SAINT PAUL MAN CLAIMS TREASURE

ALLEGES HE UNKNOWNLY BROUGHT GOLD FROM ENGLAND WHEN A BOY.

Prairie du Chien, Wis., Dec. 2.—A claimant has appeared for the hoard of gold found on the Nagle farm near Patch Grove about the first of September in the person of one Tom Riley, a blacksmith supposed to be living in St. Paul.

It was never known just how much money Nagle and his hired men found in tin cans that were hidden in the stone foundation of the old barn, but the finders have admitted that the coins were dated along about 1820.

Nagle was an old bachelor who died many years ago, but along in 1857 or 1859, the old bachelor's sister sent Tom Riley, her son, to the uncle in this country to live with him. Tom landed in Cassville, and from there went by ox team to the farm near Patch Grove. The boy was nine years old, and bore a heavy box, which he was instructed never to lose sight of, and to deliver unopened to his uncle. The boy delivered the box safely, but never saw it again after placing it in Nagle's hands.

Young Riley, boy like, told his playmates of the heavy burden he had lugged from England and wondered what had become of it, as he was anxious to know what it contained. The following year the barn, under which the gold was found, was built, and it is supposed that this is the lot that old man Nagle received from the boy.

As time went by the old bachelor made life unbearable for the youngster, and he went to work for a neighbor, where he remained for several years, afterwards marrying the neighbor's daughter. Riley then went with his wife to St. Paul, where he engaged in blacksmithing, and where he has lived ever since.

FORMER OTTUMWA MAN HAS OLD RELIC

LEO STEVENS IS THE POSSESSOR OF LETTER TO ADMIRAL DECATUR.

Leo E. Stevens, president of the Century Savings bank of Des Moines, and formerly cashier of the Ottumwa National bank, has recently come into possession of a much valued relic of the war of 1812. This is a letter from the navy department, bearing the signature of Paul Hamilton, and written to Commodore Decatur. The date of the letter is June 5, 1810, and carries instructions as to the handling of armed merchantmen in American waters. A copy of the letter follows:

If within a marine league of the coast of the United States any British or French armed vessel should molest any of our merchant vessels, you will use all means in your power to defend and protect such merchant vessels, and within the harbors; and within the waters of the United States above low water mark, you will extend the defense and protection to merchant vessels to whatever nation belonging. And in all cases where defense and protection are hereby authorized, you will take possession of the offending private armed vessels, if found or overtaken within the jurisdictional limits of the United States, and give notice thereof to the district attorney that such proceedings may be had as the case may require.

If any private armed vessel be found within our waters or hovering on our coast within the marine league, and there be ground to suspect the same of a piratical character, or that she has been illegally fitted out, or augmented in her force within the United States, or has proceeded therefrom in pursuance of any military expedition or enterprise contrary to law, you will seize the same and give like notice, for the like purpose, to the district attorney of the United States.

If within our harbors and waters you should discover any of our citizens affording any aid to any foreign armed vessel, either in repairing her, or in furnishing her officers or crew with supplies of any kind, or if you should discover any pilot assisting in navigating such armed vessel unless for the purpose of carrying her beyond the limits and jurisdiction of the United States, you will require two or more of your crew to observe particularly such citizen or pilot, so offending, and transmit the name of such citizen or pilot and the name of the witnesses to the attorney of the district in which the offense shall be committed in order that such proceedings may be had against such offenders as the law directs.

You will not construe these orders as requiring to use force, beyond our ports or harbors, although within a marine league of our coast, in any case when there is not a prospect of success.

You will issue orders corresponding with these to all the officers under
