THE NECESSITY OF REGISTERING

Des Moines, Oct. 24.—Realizing that it will be impossible to poll a heavy vote on November 8 unless all the electors are registered, the republican state central committee this week is urging its workers in all parts of Iowa to have the men who are eligible to vote go before the registration boards and make sure they are properly registered. The boards will be in session Wednesday and Thursday of this week and also November 5.

Because there are so many possibilities of mistakes being made in copying the names of those who registered and voted at the previous election, it is considered imperative that every voter ascertain for himself that he is properly qualified. If this is done there will be no possibility of any man entitled to a vote being denied that privilege on election day.

As far as the registration is concerned, it is only in cities of over 3,500 inhabitants that the voters must register on one of the three days before election. In the smaller towns and country precincts registration is confined to election day. In the city, however, the only voters who can register on election day are those who were out of the city on all of the other three days.

Those who registered and voted at the last general election or any election since then, except in the party primary, and have not moved, need not register anew for this election. All others must register. The exception is made of the primary because registration is not required for that. The law requires that the registry boards in making up new registration books and this fall must copy from the old poll books the names of all those who registered and voted but only those. The names of those who registered but did not vote will not be copied. To qualify they must register again. Many people do not understand that when they move from one precinct to another they must register again. There are so many things which are apt to disqualify a voter that the only plan is for the voter to call at his precinct place of registration and see that his name is on the new registration books. If it does not appear, he must register.

DIES VERY SUDDENLY

EICHELBERGER ASSIGNS CASES

OPENING OF DISTRICT COURT THIS MORNING GIVEN OVER TO ASSIGNMENTS.

The assignment of law cases took up most of the morning in the district court where Judge F. W. Eichelberger is presiding over the October term, which was begun today. The grand jury was summoned for this afternoon, and after being empanelled began its task of probing into criminal matters. The petit jury does not appear until the second Monday of the term. In charging the grand jury the court stated that there are no prisoners in jail nor any out on bail, and that the work of the grand jury would in all probability be very light. "This," said he, "is unusual for this county." Sylvanus De Hart and his two minor children, measures for the taking of whom from their father are on file in the court, were present in the court room this afternoon. Mrs. Katherine Haw, the complaining witness, was also present, and late in the afternoon the question of the disposition of the children will be decided by the court. De Hart is said by the complainant to be unfit to care properly for the children, and it is sought to have them placed in the American Home Finding association's home.

Grand Jurymen James W. Reed was excused from service this term upon stating to the court that he is a candidate and needed time for electioneering. The grand jury empanelled consists of: U. S. Hawthorne, foreman; S. Yochum, Amos Proctor, Moses K. Leonard, S. Wittenmyer, J. W. Parks and John Connelly.

the jury box. The case went to the jury at 6:30 p. m. after a few moments deliberation they brought in a verdict of guilty. His honor assessed a $100 fine and costs. Immediately after the trial U. S. Marshal Bidwell took Van Berge to Des Moines to answer to answer to Uncle Sam for selling fire water without a license. Visser was placed on trial Monday and a verdict of guilty as charged was brought in by the jury. He drew $100 and costs. His case was before G. Vanlet, justice of the peace. The third member of the trio pleaded guilty and drew $50 and the last two named are under bonds to appear before the federal grand jury which meets next month.
