From Saturday's Daily. Judgments aggregating $46,000 were rendered about 11 o'clock this morning in the Wapello county district court by Judge Robert Sloan, in the famous Ottumwa Loan and Building association case, which has occupied practically the whole time of the court since the opening of the March term and in which the opinion in favor of the receiver of the association was recently delivered. Receiver W. H. H. Asbury, for the defunct association, has been instructed to proceed at once to the collection of the individual judgments.

Term Finally Ends. As soon as the decree was signed Judge Sloan dismissed court sine die and the March term of the Wapello county district court came to an end after eighty-two days of hard and unremitting work on the part of Judge Sloan, the court officials and the attorneys concerned in the Loan and Building association case.

The Final Decision. The decree rendered today is based upon the opinion delivered by Judge Sloan about two weeks ago. Since that time each individual shareholder's account has been taken up and considered by the judge and attorneys. The records of the association in that individual's case have been gone through thoroughly, the computations, according to the opinion rendered, have been carefully and accurately made up and the judgment now rendered is the final decree of the court.

Two Hundred Judgments. The final list contains nearly 200 names against whom decrees have been rendered in various amounts. These amounts have been divided into two funds called primary and secondary funds, according to the opinion previously rendered. The primary fund is first called to be collected and used for the payment of the indebtedness of the association. If this fund does not pay off the entire amount of this indebtedness then what is lacking is to be made up pro rata by those who are liable for the secondary fund. The amounts given in the secondary column of the list below shows the maximum amount for which each individual is responsible in this fund.

How Funds Are Created. The basis upon which these two funds are created is as follows: All stockholders, excepting those who withdrew their stock according to the rules of the association, are held liable for the indebtedness of the association according to the amount of stock which they held. No shares properly withdrawn are held liable. Shares issued and matured before insolvency are held liable in a different degree than those shares matured during insolvency.

Insolvency is found to have taken place during the year 1898, in which series "K" of the stock was issued. Upon all shares matured previous to and including series "K" shareholders are allowed the principal which they paid into the association with interest while their money was in the hands of the association at ten per cent previous to 1891, and after that time with interest at nine per cent. All money which, at the time of their settlement with the association, they received over that amount, must be repaid to the association together with interest on this amount of overpayment at the rate of six per cent per annum up to June 30 of the present year. The total of these amounts constitute the first or primary fund.

The secondary fund is to be secured from shareholders maturing shares or withdrawing profits after insolvency took place in 1898. Only profits withdrawn are liable. Shareholders who paid money into the association become creditors equal with all other creditors and the amounts of their payments are the part of the liability of the association. In series "K" and "L" and "M" shares are liable under the first fund and shareholders who matured stock in them are liable for the amount of profit which they drew over and above what is charged against them under the first fund. There were but few settlements in series "N", "O" and "P" and but few holding shares in these series have judgments rendered against them. There is no profit allowed for series "R" and "S" and shareholders in these series are creditors of the association to the amount of their payments.

The Judgments. Many of the amounts for which decrees have been rendered are secured by mortgages and in the following list the accounts so affected are marked with stars. The names of persons against whom decrees were rendered this morning with the amounts for which the person is liable in both primary and secondary funds is as follows:

Primary. Secondary
George Haw $327.00 $ 46.00

A CLEVER GRAFTER

A YOUNG WOMAN DRIVES THROUGH COUNTRY AND PREYS UPON FARMERS.

Sells Hair Tonic - Secures Hair Combs and Eggs on Promises to Pay at Later Date - Disappears and is Never Heard From.

Wives of Wapello county farmers will do well to spurn the delusive story of a bright young woman who drives through the country selling hair tonic, taking hair combs of which she promises to make switches and buying eggs for which she promises to pay at a later date. She is a fraud. The following is the story that comes from Waterloo:

A Clever Grafter.

Wives of many farmers have, during the past month, been victims of a smooth lady grafter, who, during her stay in the county, cleared up several hundred dollars by her scheme, which is a new one in these parts.

"The lady with a little daughter stopped at a prominent boarding house in the city and daily with her child drove through the country selling hair tonic to the farm ladies. After having sold them a bottle of worthless hair tonic for a dollar, she would ask if they had any of their combs. This necessary accompaniment to every woman's toilet was then taken by the lady, to be brought to her rooms in this city and made into a fine switch that would make the farm wife have twice the amount of hair that she naturally had. After securing the hair combs she stated that she was doing light housekeeping in the city and would like about five dozen eggs. The eggs would pay for the making of the switch, she stated. After selling the tonic, securing the valuable hair combs and five or six dozen eggs, for which she had a case under the seat of her buggy, the lady would leave with a promise to return the switch and pay for the eggs in about two weeks. That was the last seen of her at that farm house.

"This combination of grafts she worked at hundreds of farm houses. The hair combs the lady shipped to Chicago, where they were sold for high prices, while the eggs were sold to local grocers at highest market prices. Not until yesterday was her rgraft found out, and then it was too late, for she had left the city on an early morning train without giving her next stopping place. Incidentally she left many accounts, including a board bill in the city.

"The lady with her smooth combination is a new one to the police of this country. She doubtless made hundreds of dollars, as eggs are now high priced, the tonic is made of colored water, and the hair combs are worth much money in hair dressing and switch making establishments."
