SPEED BOYS ARE BACK IN FORM

CAPTURE TWO WINS FROM KEWANEE AND DELIGHT 1,160 BUGS THEREBY.

SPORT GALORE SHOWN

Dunn and Pressy Have Hard Tussle in First. With Best Hitters on Former's Side—Noe Was Blinked Right Plenty in No. 2.

The speed boys hustled back into old time form Sunday during the afternoon period and aside from riveting a few boiler-makers more securely to the bottom of the heap proceeded to walk up a little on the slight lead Hannibal has been enjoying during the off-season of the Eganagins. The first meeting went to the native sons, 5 to 4, and it was a tussle that was indeed worth while. The second endeavor of the athletes demonstrated that Ottumwa should have won at least half of being defeated 6 out of 8. The speed boys made an even dozen runs in the concluding game, while Kewanee rushed home twice.

During the double bill, there was indeed a quantity to amuse the home folks. Particularly noticeable in the first was the field maneuvering of James Johnston, Hank Severid and Emergetis Ochs the latter being the new cavorite who resides down third avenue. Flemming, too, for the enemy, was some pumpkins in the same territory. Rabbit Russell monopolized the largest part of the attention in the second by his great fielding and by his exhibition of dumb playing, the latter quality being repaid by his being benched in the second. The infield operators of the natives gave Bill Yaeger a hearty welcome to their midst by working a la Elgin, making no less than three double plays and nary a boot.

Another avenue of amusement, and perhaps the most important, was the healthy connections made by the speed boys. In the first Borton topped the heap with a homer and a double. Senno, Kensel and Ochs also abused the ball for the half way distance. In the second, Dan Senno started the extra-base bombardment, driving in three runs in the initial inning. Jimmie Johnston went Daniel one better in the sixth, when he hoisted the leather over the left garden wall and four scores resulted. Eight of the fourteen smacks in pastime No. 2 were for extra-bases.

This Tells of No. 1. Overaker opened the game with a gentle rap to center, and went to third when Borton failed to squeeze a fling of Dunn's to catch the runner napping. Borton also used his own good time about returning the ball. When Blake singled to center, of course Overaker registered. Doubles to right and left fields in No. 2 by Mason and Pressy, netted Kewanee's second score. Senno, Ochs and Borton, however, conspired to even the tallies, and this was done in short order. Dan started with a double to left, and Ochs nobly died as a sacrifice. Borton then realized that it was up to him to redeem his listless work in the first inning, and the said redeeming action was to send the hide over right field fence for the circuit. Hits by Flemming and Langdon, Lewis' sacrifice and Blake's out in the third, gave Kewanee another score, but Kersel tied it up in the fifth by doing and left going to third when Russell beat out a bunt down third base line and scoring when Lewis' return of Severid's vicious grounder was a second too late. Ottumwa won the game in the seventh, which Kensel opened with a walk. Russell sacrificed and Lewis made a Borneo peg to first when Sev. sent the ball to the short field. Kensel scored on the misplay and Severid perched on second. Johnston's stinging double to left field gave Severid a tie to register and he did. James Dunn performed five innings without a hit or run and then Ahring reached the joy plate in the ninth on his double. Connors out at first and Mason's rap to right. The genial boss of them all, Mr. Jerry Edinger, then announced to the multitude that ten minutes would elapse before the second game. The elapsing time was spent in social conversation, during which the merits and demerits of the athletics were discussed pur and com.

Second Game and Its Contents. Jeff Noe was not equal to the task of stopping the speed boys in the second mix, while Jaeger, the Keokuk castoff, worked like he wanted the job Ned offered mightily badly. He won his game, got the job, and is now able to smile again. Jaeg allowed hits in the first, second and fifth with no results. Senno dropped Blake's fly in the seventh, Ahring followed with a triple, and Connors singled, netting two runs. Again in the eighth Jaeg allowed a hit and in the ninth, Blake and Ahring again hit, but a double with Johnston, Kense and Borton in operation nullified the game. While Jaeg was doing such a reasonably good job of flogging, his mates were giving him most encouraging support, not only in the field but at bat. Kensel opened the first with a walk, and Russell sacrificed. Severid followed with a hit. Johnston was there with a tap to left and Tay tallied. Senno

North Marion street left this morning on Burlington No. 3 for Omaha for a several weeks' visit with relatives. Mrs. Ellen Nordley of Albia visited in the city this morning enroute to Bear Creek to visit relatives. Miss Leach Clark and brother Homer, 1925 West Main street, departed this morning for Durfee to visit their uncle, William A. Myers. J. Abegg of Blakesburg has accepted a position in the Ottumwa National bank.

It does seem too bad that a great many owners of cream separators will begrudge a few dollars for repairs on a machine that runs every day, while on a mower or blinder that only runs a few days each year the owners buy repairs freely. FAMILY REUNION AT COUNTY LINE PUMPHREY HOME IS SCENE OF AN UNUSUAL BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION. At the old family home of S. C. Pumphrey near County Line, Iowa, Saturday, July 23, occurred the nineteenth birthday anniversary of the head of a family of seventy-five-six children, twenty-four grandchildren and twenty-six great grandchildren. Of this number five children, sixteen grandchildren and 14 great-grandchildren were present on this occasion. Forty-nine relatives and friends sat down to a long table loaded with good things. Serena Cromwell Pumphrey was born in Knox county, Ohio, July 24, 1820. When eight years old he moved with his parents to Lincoln county, Ohio, where he resided over this year old. He came to Iowa in 1844, spending the first winter in Van Buren county. April 26, 1845 he settled in Jefferson county on the farm which has been his home continuously since. In 1846 he built the commodious farm house which has been the center of hospitality of that prosperous farming community for over forty years. This house was built at a time when material was of the best, and today, after forty years of use by a large family, the hand made doors, etc., swing as free and true as the day they were put in place. In 1848 Mr. Pumphrey was married to Nancy Derby in Ohio, who died the following year in Iowa. To this union was born one son. May 18, 1848, he married Elizabeth Wright the slip of a girl that was destined to spend more years than the average life presiding over this household. May 18, 1888, they celebrated their golden wedding. Mrs. Pumphrey passed to her reward Thanksgiving 1903. Nine children were born to them, five of whom survive. Mr. Pumphrey joined the Methodist church when 40 years old and has been an industrious worker in that denomination for fifty years. Politically he was a know-nothing, later being among the first to join the republican party when organized. His farm was headquarters for the Grange movement at the time when Grange counted for something. In the early days, before the dreams of railroad promoters were realized, Mr. Pumphrey drove freight wagons between Keokuk and the then Fort Des Moines, and the stories of hardship as well as many comical situations encountered while on these trips would make a good piece of historical literature.
