Grain Review

Chicago, Oct. 13.—Wheat advanced today on account of a sharp rise in quotations at Liverpool, where speculative buying was reported to be on a broad scale with supplies still inadequate. Opening prices, which ranged from 1 to 2c higher, with December at $1.06@1.07 and May at $1.07@1.08, was followed by a slight further gain, and then something of a reaction.

Crop damage reports lifted corn. The bulge, however, resulted in heavy profit taking by longs. After opening 7 1/2 to 8 1/2c higher, the market made an additional ascent but later underwent a moderate sag.

Oats kept pace with corn. Active demand carried provisions sharply upgrade.

Stock Market

New York, Oct. 13.—Higher levels were reached by specialties in stock trading today before noon, Baldwin rising to 134 1/4, Studebaker to 154 1/2 and a new record, Crude Steel 3 to 9 3/4, Continental 5 to 117 and American Woolen 4 to 54.

Butte-Superior led another advance in coppers at 3 1/2 to 6 1/4. Wills-Overyland set the pace for automobile shares at 5 1/2 to 2 1/2, Maxwells adding to initial gains in expectation of favorable dividend action. Bonds were strong.

Beginning today the stock exchange will quote half stocks or those shares whose par value is $50, on the dollar basis instead of the percentage basis as heretofore.

Chief among these stocks are the several classes of Reading railway issues, Lehigh Valley, Philadelphia railroad, Westinghouse Electric, Westinghouse Manufacturing, Philadelphia Co. and such inactive stocks as Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad, together with its subsidiary, the Morris and Essex railroad.

An accumulation of buying orders over the holiday was denoted by the higher range of prices on the resumption of trading today. The most noteworthy exception was Reading, which opened at the new "dollar" basis of 80, a decline of 1 1/2 to 1/4 from Monday's close.

Baldwin Locomotive opened at 131 to 132, soon touching 134, an eight point gain, and Studebaker at 147 to 147 1/2, rose 2 1/2. Westinghouse, another 1/2, rose 1/2. Maxwell group was materially higher. United States Steel made a new record for recent years on its three-eighths advance to 83. Railways were irregular.

ENGLAND INSISTS SERUM BE USED

A copy of a London publication. The Grocer's Gazette and Provision Trades News of recent date has been given The Courier by reader interested in hogs, to show the attitude of England toward use of serum in treating hogs for swine fever. The Grocer's Gazette says:

"A fortnight since we urged in these columns that the recommendations of the department committee on swine fever should be put into force forthwith, and last Saturday we announced in our parliamentary column that the recommendations had in the main been adopted, that the procedure as to serum treatment in swine fever outbreaks would be published immediately, and would be operative from the 26th inst. The board of agriculture has now issued a circular stating that:

"In view of the need for husbanding the food supply of the country the board of agriculture and the fisheries decided last August that the slaughter of pigs for the purpose merely of reducing the spread of swine fever be resorted to as little as possible, and that the slaughter of breeding sows or partially matured animals purely as a matter of precaution should be avoided. The board has therefore ruled on isolation combined with the slaughter of all swine distinctly sick of swine fever at the time of diagnosis. Meanwhile, investigations into the efficiency of the injection of anti-swine fever serum which were being carried on before the war was started have been continued, and the results obtained, together with the evidence accumulated as to its use in other countries, show that if proper precautions are taken immunity from swine fever can be established by serum treatment. The boards are now in a position to offer serum treatment of pigs free of cost, in the early stages of an outbreak of swine fever, and they wish to impress upon all owners that to obtain the best result from this treatment notification of the suspected existence of swine fever on their premises should be made at the earliest possible date. Any delay in notification not only renders the owners liable to prosecution for failing to comply with the provisions of article 1 (1) of the swine fever order of 1908, but also tends to increase his loss owing to more pigs becoming infected before serum treatment is carried out."

With some of the difficulties removed we have strong hopes that there will be a substantial increase in the home supply of pigs within the next twelve months, and if this should result, those who, like ourselves, during the past few years have urged the adoption of the methods now to be employed will feel that their efforts have not been in vain.

KENDALL THINKS BIGOTRY WANING

Taking up the discussion from a purely historical standpoint the speaker pointed to the sixth act of the federal constitution in which it is stated that no religious test shall ever be required as a qualification to any office of public trust under the United States. He emphasized the fact that this act was signed by such Catholics as Fitzsimmons of Pennsylvania and Carroll of Maryland, and such Protestants as Livingston of New Jersey and Baldwin of Georgia. He said that the first amendment which congress made respected the establishment of religion and made no law prohibiting the free exercise of it.

Mr. Kendall said, it was not a valid reason to favor a man or exclude him from preferment, simply because he was a Protestant or a Catholic and he said that he insisted on the exercise of both with equal tenacity. He cited Cardinal Gibbon's attitude on the question in which that high church man said, "The best for the office, be he Catholic or Protestant." Mr. Kendall then added that a man who supports another for office on that reason alone violates the constitution of the United States and is undesirable as a citizen and as a man.

"I appeal to all Protestants as to what they have read, heard or seen which warrants the statement that that Catholics must swear all allegiance to the pope. I say, that the pope is the supreme head of the Catholic church, but, his power ends when the civilian's begins. I call your attention to the statement of your Father Sherman, son of the great General Sherman. He said, 'The pope is my spiritual father but let him infringe upon my rights as a man and I will march to the Vatican as Tecumseh marched through Indiana.'

Again looking at the proposition from the historical standpoint of the speaker mentioned the opening up of the Mississippi valley, in which today 30,000,000 people find homes, by Father Marquette, La Salle, Duluth and Hennepin, all Catholics. He called them the advance agents of a religious liberty, which they could not enjoy in the old world and which they resolved to confirm in this. He diagnosed the day of militant Protestantism that followed as a melancholy reflection. He discussed the time during the revolution when men's souls were tried and the nation was at peril, how, when it was least expected help and aid came from Catholic France and Catholic Lafayette.

"Does that mean that this church is working to overthrow this country's government?" said Mr. Kendall, "one side is inspired by the Prince of Peace and the other is enslaved by the darkness of bigotry." He read important correspondence which passed between George Washington and Catholic Americans at the time of the general's election as the first president of the United States. He cited the instance at the time that Fort Sumpter was assaulted when Catholic young men stood shoulder to shoulder with their Protestant brothers in the great fratricidal struggle between freedom and slavery. "Catholics by profession, but Americans first, last and all the time," the speaker called them.

"Later on when America listened to the imperative demands of enlightened civilization and took upon herself to free Cuba, Catholic boys hurried to the colors from every town, village and hamlet in the United States and lined up against Catholic Spain. Only more recently than that; the first young man to carry his flag onto Mexican soil at Vera Cruz and be shot down while defending his country's honor was Catholic. The issue is a vital one for it relates to the freedom of citizenship and is filled with vitalizing. Society will eventually boycott this bugbear of Catholic ascendancy rumors."
