NUMBER 32

GOV. CARROLL WILL SPEAK IN OTTUMWA SOON

STANDARD BEARER OF REPUBLICAN PARTY WILL ADDRESS VOTERS AT GRAND OPERA HOUSE NEXT THURSDAY EVENING.

Hon. B. F. Carroll, governor of Iowa, and candidate to succeed himself, will speak at the Grand opera house in this city next Thursday evening, October 27 at 8 o'clock. Chairman Lew H. Young this afternoon completed all arrangements for the monster rally. The Fifty-fourth band has been engaged and arrangements are now being made to greet the standard bearer of the republican party with a royal reception on his arrival in the city. Numerous inquiries have come to the republican headquarters asking if Governor Carroll would speak in Ottumwa this fall and from these it is assured that the chief executive will attract an immense audience.

Some time ago Governor Carroll made the statement that he would go out into the state to campaign, and he is already in the thick of a strenuous speaking tour. He sizes up the campaign in this wise:

"The republican party has had great differences in its own ranks in the past and three times it has faced elections with its opponents predicting everywhere that it was doomed to destruction, but each time the grand old party has rallied to the standard, and each time has emerged more glorious than before. One trouble with the republican party right now is that each faction views the other faction with suspicion. There is a feeling that the other fellow is going to 'cut' your candidate at the polls, and you threaten him that if he does not vote for your man, you will not vote for his. Now, we must work to eliminate that feeling. What we want to do is to get out, every one of us, and say to the men of the other faction: 'I am going to vote for your man because he is the republican nominee and stands for all the principles of the republican party. I intend to vote for my man as he, too, is the republican nominee and stands for all the principles of the republican party.' I intend to go into every district in the state which the democratic party confidently expects to carry and there I intend to do everything in my power to bring about the election of the republican nominee. The time has come when we must forget party differences. It is all right for two generals of an army to have differences between themselves when there is no foe in sight, but when the guns of a common enemy are trained upon them, they must cease their quarrel and present a united front. And that is what the republicans of Iowa must do. I want to say that every republican should get out and work for the success of the party and in November should vote for the entire ticket from top to bottom."

CHAIRMAN REED MAKES PROPOSITION IN LETTER TO CHAIRMAN FRANKE.

Des Moines, Oct. 21.—(Special)—Chairman N. F. Reed of the democratic state central committee has written a letter to Chairman Carl Franke, of the republican state central committee, suggesting that a state wide primary be held to select Dooliver's successor. Reed proposes that the two state central committees agree to have extra ballot boxes in every polling place on election day and that every voter cast his ballot for his choice for senator, and that the legislature be bound by this action. The democrats offer to pay half of the expense. Reed calls attention to the fact that both parties in their platform endorse the selection of senators by the people. If the central committee refuses this offer, he urges Governor Carroll to call a special session of the legislature at once to amend the law that a legal primary can be held on election day. Judge Wade is said to have suggested the writing of this letter.

CRIPPEN CASE MAY BE CLOSED BY TOMORROW

DEFENSE RESTS TODAY AND STATE WILL FINISH IN A DAY; DAMAGING ADMISSIONS MADE BY THE DEFENDANT.

London, Oct. 21.—Dr. Crippen's cross examination opened today. He said he had not seen his wife since February 1, and could not prove she left his house alive, but supposed she had gone to Chicago. He found his wife missing when he returned home in the evening, but made no inquiries as to her whereabouts. He admitted that Miss Leneve had slept in the house the night of February 2, within two hours after his wife had disappeared. It was at his suggestion, he admitted, that she disguised herself and sailed for Canada with him.

The defense in the Crippen case rested today with the summing up address by Counsel Tobin. The prosecution closes tomorrow morning after which the case will go to the jury. A verdict is expected tomorrow afternoon.

Under the tactful guidance of his counsel Crippen gave a sketch of his career. He had studied the theories, but had not taken a practical course in surgery. He had performed a post-mortem.

The drugs which he had purchased in England, he explained, were wholly for his own preparations. The prisoner admitted that there was a scar on the body of his wife, four and a half inches in length. It was caused, he said, by an operation twelve years ago. He had never administered hyoscin to his wife. He had no idea whose was the body unearthed in the cellar of his Hilldrop crescent home. In fact, he was not aware that a body had been buried there until he returned to England under arrest.

Crippen told of the gradual alienation of his wife's affections, until the climax was reached in a quarrel on the night of January 31, last. His wife, he said, had accused him of a lack of attention to Mr. and Mrs. Martineau, who had spent the evening with them. They quarreled and on the following day his wife went away. He bore out his counsel's statement of an alleged plot which he had formed to escape from the steamer Montrose.

He said the quartermaster had told him the captain had recognized him and Miss Leneve and that he was to be arrested when the steamer landed.

The quartermaster offered to make an splash in the water during the night when Crippen was to pretend to commit suicide. The quartermaster had told him there was no charge against Miss Leneve, and he planned to separate from her for a time, but left his proposed address in America so that she might join him later.
