THE TARIFF IS THE BIG FEATURE

CONGRESSMAN N. E. KENDALL REVIEWS ACCOMPLISHMENTS OF REPUBLICAN PARTY.

AGENCY VOTERS ALIVE

Immense Throng of Citizens From Nearby Towns and Vicinity Attend Enthusiastic Meeting.

The tariff and its effect upon the Iowa farmer and laboring man and the record of accomplishments of the republican party as compared to democracy's repeated failures were subjects discussed by Hon. N. E. Kendall, republican candidate to succeed himself as congressman from the sixth congressional district, last night at a monster republican meeting in the town hall at Agency. Voters of both political beliefs and many ladies made up the audience that taxed the capacity of the hall, and during his address Congressman Kendall eloquently held his audience keyed to the highest point of interest except for an occasional period when the full force of his arguments struck a responsive chord and vigorous applause prevailed. Particular stress was laid upon the protective tariff as advocated by the republican party and tariff for revenue only, or free trade, Home position party, and the speaker did not fail to impress upon his hearers which of the propositions result in the most benefits to the voter. He reviewed what had been done by the last congress and what would result if the next congress would be republican. His mention of the vast difference in the ability of the republican party to bring prosperity to all voters over the days of disaster and catastrophe which followed democratic rule, thoroughly impressed his hearers. Mr. Kendall concluded his remarks with a word about the splendid county ticket of the republican party and urged the voters to see to it that each candidate is elected.

Makes Announcements. Preliminary to the speech making, the Agency orchestra, composed of Prof. H. B. Wilson, Homer Reynolds and Carl Woodford, delivered a program of delightful numbers. John Springer, committee man of Agency township, opened the meeting at 8 o'clock by introducing Mayor G. L. Nye as chairman. Mr. Nye immediately presented Congressman Kendall, who prefaced his address by announcing the meeting in Ottumwa tonight, when Congressman Kendall, who followed on district, speaks at the Grand and the coming entertainment of the Agency course next Tuesday night in the Agency town hall. The speaker recalled his meeting in Agency two years ago, and said that he would never forget the generosity bestowed upon him by the audience. At the outset, Mr. Kendall declared vehemently that the democratic party had proved itself incapable of handling the government of the United States and he emphasized this point by referring to the period when the followers of Andrew Jackson were in control. The speaker then delved into the tariff question and contrasted the prosperity of the country under the protective tariff with Cleveland's administration, when the factories of the United States were idle. "The republican party was organized in 1854," said Mr. Kendall, "and in the first national platform it provided for a protective tariff. The democratic party has always frowned on this policy, declaring always that it would strike out from the tariff the protective feature. Republican congressmen have protective tariff advocates, while the democratic party has been for the opposite. The fruits of a protective tariff are no better explained than by repeating the words of that great protectionist, Abraham Lincoln, who said, 'If we buy goods abroad, we have the goods, but not the money, but if we buy the goods at home, we have both the goods and the money.'"

"The democratic party stands for buying everywhere, while the republican party demands a protective tariff that the men of this country will have employment at remunerative wages. We have tried both systems, and I want to revive your memory of that period of democratic rule and show you the difference. In 1892 we had a prosperity that had no parallel. Factories were running full time and you farmers were sending a market for all you could produce. The democratic cry was that the tariff was a war tax. The news that Grover Cleveland had been elected with a democratic house and senate had not flashed over the wires a minute until the smoke in the factory chimneys began to subside and then we had four years of times that brought nothing but disaster and catastrophe. The four years of Cleveland are valuable now to the republican party because the democrats are talking fervently for a return of those same deplorable conditions. After we had gone through that period, we had a touch of free silver, but the people listened to that voice from Ohio, which said to open the mills of the country instead of the mints, and when the returns were in, the American people had demanded a change for the better. The house and senate were republican, and gave us the Dingley tariff bill that caused the factory fires to be again kindled and the numerous shafts to issue forth volumes of smoke. Employment was given to those men who just before had suffered idleness and want. I turn to this just to show that the democratic party never has done anything to merit the support of you prosperous farmers and young voters of Agency. The Tariff Commission. "The republican party has no means of ascertaining how high the tariff should be, but we all know that it should be sufficiently high to exclude the cheap labor of the old world. We want the tariff high enough to protect American labor. Theodore Roosevelt in his St. Louis speech Tuesday said that the republican party is united on the tariff, and following the leadership of President Taft, the ex-president approved of the non-partisan tariff commission to investigate and arrive at the right figure, which will be the difference between the cost of production here and abroad. It will not vote for a reduction of the tariff affecting Iowa people, when the rates affecting the New England states are left alone. The last congress took the tariff off hides, and I with others voted against this measure because I believe the Iowa farmer who goes into his field rain or shine and works unceasingly should be favored. The next republican congress will restore a tariff on hides." At this juncture, Mr. Kendall told of the enactment of the last congress, emphasizing the great amount of good legislation that was written on the statute books. He then referred to the amendment to the rules of the house depriving the speaker of excessive authority previously exercised by him, and making the stuffing of bills in committee impossible in the future. In this connection he told of introducing a bill providing for a pension of $1 per day for all old soldiers, and predicted that at the next sitting of the congress this measure would be made a law. He also stated that the next congress would further alter the rules of the house so that all members of committees would be elective and not appointed by the speaker, and declared that the speaker would not be on any committees.

For All the Ticket. In conclusion, Mr. Kendall read the statement of Governor Carroll in which the standard bearer of the republican party declared that he was going into every district in the state to work for the election of the entire republican ticket. He said that he ranked and filed of the party has realized that in this year the number of candidates that stand for the highest ideals in politics and they are men who are worthy of the support of the voters of the state. Mr. Kendall's very splendid talk was brought to a close with a word about the Wapello county ticket, which he declared to be composed of clean, reputable men, thoroughly capable of handling the duties of the various offices of the entire satisfaction of all the people. C. W. Whitmore, republican candidate for the senate, was called upon by the audience for a few remarks, and he spoke for ten minutes in reference to the party's candidates.

PEOPLE'S PULPIT

The Courier will publish in this column articles contributed by its readers. The communications should be typewritten, or in plain hand on one side of the paper, and signed. Editor, the Courier. Dear Sir: There is a remarkable case of times of deplorable tendency on the part of some individuals to "rush into print" and endeavor to elucidate subjects concerning which they have very little, if any, definite information. This is the case in the instance of F. O. Anderson, who in a recent issue of the Courier makes certain statements with reference to Christian Science, and Dr. Fumot's recent lecture on that subject which are, to say the least, extremely misleading. The abstract statement that "Christian Science opposes the Bible by denying the reality of matter," is one impossible of proof. The "denial of matter" as reality does not constitute opposition to the teachings of scripture, neither does the denial of matter include the denial of the perfect spiritual creation which Christian Scientists understand to be the real and eternal. Many natural scientists define matter as simply "the externalized manifestation of human thought." As Mr. Huxley writes, "After all, what do we know of this terrible matter, except as the name for the unknown hypothetical cause of states of our own consciousness." Christian Science does not teach "We can think our disease away by thinking our body away," but with St. Paul it teaches that the necessity is, "That ye put off the old man with his deeds and put on the new man which after Christ is created in righteousness and true holiness." And again it is stated, "Flesh and blood cannot inherit the kingdom of God." The Bible teaches the possibility of overcoming the discords and diseases of the flesh through "holily uplifting thought." "Be ye therefore transformed by the renewing of your minds." Jesus and His disciples preached and practiced this healing and saving ministry, which is therefore fundamental to the Christian standpoint to attempt to find a scriptural point to content those who are endeavoring earnestly, intelligently and consistently to follow the precepts and example of our Master is inconsistent and inexcusable. It is plainly taught in Christian Science that to the human sense of things, and to that sense only, sin, sickness and death are real, while to a spiritual sense of things, or the sense entertained by Christ Jesus, they become unreal in the scientific apprehension of what reality includes. The best way to overcome sickness, sin and death is clearly pointed out in scripture, and this overcoming includes their complete destruction. No one can overcome sin and sickness simply by "believing there is none," but by knowing what is real and true in the way established by Christ Jesus. The statement that, "Christian Science is pantheism because it denies the personality of God," is incorrect in premise and conclusion. In the first

CAN'T FIND ANY COMFORT

BACKACHE, RHEUMATIC JOINTS AND URIC ACID TROUBLES FOLLOW SICK KIDNEYS.

There's no rest and but little peace for any person whose kidneys are out of order. Not only does backache keep up its dull throb, day and night, but there are sharp twinges, cricks and stitches of darting pain, achy joints, and sore, stiff muscles. The kidneys are likely to get congested and inflamed following a chill, a cold, gripe, fever, the continued use of strong drink, or from overwork, a fall or some injury to the back. Uric acid troubles—rheumatism, neuralgia, nervousness, sciatica, gout, weak eyes, headache, etc., follow rapidly when the weakened kidneys fail to filter the blood free from uric poisons. Sediment—thick and cloudy, or gritty as sand, appears in the urine, and passages are too frequent, too scanty, or painful. There is danger of dropsy, Bright's disease, gravel, stone in the kidneys and diabetes. To cure any of the above described ills, you must get right at the cause. You must get the kidneys into good order by using a good kidney remedy, and there is none better than Doan's.

TOMORROW IS LAST DAY FOR ENTERING CASES FOR THE OCTOBER TERM OF COURT.

Three Divorces, Two Injunctions and One Damage Suit Were Filed With Clerk of District Court. The fact that but another day remains for the filing of causes that may be heard in the district court during the October term has brought an influx of petitions to the office of the clerk of court for filing. Divorces are the feature of the filings. No less than three such causes are among those filed in the past twenty-four hours. Injunction cases that echo the last grand jury sitting when two Blakesburg druggists were being investigated have been filed. These with a damage case in which the colored man who manipulates the automobile on the Fraser hotel from the union depot, is accused of running down a pedestrian near the corner of Main and Washington streets September 5, make up the total of petitions filed. Hall are made defendants in three cases charging illegal selling of liquor at their places of business in Blakesburg. The petitions recite that the defendants have sold liquor as a beverage without requiring the signing of the request by the purchaser. Selling to minors and persons known to become drunk is also charged. The petition asks that the permit be revoked and the injunction be made perpetual. An order from the court fixes
