

Treatment of Anger in Children

Often sees a child who is overcome by anger. He will throw himself on the floor and be utterly unconscious of what is happening to him, or probably of what he himself is doing. The more that is said to him when he is in such a condition, the more violent he becomes. He is, for all practical purposes, insane. That is to say, he has lost the power of control. When anger becomes established in this way in the organism, it dominates everything—heart, lungs, every vital process. The more a child is stimulated under such a condition, whether he be scolded, or threatened, or whipped, or pleaded with, the more completely the anger will get control of him. You cannot reason with him, because reason is dethroned for the time being. He is even unconscious of pain, so completely does the emotion dominate his feelings.

It is absurd to whip a child who is overcome by anger. It is just as bad to tie a handkerchief around his mouth. The best thing to do is to let him alone, and let his passion wear itself out. If he could be taken before the anger gets the upper hand of him, he might be controlled. A parent who can tell when his child is likely to get into a tantrum can sometimes stop it by dashing cold water in his face, or by suddenly taking him in her arms and holding him securely, without talking to him. This latter plan will work in some cases, and in other cases it will simply be the means of hastening the tempest. Ordinarily the best way to treat an abnormal condition like this is to let it alone.

What the parent should do is to study the things which will arouse the child's anger and then avoid these things. It is the height of folly for a parent to excite anger in a child, and then try to control it by punishment. It is worse than folly; it is brutal, and is likely to ruin the child. — M. V. O'Shea in the April Mother's Magazine.

In Memoriam

C. D. Rickey. The community was startled Tuesday afternoon when the report became current that a few minutes before, at 1:40 P. M., the spirit of this comrade of the Savior had slipped away from earth's cares and concerns and had found a place in the realm of the Eternal.

Though his illness was of a serious nature, pneumonia and heart trouble combined, and his advanced age made recovery in a measure impossible, still his death was a shock to his many friends.

Mr. Rickey was born in Pickaway County, Ohio, May 16th, 1842, and departed this life Tuesday April 25, 1916, being at the time of his death seventy-four years of age. For the last three years he has made his home with his daughter, Mrs. Manda Searcy.

Mr. Rickey enlisted in the Federal Army July 15th, 1861 for three years later enlisting for the remainder of the war. He was in Co. H, Seventh Iowa Volunteer Infantry. He saw much real service and was in Sherman's march to the sea.

At the close of the war, on December 28th, 1866 Mr. Rickey was united in marriage to Mary A. Kirkpatrick, and to this union the following children were born: Amanda Searcy, of Olive; Laura Hodges, of Culver, Oregon; William and Arthur Rickey, both residing at Independence, Iowa; Olive Traider, of Ottumwa; and Jesse and Waldo, who have preceded their father in the grave. He leaves one sister, Mrs. Melissa E. Gilder of Wellman, Iowa, also nine grandchildren. The widow, one son, one daughter, were unable to attend the funeral on account of sickness.

About forty years ago Mr. Rickey professed saving faith in Christ and united with the M. E. church at Sigourney, later transferring his membership to Ottumwa where it is today. He ever lived the beautiful and simple Christian life, and died in the calm assurance of life and glory in the world to come. To his children he has left a godly heritage.

Funeral services were conducted at the Baptist Church by the pastor, Rev. E. V. Goad Thursday at 2 P. M. in the presence of a large assembly of sorrowing relatives and friends. Selections very beautiful, appropriate and suggestive of the life of the deceased were rendered by the choir. Interment took place in the Deamond cemetery. —Contributed.

FLORIDA LANDS FIGURE IN SUIT

Kansas City, Mo., May 9.—The trial of Richmond J. Bolles, president of the Florida Lands Co., Jacksonville, Fla., charged in indictments with using the mails to defraud and promoting a conspiracy, was set for hearing in the federal court here today.

At a previous hearing several weeks ago attorneys for Bolles, who is in Florida, introduced evidence showing that his client was unable, because of advanced age, to stand the trip here for trial.

Attorneys for the government in counter evidence introduced witnesses who testified to the good health of Bolles in his Florida home.

According to the indictments the land which Bolles attempted to sell was, in the eyes of the government, unfit for the purpose the land company claimed for it through the mails.

SHIPPING BILL IS AGAIN INTRODUCED

Washington, D. C., May 9.—With the introduction in the house today by Chairman Alexander of the revised administration shipping bill, democratic leaders were prepared to expedite consideration of the measure after the pending rural credits bill is out of the way.

The leaders are confident that the new bill will have the solid support of the democrats and possibly some of the opposition. It is a combination of various shipping bills and was re-drafted by Mr. Alexander in conference with administration officials. The new bill limits government operation of vessels to five years after the war closes and retains provisions prohibiting rebating, use of "fighting ships," unfair combinations and provides for a $50,000,000 bond issue for the purchase of ships.

RAISE MONEY TO BUY AEROPLANES

New York, May 9.—The movement to equip the national guard with aeroplanes through public subscriptions has been extended to Indiana, Massachusetts, West Virginia and Oklahoma. The militia of Rhode Island, where $25,000 has been raised, has been authorized to organize an aeronautic section, the club's announcement added. Thirty states have now joined the movement.

The first of four of the many machines which the club plans to provide will be placed in commission within a month, two of them being assigned to the New York state militia. Four others are expected to be in readiness by the end of the summer, including high power fighting aeroplanes.

Those indicted are Charles C. Glover, president, William J. Flather, vice president, and Henry H. Flather, former cashier of the bank.
