CHUNKS RULE HIGH.

Stock Yards, Chicago, Nov. 9.—The trade is irregular in prices and demand for commercial classes. The few lots of heavy drafters in the breeding district on special feed for the eastern markets when offered bring out keen competition and sell at extravagant prices, the range being above the average quotation for good to choice regular grades. The class of offerings are taken by eastern sales stables on special orders placed principally by the large brewery firms who own the finest drafters in New York. Good commercial draft chunks coming toward in liberal volume and selling around $175@220 and upward, while the specially fed lots are negotiated at $250@275 and upward, according to the weight, quality and finish of the offerings and the urgency of special orders. Medium-weight chunks of farm classes are being rushed to market in liberal receipts, but such lots are out of season grades, and as a whole are selling below country cost. There is broad inquiry for light stearns at $60@125 and a fair demand for drivers at $150@350. Receipts for two days this week total 755 horses against 657 for the same period last week and 1,073 for the corresponding interval a year ago. The tone of trade is nominally steady at the following auction prices:

Range wethers, plain to fancy	3.50@4.15
Stables	3.85@4.25
Yearlings, fair to choice	4.25@5.15

TODAY'S MARKET NEWS

PAULINE WAYNE AT WHITE HOUSE

ROYAL MILKER PRESENTS ADMINISTRATION WITH A BULL CALF.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 9.—Pauline Wayne, the white house cow yesterday afternoon presented the administration with a bull calf. At the white house it was declared that the event was without political significance. It was said that President Taft will name the animal "Governor Stimson" and that the president will make it a present to a newspaper man who will name it "Big Bill."

Pauline Wayne, the Wisconsin milker, has arrived at the white house and taken her place among the exclusive society world of the nation. Her bovine majesty has accepted the task of supplying the executive family with fancy milk and cream without the slightest embarrassment. She wanders about the spacious lawns of the white house grounds, cropping the luxuriant growth and gazing placidly upon the crowds of curious who flock to see the new member of the family.

She enjoys the distinction of being the only cow allowed in the city, and is exempt from the regulations requiring the tuberculin test for all dairy cows. Pauline is the official executive mansion cow and is carrying off the honor without pomp or egotism, apparently.

The arrival of no new cabinet member or foreign potentate has ever been attended with more interest than Mrs. Wayne's invasion of the capital. Scores of residents have gone to the white house lot to see Pauline in her new home, and she has been the object of much admiration. The homage she is receiving rests gracefully upon her sturdy shoulders. Not so much as by a look or a "moo" has she declined to notice the flattering attention showered on her.

Pauline is the gift of Senator Isaac Stephenson to President Taft. She made the journey from Kenosha, Wis., without injury to her pampered feelings. She comes from royal stock. Without further ado she set upon her task of being the milk producer of the white house, and members of the president's household say she has done her work so well that her job will never be in jeopardy.

CATTLE DEMAND WEAK.

Stock Yards, Chicago, Nov. 9.—Only pack Tuesday's arrivals found sale, and these went at Monday's 10@15c decline, compared with last week's closing. Most of the good beefs which were among the day's receipts were offered for the Wednesday market, together with a liberal crop, which landed in the yards too late for the Monday session. Packers were short, but since they had a fairly full stock from the big purchases of Monday, and Eastern shippers, reporting a bad beef market at the seaboard, were equally indifferent toward all steers offered. Best which went at $7.15, but there were few above $4.15, and bulk of common to fair killers sold at $4.50@5.75. A supply of 500 western range steers moved slowly at unchanged rates, bulk making $4.80@5.35.

HOGS DROP AGAIN.

General Market Forced 10@25c Below Monday Basis on Lib. Stock Supply. Stock Yards, Chicago, Nov. 9.—Receipts of hogs were estimated at 24,000, or a third more than the trade expected. There was a big run of light weights, while heavy were scarce than usual for Tuesday. Barring a few early sales which were only 5c lower the market settled down to a decline of 10@25c, compared with Monday morning's quotations. The average at $9.37 was 3 higher than previous Tuesday which was lowest day since November. The range of prices was narrowest in several months, few selling above $15 and not below $7.50. Dr. Benj. E. Strickler, the famous chronic disease specialist, whose suite of consultation and examination rooms are located on second floor, 105 South Market street, is treating a very large number of women for diseases peculiar to the sex.
Dr. Strickler does not and will not use the knife in any of his treatments, relying entirely on nature and his special remedies to perform his cures.
Dr. Strickler is treating many women for many different chronic diseases. Women who have been advised by their physicians to submit to a surgical operation should not undertake one unless necessary and should not be resorted to by suffering women until after consulting a specialist.
Many diseases, such as gall stones, for instance, can be cured without an operation, and Dr. Strickler has many testimonials from women patients who speak very highly of his cures and treatments.
Dr. Benj. E. Strickler is one of the oldest chronic disease specialists in Iowa. He does not take incurable cases. His examination, consultation and advice are free to all.
