

FALL SUPREME COURT TERM TO END BIG CASES

Business World Particularly Interested in Several Important Matters; Kansas Electors' Case Up.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 16.—The supreme court will begin its fall term with the consideration of many important cases.

Already twenty-one cases of unusual consequence have been set for hearing October 14, the opening day. To this probably will be added the Kansas election case, which involves the right of Roosevelt electors to remain on the republican ticket. The business world is said to be particularly interested in the second argument of the cotton corner case and the intermountain rate cases, both on the argument for re-argument early in the term. The cotton corner case arises over the validity of indictments against James A. Patten and others, on a charge of conspiring to corner the market on the New York cotton exchange in 1910 with a ten million dollar profit in view. The court must decide whether "running a corner" is prohibited by the Sherman anti-trust law.

The intermountain rate cases involve the validity of the orders of the interstate commerce commission, limiting the amount by which rates from eastern cities to intermountain cities may exceed rates on the longer haul to Pacific coast cities.

The bath tub trust suit will call for a determination of the relation of the Sherman anti-trust law to the patent statutes. The government seeks to dissolve an alleged illegal combination of enameled ironware manufacturers. The principal question is whether the owner of a patent on an unpatented article, such as a bathtub, may be a process of licensing all manufacturers to use the patented tool, fix the prices and terms under which the tub may be sold wholesale and retail, regardless of the Sherman law.

The Louisville & Nashville rate case indirectly the basis for one of the charges of impeachment of Judge Archibald of the commerce court, will attract attention because it involves the power of the commerce court to weigh evidence presented to the interstate commerce commission.

Litigation involving the jurisdiction of the interstate commerce commission over railroads in stock yards, such as those at Chicago, and the power of the commission to compel railroads to grant switching facilities to interurban electric roads, also will be taken up without delay.

The question of the application of the interstate commerce laws, particularly the Carmack amendment to attempts of railroads to limit their liability for loss of freight and the enforcement of state laws declaring void bills of lading limiting liability, will be threshed out in several similar cases.

Many men refused to go to work today at Harland & Wolfe's plant and only a few Catholics are working at the other yard, as the manager last week advised against their return to work on account of the feeling shown by the Protestants against them.

The military, which has been confined to barracks since Saturday's disturbances when sixty persons were seriously injured in a fierce fight waged on the Celtic park football grounds, was ordered today to keep the peace.

THE HARVESTER DISSOLUTION CASE OPENED

Hearing of Evidence in Case to Dissolve Big Corporation Begun by the Government.

Chicago, Sept. 16.—Taking of testimony of the government suit to dissolve the International Harvester Co., which as a $140,000,000 corporation is charged with existing in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law, was begun today before Special Examiner Robert S. Taylor with General Manager Clarence Funk the first witness. Mr. Funk appeared with books and documents containing record of the company's business.

Edwin P. Groserenor, special assistant to the attorney general, appeared for the government. He announced that the Chicago hearing is one of a number to be held in various cities. The defendants include Geo. W. Perkins, Cyrus H. McCormick, Elbert H. Gary, president of the steel corporation, Geo. F. Baker, Norman B. Ream, Charles Deering and Harold F. McCormick.

The filing of the suit was determined upon after the department of justice and the company had failed to agree on a plan to dissolve without litigation by dividing the corporation's property among new companies as was done in the tobacco corporation dissolution.

The government charges that the corporation by combining the five largest agricultural implement manufacturers in 1902 created a trust and monopolized at that time 85 to 90 per cent of the trade. Mr. Funk testified that prior to the combination of the large harvester companies in 1902 they all were active competitors. Upon the combination the general agencies of all the companies were turned over to the new organization he said.

The products of the present company, Mr. Funk asserted, were sold to the farmers through jobbers in the Pacific coast states and through general agents in other states. All excepting the Pacific coast states he said, were divided into five districts, the central district being northern Illinois, northern Indiana and eastern Iowa.

Armorillo, Texas, Sept. 16.—Al G. Boyce, Jr., was shot and killed here Saturday night by J. B. Sneed, whose wife Boyce eloped to Canada last fall.

Sneed was at large under bond to stand trial for killing Boyce's father in Ft. Worth last January as a result of the elopement. Boyce had just returned to this city. Sneed's presence here was not known. Boyce was on a principal business street walking downtown when he was halted by a bearded, rough looking man who proved to be Sneed. Without a word, as soon as Boyce turned, Sneed emptied both barrels of a sawed-off shotgun loaded with buckshot into him.

Twenty of the bullets took effect in Boyce's side and he fell dead on the spot. Sneed gave himself up but refused to make a statement. He was held for the grand jury, which meets today.

Boyce and his wife were married in the disappearance of Mrs. Sneed from a Fort Worth sanitarium last fall was followed a month later by her detention with Boyce in Winnipeg, Manitoba. Mutual friends brought about a reconciliation between the banker and his wife, and Boyce was released from custody after the couple had returned to Fort Worth.

MEMBERS OF ALLEN GANG NOT BETRAYED

Detectives Deny Statement That Maud Iroler Had Knowledge of Being Followed to Des Moines.

Roanoke, Va., Sept. 16.—Maud Iroler did not betray her sweetheart, Wesley Edwards and Sidna Allen, the Hillsville gunmen arrested Saturday in Des Moines, according to Detective Baldwin, who arrived here today with the prisoners. The girl had no knowledge that she was being "shadowed," says Baldwin.

Business in Roanoke was all but stopped by the arrival of the party from the west. There was no demonstration, but a big crowd greeted the prisoners who were locked in the jail.

Captives Not Downcast.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Sept. 16.—Handcuffed, guarded by three stalwart detectives and accompanied by the girl who unconsciously gave the police the clew to their hiding place, Sidna Allen and his nephew, Wesley Edwards, who took part in the shooting up of the court at Hillsville, Va., on March 14 last, arrived here last night from Des Moines on their way back to the scene of the crime.

Their trip to this city from Des Moines, Iowa, where they were captured Sunday, proved uneventful. Chief of Detectives Baldwin stating that the prisoners were ideal in behavior and in far from a dejected frame of mind. With the exception of Miss Maud Iroler, whose love for Wesley Edwards led the detectives to his hiding place, the entire party apparently relished their food, and even the exchanging of jokes was not infrequent on the trip.

Denies Betrayal of Girl.

The younger of the two prisoners, as well as the girl, was solicitous in having the rumor denied that she had deliberately betrayed her sweetheart, Wesley Edwards. Detective Baldwin corroborated their statements and told the story of the events leading up to the capture to prove that the girl was no traitor to her lover.

He stated that when Edwards left Mount Airy, N. C., the girl's home, he had left $50 with her to be used to join him when he was safely hidden. The money was stolen and then replaced, and in this manner Miss Iroler's faith in the story of the events leading up to the capture to prove that the girl was no traitor to her lover.

Due in Roanoke Today. "The remainder was easy," said Baldwin. "We watched her. When she left, these two men, Lucas and Monday, followed her, and I was right behind them on the next train. You know the story of the arrests and that is all there is to it."

The party took supper in this city and left for Roanoke, Va., at 8 o'clock last night over the Norfolk & Western railroad, expecting to arrive there today. With the exception of desiring to correct the statement concerning Miss Iroler, neither Edwards nor Allen would talk last night, confining their conversation to "It's too warm to talk."

Men Pass Through Here.

Heavily manacled and in charge of three detectives and two deputy sheriffs, Sidna Allen and Wesley Edwards, the two mountaineers captured in Des Moines Saturday evening on their way to Hillsville, Va., where they will face trial on the charge of murder. Accompany the prisoners and officers was Miss Maud Iroler, who was instrumental in the capture of the two men. The party left Des Moines at 7 p. m. Saturday, taking the Burlington branch train to Albia, where they were transferred to main line train No. 2. Albia was reached in advance of the coming of the two men and a large crowd of people were at the depot to see the prisoners upon the arrival of the branch train. Only the depot attaches here knew of the presence of the men on No. 2.

NOGI GIVES BODY TO MEDICAL SCHOOL

Tokio, Sept. 16.—The will of the late Emperor, which was published today, suggested that his body be given to a medical college, requesting that only his teeth, hair and nails be buried in the grave. The will says that the general follows the emperor because his services are no longer required in this world. He had often sought to die, he adds, and chooses as the occasion for his departure from this life the present national calamity. The document bears the date of the night of Sept. 12, twenty-four hours previous to the taking of his life, and it indicates that the death of the countess had not been decided upon when the instrument was prepared. It says that while his wife lives the house of Nogi may be maintained, but that after her death the line will be extinct. His wife is also mentioned as a legatee of the property. Donations to friends and several public institutions are made.

LATE FLYING IS DISCONTINUED

DEATH OF AVIATOR GILL AT CHICAGO SATURDAY NIGHT CHANGES PROGRAM.

Chicago, Sept. 16.—Twilight flying was barred today by officials of the Illinois Aero club as a result of the death of Howard Gill, who was killed Saturday in a mid-air collision due partly to the semi-darkness.

A course around the southern limits of the city to Lake Michigan and a dash over the lake to Grant park, was the route selected by twenty-five aviators for their "moving day" trip from the Cicero flying field to Grant park this afternoon. The meet in Grant park will continue for six days.

Aviator Gill Killed. Aviator Howard W. Gill, of Baltimore, Md., was killed on the Cicero aviation field Saturday night. Georges Meatch, of France, whose monoplane collided with Gill's biplane, when they were participating in a race, seventy-five feet in the air, was picked up unconscious, but later revived, and his condition was found to be not serious.

After reviving Meatch was able to talk. "I was going at top speed in my monoplane in an effort to win the twelve-mile race," he said, "when, looking behind, I saw Gill in his Wright biplane turning around a pylon and rapidly approaching me a few feet below. I jerked the elevator, thinking to give him ample space to clear beneath me. From the cockpit of my monoplane I was unable to get a good view of just what was happening, but it seems that Gill, driving straight ahead, hit my understructure. This had the effect of bounding me off and knocking me to the ground. For a few moments I saw Gill unconscious. When I revived, I saw Gill lying in the wreckage of his machine not fifty feet away. We had collided in mid-air."

Darkness Causes Accident. Darkness was said to be primarily the cause of the accident. Paul Peck, on the same field the other day, met his death at 5:45 p. m. Saturday, accident occurred at 6 p. m., when, while there was still light higher up, it almost was completely dark near the ground.

Meatch said just before the monoplane race was to start he protested to the officials of the Aero club of Illinois against racing in the darkness, but the start was called and he went up.

SEARCH SWAMPS FOR MAN WHO SHOT FOUR

Ex-Army Sharp Shooter Wounds Brewer and Clerks in Pennsylvania Town; Threatens Posses

Clearfield, Pa., Sept. 16.—Heavily armed men are searching the swamps and forests of Clearfield and Somerset counties today for John Keeler, a teamster, who shot and fatally wounded John W. Rossner, wealthy head of a brewery, and seriously injured three clerks Saturday night.

Keeler, who served ten years in the United States army, much of the time as a scout in the Philippine Islands, escaped, but was found near here Sunday. He held off his pursuers with a rifle, shouting, "I got four, but I want six more."

He is known to be a dead shot and the authorities believe he will never be taken alive. The trouble was the outcome of a dispute over wages.

MURDERER DIES IN ELECTRIC CHAIR

Auburn, N. Y., Sept. 16.—James Williams, a negro murderer, died in the electric chair early today at the state prison here, and delivered a rambling valedictory. "Gentlemen, don't kill me," he pleaded as he entered the chamber at 6 o'clock, the priests and guards generally urging him. He wore his old working clothes and a soft cap. "After taking his seat he said: "Gentlemen, don't kill me. I want to warn you about the women. Keep away from the women. That's what got me here."

Williams killed an aged farmer, James Duffy, with a club, near Honeoye, N.Y., in 1911, and later attempted to assault his victim's daughter.

HAYWOOD HELD FOR CONSPIRACY

LEADER OF INDUSTRIAL WORKERS HELD IN CONNECTION WITH TEXTILE STRIKE.

Lawrence, Mass., Sept. 16.—William D. Haywood, general organizer of the Industrial Workers of the World, pleaded not guilty before Judge John F. Quinn in the superior court here today to two indictments charging him with conspiracy in connection with last winter's textile strike in this city. He was held for trial under $1,000 bonds. No date for the trial was set.

His arrest took place yesterday afternoon after a mass meeting on Boston common to protest against the jailing of Etter, Giovannitti and Caruso, leaders in the strike. Fred H. Moore, of Los Angeles, who will defend the strike leaders, was prepared to represent Haywood in court.

Despite the expectation that a strike might be called to protest against the imprisonment of the strike leaders, the operatives in the woolen and cotton mills reported for work when the factories opened today.

Haywood Arrested in Boston. Boston, Mass., Sept. 16.—William D. Haywood of Denver, general organizer of the Industrial Workers of the World was arrested here Sunday on a capias warrant issued as a result of an indictment by the Essex county grand jury, charging him with conspiracy in connection with the strike of textile workers in Lawrence last winter. He was released on $1,000 bond.

The exact nature of the conspiracy with which Haywood is charged was not mentioned in the indictment. Just before his arrest, Haywood, in addressing a mass meeting of 15,000 persons on Boston Common, had sounded a call for a general strike of New England workers to begin a nationwide movement as a protest against the "arrest, imprisonment and trial of Etter, Giovannitti and Caruso." These three industrial workers, who were active during the Lawrence strike, are charged with conspiracy to murder in connection with the shooting of a striker, Anna Lopizzo, during a riot in Lawrence last January.

Urges a Nation-Wide Strike. At today's meeting banners were displayed calling for the release of the three leaders, and Haywood was cheered when he cried: "We will open the jail doors or close the mill gates."

In urging a general strike, the speaker declared it probably would be a fact by the end of the coming week, and that it surely would come before Sept. 30, the date set for the beginning of the leaders' trials. He advised the assembled workers to begin the strike tomorrow.

"If you leave your benches tomorrow, you will make no mistake," he said. "Any time between now and Sept. 30 will do, but the sooner the better. If you go out tomorrow you will be the forerunners, the vanguard of a great movement for freedom." Haywood declared that such a strike, as a movement of general protest would "save lives just as did that great movement of sympathy and support which resulted in the vindication of Moyer, Pettibone and myself."

Indictment Several Months Ago. The indictment on which Haywood was arrested was returned by the Essex county grand jury several months ago, and although the state police made preparations to arrest him when it was announced that he would come to the state today, no interference with the mass meeting was attempted. Haywood held a reception on the common, delivered his speech and then hurried away through the crowd to one of the common exits, where officers of the state police met him and took him in an automobile to the police station. He was ordered to appear Monday before the superior criminal court of Essex county, at Lawrence. Bail was furnished by Attorney Fred H. Moore of Los Angeles.

Candidate Dunn Cancels Speeches. Davenport, Sept. 16.—E. G. Dunn, democratic candidate for governor of Iowa, has cancelled his speaking dates for the next few days and will return home to Mason City tonight. He has a bad cold and is unable to speak. Mr. and Mrs. Dunn have been in Davenport since Saturday. He spoke at a rally here Saturday night.

GYP THE BLOOD AND COMPANION ARE ARRAIGNED

Horowitz and "Lefty Louie" After Capture in Brooklyn Flat, Appear in Court to Plead Today.

New York, Sept. 16.—Harry Horowitz, alias "Gyp the Blood," and "Lefty Louie" Rosenzweig, when arranged today on indictments charging them with the murder of Herman Rosenthal, the gambler, evidenced no more disposition to give information or make any admissions than they did yesterday when Assistant District Attorney Moss questioned them for three hours.

Forty or more letters and postcards found in the room of the two men may furnish important information to the state's attorney. Detectives ransacked the apartment and beneath the boards of the floor and tucked under carpets, correspondence was found which Deputy Police Commissioner Dougherty says is of importance to the prosecution.

When arraigned, at the request of counsel for Horowitz and Rosenzweig, pleading was adjourned until Sept. 18. The wives of the prisoners and Max Kahn, the alleged pickpocket, arrested in the flat occupied by them, were held in $2,500 bail each as material witnesses.

Rosenzweig's Arrest. "Gyp the Blood" and "Lefty Louie," the missing gun men indicted as two of the actual slayers of Herman Rosenthal, the gambler, were found by the police Saturday night to be living with their wives in a flat in Brooklyn. They were arrested by Deputy Police Commissioner Dougherty and a squad of detectives, who brought them to police headquarters and locked them up.

The two men had been occupying the flat since August 15, and were alone until last Sunday, when they were joined by their wives, through whom clews to their whereabouts were obtained by the police.

The four were sitting at tea when Deputy Commissioner Dougherty and his men burst open the door of their apartment, and, with revolvers drawn, ordered them to hold up their hands. Neither of the men made any show of resistance.

Gyp Keeps His Nerve. "Drop your guns, you've got 'em," said "Gyp" calmly. "Give us a little time to get dressed, will you?" said "Lefty," with equal coolness. The women, however, made a scene, throwing their arms around their husbands' necks and shedding copious tears. They had to be torn away from the men before the police could get their husbands out of the apartment, and were later brought to police headquarters.

"With the arrest of 'Gyp' and 'Lefty' whose real names are Harry Horowitz and Louis Rosenzweig, all of the seven men accused of the murder of Rosenthal, of which Police Lieutenant Charles Baker is the alleged instigator, are now in custody. The capture of the two men was the result of unbroken surveillance on their wives.

How Clews Were Followed. This surveillance was maintained by sixty detectives in relays. The final clew came as the result of piecing together a number of conversations overheard at different times. The first was, "They are not ignominious, because they can see a moving picture show from their back windows."

Another conversation gave the information that there was a laundry in the house where the missing men lived, which was named either the "New Brighton," "The Bright," or the "Bright Hand Laundry."

The third conversation supplied the fact that the neighborhood "was full of Swedes and Germans." It then became Commissioner Dougherty's task to discover somewhere a hand laundry in proximity to a moving picture show in a vicinity inhabited by Swedes and Germans.

The detectives, however, did not assume that the gun men were necessarily located in New York. One laundry clew took them to New Haven and another to Pittsburgh.

Early Saturday Detectives Myer and Cassano discovered in Brooklyn the "New Brighton Hand Laundry," which perfectly fitted all requirements. They set themselves to watch the apartments situated above the laundry and late in the afternoon were rewarded by seeing "Gyp the Blood's" wife enter the building. Both wives had been missing since Tuesday and the detectives were certain they were with their husbands.

Neither gun man appeared to be in funds. "Gyp" having only $18 in his possession and "Lefty" $10. A thorough search of the apartment, which was poorly furnished with fittings bought, it was learned, on the installment plan, revealed no other valuables nor were there weapons of any kind to be found.

The search, however, disclosed the presence of a fifth person in the apartment, Samuel Kramer, with a record as a pickpocket. The police finger print record showed that the man was Kramer. He is being detained on the charge of harboring murderers.
