In Memoriam

Bessie Margarette, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Lynno, was born near Agency, September 12, 1907, and departed this life April 26, 1914, being 7 years, 7 months and 14 days of age. She was of a bright and sunny disposition and was a general favorite with her school mates and young friends. She was in her second year of school work, being bright and capable and always faithful to her Sabbath school class. She was the cheer and brightness of the home, now so sadly bereaved. How short was her life, yet how beautiful.
She leaves a sister, Beryl, who was her constant companion, now left to walk the pathway of childhood with only the sacred memories of the loved sister to cheer her in her loneliness, also her father and mother, whose breaking hearts yearn for the one gone home.
Funeral services were conducted at the Agency M. E. church by M. D. Cox, pastor of M. E. church at 2 p. m. April 28. Interment in Agency cemetery.—Contributed.

CATARRH

CATARRH of nose and Throat, Coughs, Colds and Bronchitis are very prevailing diseases. We remove obstructions to nose and throat, open up the channels so the air can enter the lungs pure. Tonsils treated and removed, as well as all obstructions to nose and throat. Special treatment.

LUNG DISEASES often come from neglected catarrh. Catarrh of the stomach is often an extension of catarrh of nose and throat, produces indigestion and formation of gases, pain and tenderness at pit of stomach. The liver and intestines may become affected. ELECTRICITY and other treatments besides medicine are used. M. practice of twenty-five years in Ottumwa has made me an expert in the treatment of ALL catarrhal troubles and am at your command.

(REVIEW OF SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.)

WHEN JEALOUSY UNCROWNED A KING.

The International Sunday School Lesson for May 2 is "Saul Tries to Kill David."—1 Sam. ch. 19.

(By William T. Ellis.)
A king in the grip of the mean, mad passion of jealousy is our lesson story today. Israel's monarch, Saul, had his moments of bigness and of littleness, but he shriveled to the vanishing point when he yielded to the ignoble passion of jealousy against the young hero deliverer of the nation, David, the slayer of Goliath. As is often physiologically true, the jealousy which was at first only a mental attitude became a real disease, and drove the king into a sort of frenzy which lasted until his death. It uncrowned him, even before his head was cut off by a Philistine.

The song of the dancing women, as the soldiers returned from victory over the Philistines, seems first to have planted definitely in Saul's soul the seeds of jealousy. They cried, indiscreetly, "Saul hath slain his thousands and David his ten thousands."

Of course, this was foolish and un-discriminating; most evasions are. Public applause is not the most judicial thing in the world. Saul should have known better than to take it at face value. If even the most mediocre speaker should accept at face value the praise accorded him, it would turn his head.

As the prima donna looks upon her proficent understudy, as King Herod regarded the boy babes of Bethlehem, so Saul "eyed David." He saw in him a possible usurper. He feared for his crown. Every note of acclaim in the women's praise of David he understood as condemnation of himself. He "ate bitterness," as the expressive Chinese phrase has it. Instead of resisting the temptation to jealousy, and instead of combating it by sharing sincerely in praise of David, he nursed the foul passion until it had grown to overmastering size. Thrice the king's fury so far overcame him that in a fit of passion he hurled his spear at David; for the spirit of jealousy, unchecked, easily becomes the spirit of murder.

The very fact that David was noble won him the enmity of the ignoble king. David was not sanctimonious, flaunting his goodness in the face of the jealous monarch; the record runs that he behaved himself discreetly. He was not forward, but modest. So far as possible, he kept himself in the background. But when there was any fighting to be done for the nation, then he was foremost in meeting the enemy.

Even when the king tempted him by offering his daughter as a bride, David held back. He shrank from the presumption of being a son-in-law to the king. He knew the perils that high place brings. Already his success had made him enemies, as success usually does; therefore he sought the background, and a post fitting his family station.

Nevertheless, when the marriage became clearly the right course for him to adopt, our hero did not shrink, even though his royal father demanded that he slay a hundred Philistines as a wedding dowry. David saw through this subtlety to send him into danger; the ruse is as old as jealousy and as new as the latest lie from the Europ-county, Ohio, with his parents at the age of four years, where he grew to manhood. On August 21, 1851, he was born and reared in Ohio.

Following this event, he carried on farming in the Buckeye state for five years, when he disposed of his property and came to Iowa, moving the whole way in a wagon. He selected for a home a farm in Linn township, Cedar county, which site they occupied for thirty years, when he moved to a farm near Cedar Bluffs. About three years after moving to this place on April 13, 1891, occurred the death of his wife. Eight years after this he removed to Mechanicsville, Iowa, where he resided until the time of his death. On August 24, 1899, he was married to Mrs. Sarah Edith Kahler, who survives him.

To the union by his first marriage eleven children were born. Three of these children died in infancy. On Dec. 15, 1902, Marshall C., the oldest son, passed to his reward. Three sons and four daughters are left to mourn the loss of a kind and loving father. They are: Winifred S., and Elmer F., of Linn county, Iowa; Edna, of Cedar Rapids; Emma Baker, of Mechanicsville; Mrs. G. W. Wallick of Sterling, Ill.; Altie M., Brown of Cedar Bluffs; Mrs. Eva Gonsolus of San Jose, Cal. All these children were in attendance at his last sickness except Mrs. Gonsolus who is so far away.

The deceased when 20 years of age made a public profession of his faith in Christ and was baptized, uniting with the Christian church under the preaching of Elder C. W. Walker. He remained a faithful member of this church until his death. Sixty-five years of Christian experience is a rich contribution to the power of the Christian religion to sustain and keep the soul through the changing scenes of this earthly life.

The funeral was held under the charge of Rev. White, pastor of the Christian church at Cedar Rapids. Burial at Wallick cemetery, near Cedar Bluffs.

MOTOR BUS LINE IS READY TO START

ALL PREPARATIONS HAVE BEEN MADE FOR INITIAL SERVICE TO FREMONT.

All is in readiness for the inauguration of the motor bus line service which will begin at 8 o'clock Saturday morning between Ottumwa and Fremont and interlying points under the auspices of the Retail Merchants association.

The seven passenger car which will be used for the work is scheduled to start at that time from in front of the Ottumwa commercial association rooms arriving at Fremont at 9 o'clock. The return is to be made from there at 9:30 from in front of the band stand. A return trip to the Mahaska county city will be made at 4:30 in the afternoon from in front of the local association rooms.

Oliver Brooks and Alfred Brooks are being held in the Wapello county jail under bonds of $5,000 each, upon the charge of committing a statutory offense which is said to have occurred near Floris on Monday evening of this week, April 26.

The men were arraigned before Judge Francis M. Hunter in the district court this morning and Saturday fixed as the time to enter their pleas. They were arrested late Thursday afternoon by Sheriff C. C. Cremer, in a field in which they were working near Floris and immediately brought to this city. An indictment against each of them had been reported to the sheriff from the grand jury earlier in the afternoon.

BATAVIA MEN PLAN TO OIL THE ROADS

Batavia, April 30.—According to the enthusiasm of the past few days it is quite probable that the main street of Batavia will be oiled in the near future. This project has been talked of for the past two years, but no definite action was ever taken.

The results of oil upon the streets is no longer an experiment, but a known benefit and success, and the business men and property owners here have decided to get in on this and have a clean, dustless thoroughfare. To this end a mass meeting is called for next Monday evening, May 3, at Mayor Brent's office, and at which every business man and interested citizen is expected to be present.

It is said by authorities that the earlier in the year the oil is applied to the streets, the better the results, that is, before the hard surface of the streets has been worked into dust. Oil applied now would be effective all summer and the good effects evident even a year hence.

There are numerous localities near here where results can also be investigated. Agency, a neighboring city, oiled the streets there last summer and is preparing to apply more this spring.

FARMINGTON.

The high school juniors gave a banquet for the seniors Friday evening in the Red Men hall which was prettily decorated with potted plants, class colors, etc. The following menu was served: Chicken cocktail, clear soup, olives, chicken croquettes, mashed potatoes, gravy, pickles, orange ice, Waldorf salad, wafers, brick ice cream, nabiscoes, coffee, minis.

Paul Hawk, president of the junior class, acted as toastmaster and easily demonstrated his ability as a public speaker.

Superintendent Owen took this occasion to present to Earl Sowers the medal offered by the officiating minister in American history. The juniors feel extremely grateful to Mrs. Edna Robison and Mrs. E. S. Keeley through whose untiring efforts the success of the banquet was assured.

Toasts were responded to by Superintendent Owen, Misses Kate Mathes, Nellie Barry, Cora Swingle and also a number of seniors.

Mrs. Minnie Blackledge of Mt. Sterling, was a recent guest of Mrs. H. J. Locke.

On Saturday morning at 10 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Minnie McDaniel occurred the marriage of her daughter Nora, to Clyde Mylan. Rev. D. W. Phillips was the officiating minister. Both Mr. Mylan and his bride are well known young people and have the best wishes of a host of friends for their future happiness. They left on the Rock Island for Chicago where they will spend their honeymoon visiting relatives.

BUTTER PRICE IN U. S. TO BE LOWER

Chicago, April 30.—The European war will result in making the price of butter cheaper to the American consumer, according to J. A. Walker, president of a Chicago butter concern, who addressed the Illinois Creamery Butter Manufacturers' association yesterday.

"Denmark, New Zealand and Siberia, which countries are great exporters of butters, have found it difficult to ship their product to countries now at war," Mr. Walker said, "and are sending their butter to America. When the season of butter production is at its height I believe there will be a general depression in the market."

SALEM.

LITIGANTS IN $50,000 LIBEL SUIT

WILLIAM BARNES, JR. THEODORE ROOSEVELT

This photograph shows William Barnes, Jr., former chairman of the republican state committee of New York and leader in the successful fight against Theodore Roosevelt in the republican national convention of 1912, and Mr. Roosevelt as they appeared in Syracuse, N. Y., ready for the trial of the suit of the former for $50,000 libel. The two did not pose together. In fact, for the first day of the session of the court they did not notice each other.

MEN ARE PLEASED WITH CONDITIONS

EXAMINERS FROM STATE AUDITING DEPARTMENT GOING OVER BOOKS HERE.

J. I. Israel and C. E. Davey of Des Moines, who are in the city going over the books of the different offices at the court have expressed themselves as being well pleased with conditions as they have found them so far.

These men are from state auditing department at Des Moines and are in Ottumwa on one of the regular biennial visits which representatives from there make to all of the counties in the state. They are closing up their second week's work and expect to be here at least a month longer. The books and accounts from the auditor's office are being looked over first with the others to follow in order. The task is no small one as it represents a complete checking of every bill, voucher and statement made during the two years of 1913 and 1914.

John Lewis and wife of Bloomfield were guests of the Roy Morrison family Friday.

Mrs. Louise McCoy returned Friday from a week's stay in Oskaloosa.

Mrs. Kate Billingsly and her father, Wm. Woods went to Mount Pleasant Saturday evening.

School closed here April 23 with an entertainment at the opera house in the evening. A large crowd was present and an excellent program was well given by the children. About forty dollars were cleared.

G. E. Anderson bought the property east of the railroad which he sold to Curt Lee and will take possession of October 1. Mr. Lee will build a residence on his farm west of town.
