TOWN WAS EXCITED

MORAVIA THOUGHT ITS REIGN OF TERROR AT AN END BUT MET DISAPPOINTMENT.

SUSPECTS ARE ARRESTED

Five Men Thought to be Queen City Bank Robbers Are Detained But Finally Released - Robbery of Company Store at Hilton Last Night.

Moravia, Oct. 30.—(Special)—Moravia is just recovering from a sensation that would have been laughable had not so much money been concerned. Five men suspected of being the robbers of the bank at Queen City, Mo., were arrested Tuesday evening and after every attempt had been made to connect them with the crime they were released the next evening. Early Thursday morning word came from the town of Hilton, toward which place the five suspects had gone when let out of jail here, saying that the store belonging to the mining company at that place had been robbed in the night. Moravia blood hounds were put on the trail and about noon they located them, and it was learned that the Hilton robbers were not, as everyone had expected, the five suspected characters, but only a few colored miners living at Foster.

A Reign of Terror. Since the series of robberies of private houses in Moravia began about a month ago the town has been in a state of fear. Several burglaries have been perpetrated, the last one being at the home of the town marshal, Fred Buckmaster, where the thieves secured over $100 together with Buckmaster's gold watch and chain.

Look for Bank Robbers. This robbery came right on the heels of the burglary of the bank at Queen City, to which place the bloodhounds specially secured to track the Moravia robbers had been sent on the day of the Buckmaster robbery. Queen City is only a short distance from Moravia and the belief grew here that the bank robbers were the same men who had burglarized the residences in this town.

Newcomers Suspected. Since that time every strange man who entered Moravia was closely scrutinized and everyone was on the watch for the bank robbers. Tuesday afternoon five tough looking characters were seen at the Moravia depot and all were armed. The news quickly spread all over the town and want to make no one seem to have any doubts as to the identity of the newcomers. They were seen at the depot and the belief grew here that the bank robbers were the same men who had burglarized the residences in this town.

Arrest is Easy. The five men were at the station when the officers arrived and they submitted to arrest without any trouble when they faced the formidable guns of the attacking party. They were taken to jail and searched. Though their weapons could not be found, they having evidently hidden them before the arrival of the officers they had concealed beneath their clothes a quantity of cartridges, some candles and a bottle of fluid which was at once pronounced to be nitroglycerine. This was sufficient to warrant the officers to hold their prisoners and notify the Missouri officials and the detectives who were on the trail of the Queen City robbers. Yesterday these men, accompanied by officials of the wrecked bank arrived at Moravia and though they quizzed the prisoners they could get nothing on which to hang an excuse for holding them longer.

Had Signals. The suspects professed not to know each other but it was noticed by the officers that when they were being taken to jail, they signalled to each other, evidently using a code which had been pre-arranged and though it is reasonable to suppose that they were connected with the Queen City robbery there was no way to prove it and they were released.

The Hilton Robbery. Early yesterday, Marshal Buckmaster was awakened from his slumbers and notified that the company store at Hilton had been robbed during the night. Immediately the officer remembered that the five suspects, directly after their release, had started out of Moravia in the direction of Hilton. The Moravia blood hounds, in charge of their trainer, C. D. Anderson, of this city, were sent at once to Hilton and there put on the track of the robbers of the store.

Surprise at Foster. The scent was fresh and the animals lost little time in reaching Foster, where, instead of tracing the five suspects who had been in Moravia, as all the officers behind them thought they would do, they went direct to the home of a negro miner in Foster, who, with his companions, was arrested on the charge of committing the Hilton robbery. Indications are that the black men are the guilty parties and the supposed Queen City bank robbers are still at large.

Meanwhile the Moravia officers are wondering what they would have done with the reward offered for the bank robbers if the men had been held. They firmly believe that their prisoners are the men wanted.

The attorneys for Dan Murphy the Clinton business man convicted of robbery have filed a motion for a new trial.

D. J. Pattee, a Perry banker, has offered that city twenty acres of ground on Saturday. See them in the "Window." Grand Union Tea Co.

SOCIALISTS ACTIVE ARE ENTHUSIASTIC

PARTY IN WAPELLO COUNTY ISSUES A DESCRIPTIVE LEAFLET. GIVES TICKET AND PARTY PLATFORM

Five Ottumwans on the Ticket and Two Residents of Keb Are Up for Office—Party is Making a Strong Campaign in This County.

The socialists of Wapello county have been more active than usual during this campaign. A circular has just been issued giving the names of the candidates and also giving the platform in full upon which they are running. The candidates are as follows: Representative—Walter C. Minnick, of Ottumwa. Sheriff—James Nevin of Keb. Treasurer—Leroy Christie of Ottumwa.

Member board of supervisors—E. G. Morrow of Ottumwa. Superintendent of schools—M. C. Morrow, of Ottumwa. Coroner—Miles Martin, of Keb. Surveyor—Albert Gillett, of Ottumwa.

The Platform. The following is the socialist party platform of Wapello County: "The socialist party is the American expression of the international movement for better modern workers' conditions, for better homes, sufficient sleep, more leisure, more education and more culture. Those who work with hand and brain are the producers of all wealth, but as laws are now made in the interest of property and the men who own property, the rights of the workers are ignored, although they are in the great majority."

"Electricity, steam and modern inventions have struck the death blow at production on a small scale. Production on the largest scale makes monopoly a necessary condition. Monopoly is here, whether we wish it or not."

"The question is whether it shall be public or private monopoly. The socialist party demands that the production of this country shall be taken away from the control of a small number of irresponsible men and placed in the hands of the people for the benefit of our endurance."

"The republican and the democratic parties and all sorts of reformers and anti-socialists have explained to us a dishonest bid for votes when they promise to annihilate the trusts by law. These parties are powerless against the trusts because they cannot oppose property rights of corporations. These rights are more sacred to them than the rights of man; but, alarmed by the growing strength of the socialist party, they are trying to use phrases that sound 'socialistic' to them, yet none of them dare attack the only vital point in the present economic system, the ownership of the means of production and distribution."

"The trust question is a national question, but in state affairs it is a local question that will bring more wealth, more culture and more safety to the masses of the people. The socialist party demands that the government for cities, in a just and equitable taxation, and in the highest development of a reasonable public service. We also demand that the government should protect the life and limb in factories and mines, the public ownership of public utilities as a fact and not as a mere phrase, and protection against the trusts in every industry, not as a charity, but as a right. If we get the political power in this state we will carry these and other social reforms."

But we call attention to the fact that the measures we urge are in no way a cure all for the existing evils, nor are they all socialist in nature. They are to be viewed rather as mere palliatives of this kind. The people should move onward to the conquest of all public powers, to an entire change of the present system of government, which will secure to the people collectively the blessings of our modern inventions and a standard of civilization and culture hitherto unknown in this country."

"With this in view the socialist party of Wapello county, in convention assembled, reaffirms its allegiance to the platform of international socialism and declares its adherence to the platform adopted at the convention in Indianapolis and in the following: Our Demands for the Present Time.

"That the state legislature, the governor and our representatives in congress shall take such action as is calculated to bring about the nationalization of all the trusts, notably the coal trust, the meat trust, the oil trust, the sugar trust, the farming machinery trust, and others of the same kind and pay the actual value for the same."

"That the state legislature, the governor and our representatives in congress shall take such action as will result in making an end to government by injunction. We also demand that all elective offices, the judges included, shall be made subject to the imperative mandate, and to recall by the expressed wish of three-fourths of their constituency."

"That the state shall issue the school books and school utensils to the pupils of the public schools, who shall under certain conditions make demand for the same books. We also demand legislation enabling school districts in the country to give better school facilities and free transportation to and from school for the children."

"That laws be enacted limiting the working day of youths under 21 years of age and women of any age employed anywhere in Wapello county to eight hours a day, and prohibiting the employment in any factory, store, workshop or mine, of children under sixteen years of age."

"That laws be enacted securing to cities local autonomy with power to carry into effect all measures relating to their own welfare, so long as they do not interfere with the rights of others."

"That every city or township shall have the right to establish a public coal yard, and a public ice house, where coal and wood and ice shall be sold to the citizens at cost. Cities and townships shall also have the right to establish public abattoirs (slaughter houses) and to issue bonds for that purpose."

"That the demands of the socialist party of Wapello county. We call upon every intelligent voter of this state, regardless of race, nationality or religion, to join the socialist party, vote its ticket, build up its organization, and stand shoulder to shoulder for a better order and a higher civilization. And especially to the economically oppressed we call in the words of the immortal Karl Marx: 'Proletarians of all countries, unite! You have nothing to lose but your chains, and a world to gain!'"

REPUBLICANS OF KEOKUK TOWNSHIP HOLD MEETING.

HEAR SOUND REPUBLICAN DOCTRINE

Hon. A. W. Buchanan, Emil Fecht, Wm. Reece and W. W. Epps Make Interesting and Instructive Addresses—Stephen Wilkin Chairman

Probably in no year except in a presidential canvass has there been a more successful or enthusiastic political meeting held in Keokuk township than the republican meeting last evening at the public school house. Every seat in the building was occupied and every person present listened to the presentation of the political questions of the day with an intense indicative of great interest therein. The protective tariff, the republican policy against which the democrats of Iowa have seen fit to make their fight this fall, was ably discussed and defined to the understanding of all present. State and county affairs were touched briefly by the speakers. The importance of the election this fall and its bearing upon the presidential election was impressed upon the voters of Keokuk township and every indication points to the polling of a good vote at the election next Tuesday.

The meeting was called to order by Chairman John Lewman and Stephen Wilkins was chosen chairman of the meeting. In a few words Chairman Wilkins introduced Hon. A. W. Buchanan, republican candidate for representative in Wapello county.

Mr. Buchanan spoke briefly on state affairs and of the work that has been done by the state legislature since he was first elected to represent Wapello county. Taking up the matter of taxation Mr. Buchanan showed that there had been an increase in the taxable value of farm property of about 17 per cent, while an increase of 20 per cent had been made in the assessable value of the railway property of the state. Mr. Buchanan showed that the greater part of the raise in the taxable value of farm land was seen in the northwestern part of the state, where, during the past few years land has jumped in price from $10 to $40 and $45 per acre. He also spoke of the work of the state legislature in enacting a law giving the executive council power to get the information necessary from the railway, express, telephone and telegraph companies, necessary to form a fair estimate of the value of such property, upon which to determine the taxable value thereof. In this work the legislature fixed a penalty for failure on the part of the said companies to comply with the provisions of the law.

Mr. Buchanan's address explained many of the points in regard to the workings of the legislature that are seldom understood and gave his hearers a comprehensive idea of what has been accomplished during the past few years.

Emil Fecht Speaks. As the second speaker of the evening, Chairman Wilkins introduced Emil Fecht. Mr. Fecht took up the question of protection, which the democrats of Iowa have this year seen fit to attack, and expounded this republican doctrine in a manner that was at once interesting and instructive. While no officers are to be elected this year who will have anything to do with the tariff legislation of the country, yet a vote for that policy this year will have its effect on the election next year.

Made All Countries Prosperous. Touching on the proposition that protection, throughout the history of the world, had made every country prosperous that has availed itself of its advantages, Mr. Fecht said: "In the transition of the human race from the savage to the civilized, history shows that there has been three trends, which people according to their environments have taken. These were, agriculture, herding, fishing and commerce. These three great divisions have many smaller divisions, but it is through these three great channels that the human race has passed out of the state of barbarism. In tracing this development, Mr. Fecht said:

"The free traders say, why not remove the tariff when we have built up an industry so that it can supply the home market? Let us see how this has worked in our history. In 1892 Grover Cleveland was elected to the presidency and he gave the country free trade. We all remember by bitter experience the distress and panic which followed."

Protection to Laborers. Mr. Fecht showed that protection was of great value to the American laborer. Take the millions of immigrants who come to this country annually. They are distributed throughout the growing and busy parts of the country. They assimilate with American citizens, become consumers of American products thereby increasing the home market. The people of the United States want more, more with which to buy and get more of the things of life than do the people of any other country on the globe. It is American progress made possible under the American and republican policy of protection."

Mr. Reece Talks. After dealing with the republican policy of protection briefly William Reece, the next speaker, called the attention of his audience to the county affairs. He said in part: "During the past ten years Wapello county has made great progress. Her interests have increased and the business of the county has expanded in a remarkable manner. During this time the business of the county has been in the hands of the republican party. So careful has been their management of the county's business that the debt of $250,000, when the republicans came into power has been reduced to about $61,000. The expenditures of the county have been increased during the past ten years by reason of the disastrous floods. The work of the board of supervisors has been arduous but so well have its members managed the affairs of the county that they have been enabled to properly meet the increased demands without increasing the tax levy. You voters of Keokuk township will do well to see to it that such men are retained in office and to cast your ballot this fall for J. M. McDroy for supervisor."

County Candidates. Mr. Reece briefly referred to the candidates of the republican party for county offices. He spoke in glowing terms of the faithful and efficient service heretofore rendered and that this

It is seen that those countries where the people have been induced by protection to engage in activities outside their first trend they have advanced with great strides that have enabled them to completely outdistance those nations not so protected.

Still in First Trend. "Today demonstrations of this fact may be seen. Take for instance, the Argentine republic in South America. That country more favored as to climate and having more arable wheat land than the United States has still remained in its first trend. There is not a wagon factory to be found in that country, in fact in no line of activity has been opened up with the exception of agriculture and herding. The people must depend on imports for all articles of manufacture, wagons, plows and so on. And what is the condition of the people of that country? Labor is paid from 15 to 19 cents per day. They have stayed by their first trend.

Protection a Government Function. "Your Andrew Jackson and Thomas Jefferson democrats say that it is not a function of the government to protect that it is the government's business to maintain peace and possibly exercise some judicial power. There is now no citizen of the United States who does not believe that it is proper for the government to have charge of the mail service. It is now conceded that it is a function of the government to protect itself from illiteracy by providing public schools for the education of its young. So it is coming more and more to be realized by the most advanced persons that the government should by protective means give to its citizens every possible advantage in all lines of activity.

Two Classes of Goods. "For the purpose of protection there are two classes of goods. First that class of goods which we can develop. Second, that class of goods, which for climatic or other reasons, we cannot develop. On the last class the protectionist says there should be no tariff, but on the first class there should be a tariff placed sufficiently high so as to enable the people of this country to produce these goods and take care of our own market. Mr. Fecht took as an instance the lead pencil.

"In 1858 the only pencils to be bought in the United States were those made by A. W. Faber in Germany which cost 10 cents each. When in 1861 congress put a protective tariff of sixty per cent on lead pencils, factories were started and in a short time our market was supplied by pencils made at home. What has been the result as to price. Today we can get a good grade of pencils for 10 cents per dozen, while a pencil costing 10 cents in 1858 can now be bought for 3 and 5 cents.

Free Trade Disastrous. "But the free traders say, why not remove the tariff when we have built up an industry so that it can supply the home market? Let us see how this has worked in our history. In 1892 Grover Cleveland was elected to the presidency and he gave the country free trade. We all remember by bitter experience the distress and panic which followed."
