into the business themselves. Men should be friends and neighbors, and patronize each other. How can a man who has little stocks of dry goods, groceries, notions, hardware, queensware, boots, shoes, clothing, hats, caps, &c., expect men who are engaged in portions of the same trade to deal with him? It is not to the advantage of any man who sells groceries to keep iron, nails, glass, drugs and medicines, for he expects hardware men and druggists to deal with him. So in every other business.

It has been our desire to see all these branches of business separated. A man has a right to be a dry goods merchant, but he has no right, according to the amenities which should exist in trade, to monopolize all branches of business and prevent others from making a living.

A man who does business in a town of this size will never prosper with his means divided out so as to represent a dozen branches of business. It will do in a country store, but in large towns he not only makes enemies, but keeps no desirable stock of any thing from which to select. The better class of customers always deal where they can have the best stock of goods to select from. Take the amount of capital invested by a wholesale groceryman and divide it up, giving one-fourth to groceries, one-fourth to hardware, and the balance to dry goods, stoves and tin-ware, and that man will fall for the want of customers. This will hold good in the retail trade.

THE REASON WHY.

"A cane, made of wood from the steamer Merrimack, is to be raffled for at a fair given by the ladies of the Catholic Church in Norfolk, Va. It is to be presented to Jeff. Davis by the winner, and the first name on the list of subscribers is Mrs. Gen. Malone, followed by every member of her family. The cane is to be beautifully and tastefully mounted with gold, and appropriately inscribed."

The above is brought over the wires by telegraph, and is a proper exhibit of the Southern feeling. We are asked by the President to treat the people of the South not only as loyal, but as restored citizens, with all the rights incident to citizens of the United States. In the face of such exhibitions, how can we do this? And this is not an isolated case. Such expressions of devotion to the leader of the rebellion, clearly shows the hatred they bear for the United States and the loyal people. The Northern Democrats say it was simply an infatuation—that they were led astray by leaders in the South. But, if an infatuation, and not a settled and well fixed determination, why should not these people, after being conquered, be willing to treat the rebellion as such?

Jeff. Davis is held as a prisoner by the United States for crimes against the Government, and for these criminal acts he is to be presented, by the Roman Catholic Church, with a cane, made of wood from a rebel war vessel, beautifully and tastefully mounted with gold, and appropriately inscribed. The dispatch does not disclose what these inscriptions are, but we may easily guess. They doubtless refer to him as the leader of the "Southern Cause";—"the President of the Confederacy";—"the Distinguished Hero";—"the Brave and Intrepid Officer";—"the Great Statesman and Christian Gentleman."

The seeds of rebellion were sown into a flame by this arch traitor, Jeff. Davis, and now he is to be canonized in the churches, his principles and sentiments taught in the schools, and himself set up as an idol to be worshipped at the family altar, until his satellites, the Southern people, can fabricate a second excuse for a further effort toward the destruction of the Government.

If these people have repented in sackcloth and ashes, why this continued devotion to their fallen cause? If these representations of the feelings and sentiments of the Southern people are correct, how, then, could we demand their restoration to all the rights and privileges to which loyal citizens are entitled? These reasons are sufficient evidence why they should not be allowed a representation in Congress.

TURNPIKE ELECTION.

The Election of Directors and officers for the Winchester and Deerfield Turnpike Company, came off yesterday. The following gentlemen were elected: Gen. A. Stone, John W. Jarnagin, Thomas H. Kizer, Elijah Ramsey and Joseph S. Kemp. General Stone was elected President of the Board. This makes a good, efficient board, and is equivalent to success. With this Board of Directors the people can soon have a pike to Deerfield. We trust every man along the line will lend a helping hand by encouraging the work. Let the people of Randolph County take a step in advance. The time has come when this must be done, as we sink below our neighboring counties. Let us, as a people, rise above personal, individual selfishness, to that higher state of civilization, the greatest good to all.

NEWS ITEMS.

THE HOUSE refused to suspend the rules to allow Mr. Ashley, of Ohio, to make a motion for the appointment of a committee to report whether any officer of the Government had committed acts justifying impeachment. This shows that in the judgment of the House, the impeachment of the President at the present time would be premature.

THERE is much rejoicing among the colored citizens of the District of Columbia at the passage of the bill establishing impartial suffrage in the District of Columbia, and a mass meeting expressive of their gratification at the measure is in contemplation.

AFTER an animated discussion in the Senate, the bill granting the privilege of voting in the District of Columbia to all male persons, without distinction of color, of the age of 21 and upward (except such as participated in or sympathized with the rebellion) passed the Senate by 32 to 13—the latter number being made of Democratic Johnson men, Speaker Foster, and Nan Winkle, of West Virginia.

Up to the present time four separate petitions for the impeachment of the President have been presented. They were all from the West and bore an aggregate of about 250 names.

THE Committee on Elections have agreed to report a bill providing that hereafter Congressional elections shall be held on the same day in all the States, viz: On Tuesday after the first Monday in November, in 1868, and in every 2d year thereafter. This is the day on which the majority of the Northern States now hold elections. Provision will be made in another bill for those States which have not chosen members to the Fortieth Congress.

THE question of introducing a new County Bill more just in its operation than that adopted at the last session, was under discussion by the House Committee on Military Affairs.

Obituary.

Departed this life, at Lynn, on the 20th of November, 1865, Mrs. LAURA JONES, consort of Mr. XERXAS A. JONES. The deceased was born at Washington, Davies County, Indiana, on the 16th day of May, 1835, consequently her age, at the day of her death, was 28 years, 6 months and 11 days.

We have reason to believe that, at a very early period in life, she had serious impressions, convictions of her lost state, and felt her need of an interest in the atoning blood of Christ. These impressions and feelings continued with her, more or less, until in the month of February, 1862, she was enabled to surrender her heart to the Savior, and found peace in believing, she at once decided to make an open confession of her attachment to Christ; and this she did by uniting with the M. E. Church at Merome, in this State, in February, 1862, and from that time until the day of her death she continued to "adorn the doctrine of her God and Savior in all things," recommending by her example and life that religion of her Savior which she professed and loved.

She was naturally kind and amiable; was esteemed and loved by all who knew her.

Her end was peace. She met death without dismay. The sting of death was taken away. Her sins were all cancelled, blotted out, and she had "passed with God through Jesus Christ." Our sympathies are with the bereaved husband and friends. If she whom you mourn is gone, sleeps in Jesus, Christ lives. He is the same compassionate Friend that wept at the grave of Lazarus, and able and willing to comfort and sustain you in all your affliction; and, moreover, He has only taken away the one for whom you mourn to the full enjoyment of a love more tender than all earthly loves, to a world where tears are never shed, and where sickness and death never come.

A Wrought Iron Bridge.

The new wrought iron bridge, across the Mississippi River at this place, has just been completed, and we are pleased to say that it is a substantial structure, and a work of great beauty. It is built of wrought iron, upon Z. King's patent, and was erected by W. Winslow, who is sole agent for the State of Indiana.

The entire length of the bridge is 1753 feet, in two spans, each 87 feet 9 inches, and is 15 feet wide. The bridge rests upon two abutments and a center pier, each 17 feet high, and the three contain 630 perch of stone, and laid in 660 bushels of lime and twenty barrel of good water-cement.

The abutments were built under the superintendence of Messrs. J. B. McKinny & P. Barger, who have labored to have a permanent structure for many generations to come. The total expense of the entire superstructure will reach nearly $7,000.

The bridge, as completed, is the best ever put up in Randolph county. Mr. Winslow, in fulfilling his contract, did his utmost to give us a bridge which should not only prove enduring, but also creditable to himself and the country. In his dealings with the Commissioners, he has won their good esteem, and his work the praise of the public. Now, in closing this somewhat detailed description of this work, we take occasion to say to the Commissioners of Randolph County, that the principle adopted in building this bridge, is the true and best principle for building bridges—levying a bridge tax. And we recommend Mr. Winslow, with Z. King's patent wrought iron bridges, to all communities who are in want of cheap, elegant and lasting bridges.

MARRIED.
