WILL REPRODUCE RELIGIOUS RITES

SPECIAL INDIAN SERVICES TO ATTEND FT. ARMSTRONG CENTENNIAL.

Davenport, May 17.—Among the many features to be staged during the Ft. Armstrong centennial celebration to be held in Davenport, Rock Island and Moline and on Rock Island, the scene of many interesting and epoch making events, during the week of June 18-25 under the auspices of the Rock Island County Historical society and the historical section of the Davenport Academy of Science, to commemorate the founding of Ft. Armstrong, will be the reproduction of many of the religious and tribal rites of the Indians who formerly occupied the territory surrounding the tri-cities.

Probably the most interesting of these will be the ceremony of planting the totem poles by the Indians, one of the most solemn, awe inspiring and sacred rites practiced by the redskins. The Rock Island County Historical society has in its possession the original totem pole that was planted by the Indians at the funeral ceremony over the remains of Colonel George Davenport, after his murder by desperadoes in his home on July 4, 1845. This pole will be exhibited during the celebration and the ceremonies described by persons familiar with its history.

The territory surrounding the tri-cities is rich in history and legends of the Indians, and the ceremony anniversary of the building of Ft. Armstrong on the western point of Rock Island will bring to light many hitherto practically unknown subjects. The principal events of this kind marking the progress of the community will be set out in wonderful fashion in the grand pageant that will be produced on two nights during centennial week. The floats in the pageant will be electrically illuminated by means of specially installed trolley wires along Main avenue on Rock Island and the entire week will be one of the greatest celebrations ever staged in the middle west.

IOWA FACTORY IN LINE FOR CONTRACT

Des Moines, May 17.—An Iowa factory may furnish Uncle Sam with the first aeroplanes for the new army, according to plans announced by the war department.

The Grinnell school of aviation has submitted bids for twelve planes each of 100 horsepower, at the request of the war department. Superintendent Wells says the government wanted 125-horsepower machines, but that because most of the factories are worked to capacity making aeroplanes for the allies, the government would have to take what it can get, and the Iowa factory is the only one in the country that can handle the order.

NEARLY LOSE ALL OF PLAYERS' TRUNKS

Iowa City, May 17.—The musicians of the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra, which organization recently gave a recital here, narrowly escaped severe financial losses as the result of a runaway accident. A team attached to the transfer wagon that bore the artists' trunks ran away when frightened by a locomotive, and scattered the trunks far and near. The instruments contained therein were worth a small fortune, but it chanced that not one of the endangered violins, horns, etc., was injured in the wreckage.

NO INSTRUCTORS; SO NO CAMP NOW

Des Moines, May 17.—The United States war department has notified Adj. Gen. Guy E. Logan that no camps will be held at Sparta, Wis., or Tobyhanna, Pa., this season, nor will the school of fire be conducted at Fort Sill, Okla., because the government does not have the instructors now who can take charge of the work. The presence of the regular army troops in Mexico and along the border and elsewhere is considered the reason for giving up the maneuvers and camps usually put on during the summer season.

Adjutant General Logan and the staff of the Iowa national guard will hold a conference in a few days to try and plan some way for some sort of maneuvers or drill work this season. Field artillery practice, however, is impossible except on the Sparta, Wis., field, or at Tobyhanna, Pa., or some similar field where there can be a range of at least seven miles. To find a camp for artillery or cavalry drill is not so difficult.

RECRUITING MEN HAVE HARD TIME

Dubuque, May 17.—Local recruiting officers for the United States army had a bad week of it during the past week, not because they did not get men enough, but because they got hold of the wrong kind of men. One fellow after boarding at a local hotel at the government's expense for several days and borrowing a small sum of money from the officers departed who had been listed to go to Jefferson barracks, left the hotel while the officers were up town and took with him several suits of clothes, shoes, shirts, underclothing, etc., belonging to the officers. No trace of either man has been found.

LEAPS INTO CELLAR.

Mason City, May 17.—With her baby clasped in her arms, Mrs. James Kosik, living at 819 West Miller street, leaped into a cistern in the basement of her home and although both the mother and child were removed from the cistern within a half hour, all efforts to resuscitate the child failed. Mrs. Kosik who is believed to be mentally deranged will recover.

CAPTURE FOX ON PORCH.

Bellevue, May 17.—C. M. Walters and son, John, residing near Savanna, captured a fox in a very unusual manner last week. They had gone to River view and found the fox marooned on the porch of the cottage. The animal was nearly starved and offered no resistance when they placed it in a sack. They brought the fox home and will endeavor to tame it.

ASK PERMISSION TO MOVE COLUMN

NEXT LEGISLATURE WILL BE REQUESTED TO SANCTION CHANGE OF MONUMENT.

Des Moines, May 17.—The state executive council has decided not to attempt to move the soldiers and sailors monument from its present location on the state capitol ground until it is given specific authority by the legislature. The coming legislature will be asked to give this and if the request is acted on favorably the monument will be placed at the head of Capitol avenue and Thirteenth street, as located in the capitol extension plans by the architect.

To move the soldiers monument would cost at least $40,000. It is a question if it could be moved at all, although some of the contractors who move big buildings are willing to undertake it and claim confidently that they can move it. But it would be an expensive undertaking. The Allison monument has been placed within twelve feet of the soldiers and sailors monument. It is now partially completed.

GOOD PASTURE IS THING FOR HERDS

Ames, May 17.—Good summer pasture for the dairy herd means money for the man who milks. And yet, says H. H. Kidlee, head of the animal husbandry department at Iowa State college, the pasture is often the most neglected item on the dairy farm.

Two things are necessary for good milk producing pasture is to be maintained during the summer. First, do not turn the herd to pasture too soon. Pastured sooner than May 10, the grass will not be given a fair chance to really get started and will not amount to much throughout the whole season.

Second, grow a variety of pastures. "Knee deep in blue grass" may be all right for beef cattle, but the dairy herd requires a varied pasture that will produce a succulent crop throughout the season. Alsike, red clover and broom grass are recommended.

I am a candidate for the office of sheriff of Wapello county, Iowa, at the coming primary on the republican ticket. I have been a resident of Wapello county all of my life, residing the most of the time near Blakesburg in said county.

I have never held office at the hands of any party in my life except a short time as deputy United States marshal for the southern district of Iowa, but I have been a lifelong and an untiring worker in the republican party and have supported the party in every crisis of its existence.

I am a resident of Ottumwa, Iowa, by reason of the dependence on me of my aged mother, who is an invalid and is unable to be kept any place else by me.

I am desirous of having the nomination for said office for the reason that I am fully equipped to perform the duties of the same, and those of my friends, the people of the county who know me know I am vigorous, efficient, and fearless, and will perform my duty.

I promise, if nominated and elected, to give the office my entire time, to devote myself to the duties of the office, and to be painstaking and self-sacrificing, and will be obliging and attentive to every call of duty.

I want the office and solicit the vote of every republican in the county.
